Mass Meeting to Launch 'Sales-Jobs' Drive

PUBLIC CALLED TO RALLY AT CENTRAL PARK

Mansfield Business Recovery Campaign to Be Outlined Next Monday Night.

COMMITTEE HEADS NAMED

Business Section to Appear in Gala Attire in Drive to 'Spend for Work.'

A mass meeting next Monday night in Central park will signal the start of Mansfield's "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign —an undertaking that has proven successful in hundreds of cities.

The mass meeting, called by Richard A. Fensch, general chairman of the campaign, will be for the purpose of explaining to the general public the way the "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign works, and the part the public will play in it.

There will be speakers—but the speeches will be short and snappy —and there will be music and entertainment and some "surprise" features, committee heads said today.

Month-Long Campaign.

The mass meeting will be the first event of the month of campaigning to create jobs by stimulating business. Other events are now being developed by the committee.

With the majority of Mansfield merchants taking part in the "sales crusade," the downtown business district will be decorated with banners and pennants—constant reminders to the buying public that their purchases of necessities (and even luxuries they can afford but have put off purchasing) will create jobs which will help tremendously to bring the city, the state and the nation out of the doldrums of the depression. Each store participating in the "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign will have a sign announcing that fact. Throughout the month, there will be special events of one kind and another.

"Smile When You Buy."

Salespeople in the stores will wear buttons bearing the words "Sales Mean Jobs." The slogan of the campaign will be "Sales Mean Jobs—Smile When You Buy."

Main speaker at Monday night's mass meeting, which is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock, will be Dr. George Ellison of Edison Institute, New York City.

General-Chairman Fensch today announced the name of various other committee workers who have enrolled in the drive to set the wheels of business and industry moving at a faster pace.

Committees are as follows:

Publicity: Joy A. Herbert, chairman; John W. Graham, John A.

Lilienthal Admits Morgan Not Told of TVA 'Yardstick'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(U.P.)—Director David E. Lilienthal of the Tennessee Valley Authority admitted under sharp questioning today that former TVA Chairman Arthur Morgan did not know the agency's "yardstick" power rates until he read them in a newspaper.

Rep. Charles A. Wolverton, R., N. J., member of the congressional committee investigating TVA, questioned Lilienthal.

Lilienthal insisted, however, that those rates were announced as "proposed rates" and that they later were revised by the board.

He said they were announced for negotiating purposes only so as to inform municipalities who wished to buy TVA power "approximately what they would be expected to retail the power for."

$5,725,406 Paid Sugar Beet Growers In 1937 Program.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The agricultural adjustment administration reported today that benefit payments made up to July 1 to sugar beet growers who co-operated with the production control program totaled $5,725,406.

The payments to Ohio were reported as $128,392.

Fairground Bustles, Big Week Arrives

Board Rents Tents for Exhibit Overflow, Space At Premium.

Trucks pulling noisily under the strain of heavy loads . . . the rumble and clatter of equipment being unloaded . . . the rhythmic beat of sledge hammers pounding on tent stakes . . . and the shouts of workmen hurrying to get their jobs done.

This scene was typical at the Richland county fairground today. It meant just two things. First it was the arrival of "fair week" in Mansfield, and secondly that preparations were in full swing for what is planned to be the greatest farm exposition Richland county has seen.

The early movement of exhibits and amusements devices is attributed to the fact that the Richland fair is the first in Ohio this year, and it already has brought H. H. Wolf, fair board president, and Secretary C. C. Hout problems of providing space for anxious exhibitors and concession operators.

The detailed program and time schedule for the three-day fair will be found on Page Two of today's News-Journal.

Racing Entries Set Record.

With all stable space filled for the three-day harness racing program opening Wednesday, plans are being made to quarter the overflow at the Ashland fairground. More than 100 horses are stabled here and now more are arriving daily. A total of more than 200 is expected.

Reservations for space by exhibitors of livestock, farm produce, sheep, hogs, and draft horses have exceeded expectations. In a special meeting yesterday, fair officials decided to rent tents in which to place exhibits for which there are no accommodations.

All day yesterday heavily loaded trucks moved onto the fair lot. Amusement rides, mid-way attractions and even peanut vendors have taken up their stand.

The booming reports of a half dozen aerial bombs will signal the opening of the fair Wednesday afternoon. It will run through Friday night.

Meanwhile, fair officials were encouraged by forecasts that favorable weather will prevail during the three-day fair. For the last three years rain and cool weather has cut attendance and curtailed their program.

O. S. R. Trusties Who Stole Guard's Car Elude Capture.

Three trusties who wrecked a guards' automobile in their wild dash for freedom from the Mansfield reformatory Friday were still at large today, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke reported.

Glattke said no trace had been found of the three fugitives who wrecked the car of Guard E. T. Hicks at Savannah, seven miles north of Ashland. A complete description of the trio was broadcast to authorities throughout the state.

The trusties who were working on the reformatory lawn when they escaped are Elmer Fitzgerald, 20, from Montgomery county; Russell Mason, 20, of Muskingum county and William Jackson, 19, of Hamilton county.

They Know—They'll Know In Two More Weeks

The two men at the left know today what their immediate political fortunes are, while the other four will know in just about two weeks. The two men at the left are Texans, and the four beside them are Ohioans. Top left is W. Lee O'Daniel, "hillbilly" flour salesman, who ran away with the Texas Democratic nomination for governor, in his first venture into politics. Below him is Rep. Maury Maverick, staunch New Deal supporter, who was defeated for renomination. The four pictured at the right ought to be familiar to all Ohioans. They are (top) Charles Sawyer and Gov. Martin L. Davey, hotly contesting for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and (bottom) former Gov. George White and Senator Robert J. Bulkley, who are seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination. All four are set for a hot two weeks of campaigning before the election Aug. 9.

TEXANS CHOOSE 'POLITICAL BABY'

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS — W. Lee O'Daniel, the novice politician who made a shambles of Texas political precedent, today assured his public he would be a "regular fellow" as governor and scoffed at the possibility of a dictatorship.

Mired indirectly in the O'Daniel landslide were two potent New Deal members of congress, tart-tongued Maury Maverick and Morgan Sanders, who was slated for eventual chairmanship of the powerful house ways and means committee.

Fourteen infants already had been named for O'Daniel, a political babe-in-arms.

Latest Texas election bureau returns gave him 403,582 votes, a clear majority of 17,963 over 11 opponents.

Crushed in the O'Daniel landslide touched off by liberal old-age pension promises were an attorney general, a railroad commissioner and a big city mayor.

Dem Leaders Help Fight Quiz of 'Little New Deal.'

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Democratic leaders rallied aound Gov. George H. Earle today for a legislative fight against a grand jury investigation of Pennsylvania's "Little New Deal."

Earle seeks from the Democratic-controlled legislature, which begins a special session tonight, laws to curb such inquiries and "protect the constitutional rights" of the legislative and executive arms of the government.

He summoned the legislature as a final expedient in his three-months' battle against charges of blackmail, extortion and coercion of state employes aimed at him and 13 of his associates.

SAYS GOVERNOR URGED LEVIES

(By United Press)

In a new attack upon his opponent for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination Charles Sawyer today belittled Governor Martin L. Davey's campaign issue that no new taxes had been levied during his administration and charged that in 1937 the governor asked for a 20 per cent increase in the motor fuel tax.

"Two years ago my opponent based his campaign largely upon the pledge of 'no new taxes'," Sawyer said. "He is playing a return engagement today. The only reason that there have been no new taxes is not because my opponent has not asked for them. It's because the legislators turned him down every time he did."

Sawyer recalled that on Feb. 20, 1937, after the Ohio river flood, the governor "asked the legislature for a new tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline which would have cost the truck owners and motorists of Ohio $12,000,000."

"The general assembly refused to honor that demand for more money to be raised by a new tax and did not pass the bill," he said. "It would have raised the people's motor fuel tax by 20 per cent."

He said that whereas the gov-

Chief Back From FBI School With Second Certificate.

The course in police training at the FBI school was conducted by agents of the federal bureau. The Mansfield chief received his diploma Saturday which was his birthday anniversary.

Last summer Bates took an extensive 12-week course in scientific crime detection and investigation at the school conducted by G-men.

Trials, Deadline On Soap Box Derby Entries Set for Tuesday

With the deadline on entries and trials both coming tomorrow, drivers and builders of coaster cars entered in The News-Journal's second annual Soap Box Derby to be held Wednesday, Aug. 3, were busy today checking up their mounts.

Entries for the derby in which the city championship and a free trip to the All-American finals in Akron in mid-August is the prize, will be accepted from boys of the city and county at either the Y. M. C. A. or Mohican Chevrolet company, co-sponsors of the event, until 6 p. m. Tuesday.

The trials of the cars will be held at Derby Hill on Sturges avenue from 2 to 4 p. m. tomorrow and all drivers, whether they have completed their cars or not, are requested to appear at the course for instructions.

The trials are not eliminations as some may suspect, but are merely held to permit the drivers to accustom themselves to the fast course and test their racers.

A week from today, the drivers will check their cars at the Mohican Chevrolet company where they will be on display until the day of the race. Cars will be inspected for construction defects Monday as a safeguard against accidents.

Then on Tuesday the drivers will report to the Mohican agency for the "weighing in" ceremonies to be conducted by officials of the Toledo Scale company. Drivers will be weighed with the cars, and the combined weight must not exceed 250 pounds.

QUITS STATE JOB, LASHES DAVEY REGIME

SAYS NEEDY WILL SUFFER

Hits Attacks on Lewis, Says Governor Once Sought His Political Support.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Charles H. Hubbell, Cleveland, today resigned his $4,200-a-year position as chief accountant for the Ohio unemployment compensation commission, charging in an open letter to Governor Davey that "the policy of giving jobs to politicians who are incompetent, rather than to qualified persons who have had adequate training and experience" was producing chaos in the department.

Hubbell, a frequent candidate for public office, gave as a second reason for his resignation, "Your insincere attacks on John L. Lewis," in his letter.

Tells of Bid For Lewis OK.

"To me," Hubbell said, "these attacks are most nauseating because I have personal knowledge that they are made only because of labor's opposition to your candidacy for re-election."

In May, 1937, he continued, "on account of my personal acquaintance with John Lewis, dating back over 20 years, from the time when we were both residents of Springfield, Ill., I was sent to Washington to confer with him in an effort to enlist his political support in your behalf. I was sent on this mission only about 30 days before you ordered the state troops into Youngstown. If the reasons you now assign for your opposition to the CIO are sincere, how do you explain the fact that only a little more than a year ago, I was requested to confer with Mr. Lewis in your behalf?

"When it developed that Mr. Lewis would not support you politically, then for the first time you attacked him and his organization," Hubbell added.

Now Under Indictment.

RELIEF LEVIES FORGOTTEN AS PRIMARY NEARS

No Speeches or Campaign to Be Waged in Behalf of 2 Issues; Defeat Seen.

While the oft-referred to political kettle began to boil more actively throughout the county and state, with primary election day only two weeks from tomorrow, there were two issues to be decided on that day for which no campaign is being waged, and for which none will be.

They are the two relief levies—a two-mill assessment proposal in Mansfield, and a one-mill assessment in Madison township.

Not a campaign speech has been made for either issue, and township and city officials said there wouldn't be any.

The reason frankly, is they don't think either one can pass. Each requires a 65 per cent vote of approval.

City Votes On Both.

The defeat of both issues appeared likely, officials assert, because Madison township includes all of Mansfield, and residents in the city would have to pay both levies, if they should pass at the August primary, making a total of three mills for city residents and one mill for township property owners outside the city.

City officials contend that the chances for passage were slight since the voters in Mansfield would be less likely to approve the 2-mill levy if they thought the township levy would pass and make their share three mills.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said today that he didn't feel like "going out on a limb" by campaigning for the issue alone.

"It is up to the people of Mansfield," he said. "They know the need—they know the circumstances—and they know what their purses will stand—so it is up to them without any coercion,

Corrigan Arrives In England; 'Pick-A-Back' Heads For Home

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Behind another pilot and an ordinary commercial airplane, Douglas Corrigan arrived at Croydon airport today for his first visit to England—quite unlike a conquering hero.

Because of Corrigan's last-minute decision to fly here from Dublin, there was no reception for him at the busy airport, and no crowd save an handful of airport officials, mechanics, newspaper men and cameramen.

The only official greeter was Eddie Moore, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's private secretary, who was sent to escort the beaming transatlantic flyer in an embassy car to keep a luncheon appointment with Kennedy.

The American was as happy as a schoolboy. He eagerly scanned the ever-rough Irish sea and the hedgerows and cottages of the green Welsh and English countryside the whole trip.

Corrigan caught his first glimpse of London as the plane soared over the sprawling metropolis at a height of 5,000 feet.

"Gee!" he exclaimed. "It looks nearly as large as Los Angeles!"

HEADS FOR MONTREAL

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—(U.P.)—British Imperial Airways' pick-a-back seaplane Mercury took off for Montreal at 7:30 a. m. EST today, en route to Southampton, Eng., on the eastward half of its round trip survey flight over the north Atlantic.

The plane, with Capt. Donald C. T. Bennett at the controls, rose from Manhasset Bay after a run of about 1,000 yards and disappeared in the fog before she was 100 feet in the air.

MOTOR STALLS IN LOOP

Sends Fliers Crashing Into Spectators; Flaming Gas Sprays Victims.

(By International News Service)

BOGOTA, Colombia — The horror of Bogota's unparalleled air crash disaster mounted hourly today as new deaths brought to at least 50 the number of persons killed when a stunting military airplane nose-dived into a crowded grandstand at the new Santa Ana airport near here yesterday.

Approximately 200 persons were injured when the low-flying plane, its motor stalled, ripped through the stand and then exploded, spattering flaming gasoline over a radius of hundreds of feet.

Ceremonies Called Off.

All ceremonies commemorating the 155th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, South America's Washington, of which the air field dedication was a part, were postponed for 10 days by order of President Alfonso Lopez.

Both Lopez and his newly-elected successor, President-Elect Eduardo Santos, narrowly escaped injury in the disaster.

Eye-witness accounts of the tragedy revealed that the plane, piloted by Lieut. Cesar Abadia of the Colombian air force, had made two loops at an altitude of only 60 feet when its motor stalled.

The pilot made a courageous attempt to lift his plane over the roof of the presidential stand to save spectators from injury, but his efforts were only partially successful. His craft plummeted to earth with a deafening crash in the rear portion of the stand. The gas tanks burst and Abadia was burned to a crisp in the sheet of flame which arose and enveloped the mass of humanity into which the plane plunged.

Mourn for 10 Days.

Hospital facilities were taxed to the limit by the appalling number of injured. Although the accident occurred at 1 p. m. yesterday, all of the dead and injured had not been removed by nightfall.

President Lopez ordered all theaters, cafes and other places of amusement closed during the 10-day period of mourning.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—(AP)—A radio announcement today said an attempt had been made on the life of Major General Blanton Winship, governor of Puerto Rico, while he was attending a celebration at Ponce. Shots could be heard over the radio.

Governor Winship was not injured.

The firing occurred during a parade. The radio account said troops and police were getting the crowd under control.

The governor was in a reviewing stand, accompanied by Sen. Pedro Juan Serralles and other officials and army officers.

BRITISH TRADE BOARDS BLOCK 'SWEAT SHOPS'

(Webb Miller concludes his series of labor relations in Sweden and Great Britain with a dispatch on the British trades boards system.)

By WEBB MILLER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—The principal exception to the British policy of "self government in industry" is the system of trades boards set up to fix minimum wages and prevent sweat-shop practices.

The government would prefer to have capital and labor make voluntary agreements, but in some industries unionization has not progressed far enough to make a voluntary system workable. For those industries — there are 47 trades or branches of trades employing 1,250,000 persons operating under the trades boards act now — the government provides trades boards.

Those boards are made up of an equal number of representatives of capital and labor plus independent members. The wage rates upon which the boards agree are subject to confirmation by the ministry of labor after which they are enforceable by civil and criminal law. Wage rates are fixed by trade upon the principal of what the individual industry can bear; they vary from time to time depending on general economic conditions and other factors inside the industry.

They Get Complaints.

A corps of 66 inspection officers is charged with the duty of enforcing the wage scales, receiving complaints and reviewing conditions in the factories affected.

The trades board system has made a good record in reducing strikes and lockouts and in 1918 parliament extended the functions of the board. It empowered the ministry of labor to set up trade boards in any industry that lacked adequate machinery for regulating wages or where the lowness of the wage scale made regulation expedient.

Oddly enough, it sometimes happens that the wage scale set up by the boards is higher than that paid to workers of a similar degree of skill in industries governed by voluntary agreements. That, however, is usually due to the varying economic conditions in different industries. Many employers found that the trades boards' minimum wage scales protected them against competition of employers who sweated their labor.

The voluntary collective bargaining agreements also have resulted in the setting up of joint industrial councils which now affected 3,000,000 workers, principally in printing, flour milling, shoe manufacturing, pottery, merchant marine and paper making industries. The councils are composed of an equal number of representatives of employes and employers and function as permanent organizations. They often provide for voluntary conciliation and arbitration. Besides the question of wages and hours, the councils consider such matters as health of workers, safety training, apprentices, industrial education, research and means of utilizing workers' practical knowledge in the industry.

Promotes Self Government.

The government has announced that the councils were started to make possible a larger degree of self government in industry and not to promote compulsory arbitration nor to bring about state interference in labor disputes.

The councils are recognized by the government as official consultative committees on all questions affecting their industries.

The statutory functions of the British ministry of labor are exercised by the industrial relations section. Its duty is to encourage and assist in the setting up of voluntary machinery for the settlement of labor disputes. The industrial relations section maintains staffs in six industrial centers and keeps in constant touch with workers and employers. It never intervenes in a controversy unless one party to the dispute asks it to do so. In 1936 the officers of the section participated in only 45 settlements of industrial controversies. If the minister of labor thinks that an incipient dispute might be against the public interest, it can appoint a court of inquiry, which makes a report solely for the information of parliament, public and the press.

Memphis Restaurateur Fixes Secret Recipe

Self-styled barbecue king, John Mills, is shown in the two pictures above preparing the ribs and the famous sauce which he serves in his barbecue emporium in Memphis. The sauce is kept secret from all the help, and the small Negro refuses to allow anyone but his wife watch him prepare the condiment.

Barbecue King Chats About 'Way With Ribs'; Sauce Flavor

MEMPHIS—(AP)—It was on a Minnesota army post years ago that John Mills tried out his first barbecued ribs on a group of cavalry officers. The Negro army cook was headed for success from that day on.

"Dey tol' me I had sumpin, dat dem ribs sho tasted good," the 66-year-old self-styled "barbecue king" relates. "General John J. Pershing was dere at de time."

Today John Mills does a barbecue business from his little brick shop off Memphis' famed Beale street that serves epicureans the country over in addition to the brisk trade among peaple here who swear by "John Mills' ribs."

"Rush 33 orders barbecued ribs and sauce. Must reach here by noon Saturday to serve party."

It was signed by a noted woman singer who had tasted the "barbecue king's" product on a visit to Memphis. Mills sent the order air express.

Sauce A Mystery.

The "sauce" referred to is John Mills' secret. Only his wife shares it with him and Mills says he clears the kitchen of all help when "hot sauce" mixing time comes.

The sauce is swabbed continually over the cooking ribs and a side dish of the peppery liquid is served with each order. Mills turns and bastes his meat over a charcoal pit. It takes a shoulder eight to 12 hours to cook, while ribs can be served in an hour and 20 minutes.

The dapper little negro was born in Natchez, Miss. He served in the Spanish-American war, liked army life so well he remained with it until the close of the World war, though he did not get overseas.

Fourteen years ago he opened his Memphis barbecue business. There were four employes then. Now he has a staff of 16. Several are members of his family. He has 11 children—the oldest is 39, the youngest, John Mills, jr., seven.

Anti-Bursting Note

Lightly prick each cocktail sausage with a knitting needle—to prevent it from bursting during cooking. Put the sausages into a frying pan, cover them with water and let them simmer five minutes. Drain off the water and brown the sausages. Insert wooden picks and stick the others ends of the picks into a large red apple.

Wrap cantaloupe, pineapple and other fruits with pronounced flavors in waxed papers. Doing so will help prevent their flavors from penetrating other foods in the icebox. Use rubber bands to hold the papers in place.

Picnic Hints: Don't peel potatoes for use in salads until you have cooked and chilled them. Then dice or cut them into thin slices using a sharp knife. Don't prepare salads with too much dressing. Carry an extra supply in a jar to be pressed at the picnic.

Want a seasoning to pour over campfire-cooked meats when they are served? Mix half a cup of butter, one teaspoon each of dry mustard, salt, paprika, horseradish and chili sauce. Heat and serve.

Spiced Vinegar Aid To Dressings

Commercially prepared salad dressings are, as a rule, notable for distinctive spicing. Sometimes, however, a salad combination calls for greater sharpness in the dressing than the ready-made dressing possesses, and sometimes the ready-made dressing needs to be thinned for a particular salad. For such occasions it is well to have on hand a jar of spiced vinegar, which is readily made at home in quantity and will keep indefinitely. This is the recipe:

One quart good cider vinegar, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, one bay leaf, one-fourth ounce each whole cloves, blades of mace, whole allspice, whole pepper, celery seed and mustard seed. Put all ingredients in a large jar with a tight-fitting cover. Let stand for two weeks, then strain out the spices. The vinegar can be used in making home-prepared salad dressings as well as in adjusting commercially prepared dressings for special salad combinations.

There are 15,188 restaurants in Tokyo.

Dessert Crust

An unusual and tasty "crust" for refrigerator desserts may be made with any ready-cooked crunchy cereal. Mix two cups of the cereal, a third of a cup of melted butter and a fourth of a cup of granulated sugar. Press a one-inch layer of the combination into a shallow pan. Cover it with any flavored cream mixture and sprinkle a few "crumbs" over the top. Chill for several hours.

Hurry-up dessert suggestion: Toast sponge or angel food cake slices. Spread them with preserved fruit or jam. Surround several with bananas, berries or oranges. If you have a supply of shredded coconut on hand toast some of that and sprinkle a little over the top of each dessert.

BRITISH TRADE BOARDS BLOCK 'SWEAT SHOPS'

(Webb Miller concludes his series of labor relations in Sweden and Great Britain with a dispatch on the British trades boards system.)

By WEBB MILLER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—The principal exception to the British policy of "self government in industry" is the system of trades boards set up to fix minimum wages and prevent sweat-shop practices.

The government would prefer to have capital and labor make voluntary agreements, but in some industries unionization has not progressed far enough to make a voluntary system workable. For those industries — there are 47 trades or branches of trades employing 1,250,000 persons operating under the trades boards act now — the government provides trades boards.

Those boards are made up of an equal number of representatives of capital and labor plus independent members. The wage rates upon which the boards agree are subject to confirmation by the ministry of labor after which they are enforceable by civil and criminal law. Wage rates are fixed by trade upon the principal of what the individual industry can bear; they vary from time to time depending on general economic conditions and other factors inside the industry.

They Get Complaints.

A corps of 66 inspection officers is charged with the duty of enforcing the wage scales, receiving complaints and reviewing conditions in the factories affected.

The trades board system has made a good record in reducing strikes and lockouts and in 1918 parliament extended the functions of the board. It empowered the ministry of labor to set up trade boards in any industry that lacked adequate machinery for regulating wages or where the lowness of the wage scale made regulation expedient.

Oddly enough, it sometimes happens that the wage scale set up by the boards is higher than that paid to workers of a similar degree of skill in industries governed by voluntary agreements. That, however, is usually due to the varying economic conditions in different industries. Many employers found that the trades boards' minimum wage scales protected them against competition of employers who sweated their labor.

The voluntary collective bargaining agreements also have resulted in the setting up of joint industrial councils which now affected 3,000,000 workers, principally in printing, flour milling, shoe manufacturing, pottery, merchant marine and paper making industries. The councils are composed of an equal number of representatives of employes and employers and function as permanent organizations. They often provide for voluntary conciliation and arbitration. Besides the question of wages and hours, the councils consider such matters as health of workers, safety training, apprentices, industrial education, research and means of utilizing workers' practical knowledge in the industry.

Promotes Self Government.

The government has announced that the councils were started to make possible a larger degree of self government in industry and not to promote compulsory arbitration nor to bring about state interference in labor disputes.

The councils are recognized by the government as official consultative committees on all questions affecting their industries.

The statutory functions of the British ministry of labor are exercised by the industrial relations section. Its duty is to encourage and assist in the setting up of voluntary machinery for the settlement of labor disputes. The industrial relations section maintains staffs in six industrial centers and keeps in constant touch with workers and employers. It never intervenes in a controversy unless one party to the dispute asks it to do so. In 1936 the officers of the section participated in only 45 settlements of industrial controversies. If the minister of labor thinks that an incipient dispute might be against the public interest, it can appoint a court of inquiry, which makes a report solely for the information of parliament, public and the press.

Memphis Restaurateur Fixes Secret Recipe

Barbecue King Chats About 'WayWith Ribs'; Sauce Flavor

MEMPHIS—(AP)—It was on a Minnesota army post years ago that John Mills tried out his first barbecued ribs on a group of cavalry officers. The Negro army cook was headed for success from that day on.

"Dey tol' me I had sumpin, dat dem ribs sho tasted good," the 66-year-old self-styled "barbecue king" relates. "General John J. Pershing was dere at de time."

Today John Mills does a barbecue business from his little brick shop off Memphis' famed Beale street that serves epicureans the country over in addition to the brisk trade among peaple here who swear by "John Mills' ribs."

"Rush 33 orders barbecued ribs and sauce. Must reach here by noon Saturday to serve party."

It was signed by a noted woman singer who had tasted the "barbecue king's" product on a visit to Memphis. Mills sent the order air express.

Sauce A Mystery.

The "sauce" referred to is John Mills' secret. Only his wife shares it with him and Mills says he clears the kitchen of all help when "hot sauce" mixing time comes.

The sauce is swabbed continually over the cooking ribs and a side dish of the peppery liquid is served with each order. Mills turns and bastes his meat over a charcoal pit. It takes a shoulder eight to 12 hours to cook, while ribs can be served in an hour and 20 minutes.

The dapper little negro was born in Natchez, Miss. He served in the Spanish-American war, liked army life so well he remained with it until the close of the World war, though he did not get overseas.

Fourteen years ago he opened his Memphis barbecue business. There were four employes then. Now he has a staff of 16 Several are members of his family. He has 11 children—the oldest is 39, the youngest, John Mills, jr., seven.

Anti-Bursting Note

Lightly prick each cocktail sausage with a knitting needle—to prevent it from bursting during cooking. Put the sausages into a frying pan, cover them with water and let them simmer five minutes. Drain off the water and brown the sausages. Insert wooden picks and stick the others ends of the picks into a large red apple.

Wrap cantaloupe, pineapple and other fruits with pronounced flavors in waxed papers. Doing so will help prevent their flavors from penetrating other foods in the icebox. Use rubber bands to hold the papers in place.

Picnic Hints: Don't peel potatoes for use in salads until you have cooked and chilled them. Then dice or cut them into thin slices using a sharp knife. Don't prepare salads with too much dressing. Carry an extra supply in a jar to be pressed at the picnic.

Want a seasoning to pour over campfire-cooked meats when they are served? Mix half a cup of butter, one teaspoon each of dry mustard, salt, paprika, horseradish and chili sauce. Heat and serve.

Spiced Vinegar Aid To Dressings

Commercially prepared salad dressings are, as a rule, notable for distinctive spicing. Sometimes, however, a salad combination calls for greater sharpness in the dressing than the ready-made dressing possesses, and sometimes the ready-made dressing needs to be thinned for a particular salad. For such occasions it is well to have on hand a jar of spiced vinegar, which is readily made at home in quantity and will keep indefinitely. This is the recipe:

One quart good cider vinegar, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, one bay leaf, one-fourth ounce each whole cloves, blades of mace, whole allspice, whole pepper, celery seed and mustard seed. Put all ingredients in a large jar with a tight-fitting cover. Let stand for two weeks, then strain out the spices. The vinegar can be used in making home-prepared salad dressings as well as in adjusting commercially prepared dressings for special salad combinations.

There are 15,188 restaurants in Tokyo.

Dessert Crust

An unusual and tasty "crust" for refrigerator desserts may be made with any ready-cooked crunchy cereal. Mix two cups of the cereal, a third of a cup of melted butter and a fourth of a cup of granulated sugar. Press a one-inch layer of the combination into a shallow pan. Cover it with any flavored cream mixture and sprinkle a few "crumbs" over the top. Chill for several hours.

Hurry-up dessert suggestion: Toast sponge or angel food cake slices. Spread them with preserved fruit or jam. Surround several with bananas, berries or oranges. If you have a supply of shredded coconut on hand toast some of that and sprinkle a little over the top of each dessert.

42 Killed as Bomb Explodes In Crowd at Jerusalem

BRITISH RUSH TROOPS INTO TRAGEDY AREA

Explosive Hurled Into Crowded Market Area in New Clash in Holy Land.

(By United Press)

JERUSALEM—A bomb of terrific power exploded in an Arab crowd at the vegetable market at Haifa today and exacted a toll of casualties expected to surpass that in any of the long series of outbreaks between Jews and Arabs.

The exchange telegraph of London reported 42 Arabs killed and 50 wounded.

Public and private hospitals were overtaxed and British authorities opened a field hospital in a school to take care of the overflow of casualties.

Police, soldiers and marines from the British battle cruiser Repulse were sent to emergency duty in the disaster area and British troop reinforcements were called from other parts of Palestine as maddened Arabs, who had seen wives, sweethearts, fathers and sons torn to pieces began setting fire to Jewish shops.

Crowds Disbanded.

Jews began closing their shops and other businesses voluntarily, but British authorities, fearing an explosion of racial hatred that would get beyond all bounds, imposed a day time curfew to keep crowds from congregating.

This was the third, and most serious incident of this sort this month, and the second at Haifa. On July 6 a bomb was thrown into a mixed crowd of Arabs and Jews at the Haifa vegetable market. In a day of frenzied rioting which this outrage caused, 18 Arabs and two Jews were killed and 60 Arabs and Jews wounded. On July 15 a bomb was thrown into an Arab crowd in the vegetable market here and eight Arabs were killed and 12 wounded.

There was a frightful explosion.

Scene of Slaughter.

In a moment, the colorful market was changed into a sickening scene of slaughter. Human limbs, heads and torsos were mingled with the melons and vegetables from the market stalls and the bodies of donkeys and camels.

The scene was such a frightful one that the rescue workers put corpses and limbless bodies of the dying into ambulance with those less seriously wounded, believing that it was better to send all victims to hospitals for classification.

News was received later of a clash in which one Jew was killed and six were wounded near Mt. Carmel when a bus, proceeding to Haifa, was halted by a road barricade and fired upon by men in ambush.

Can Anyone Beat Family of 13 In Madison Contest?

If there is any farmer in Richland county who can boast of more than 13 in his family he'd better hurry up and register for the Big Family contest at the Madison theater before 6 p. m. Tuesday for one contestant, apparently without fear of the "unlucky 13," has registered that number.

He is R. O. Smith, R. F. D. 3, Shelby, who has 11 children and two adults. The children range in age from one to 24. The next closest entry is Walter Maglott, R. D. 6, Mansfield, who offers nine in the family. There are a number of other entries, but all out-pointed by Smith.

The contest is being conducted by Manager William Dworski in connection with his current picture feature, "Love Finds Andy Hardy," and which the winning family will have an opportunity to see Wednesday night.

To date there have been four families entered in the contest, which is for the largest farm family in the county, counting only the immediate members. Children may be married or single.

The winning family will be brought to Mansfield Wednesday evening in motor cars, taken out to dinner, given flowers and candy, taken to the show and given an ice cream treat afterward, and then returned to their home.

GARBO'S 'ALONE'

Actress Bids Stokowski Goodbye After Travels In Europe.

STOCKHOLM — (INS) — After months as the companion of Greta Garbo, Leopold Stokowski, the orchestra conductor, was on his way today to Salzburg for the annual music festival. The film actress saw him off.

Stokowski may rejoin Miss Garbor in Paris, and both will return to Hollywood.

Flood Waters Recede Along Atlantic Coast

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfield Girl Scouts demonstrated last week that their training in resourcefulness and self-reliance really has practical value. They were cooking their own dinners in the woods back of the Girl Scout camp on South Diamond street when a sudden shower came up and soaked their clothing before they could get back to the camp building. Nothing daunted, they fashioned primitive clothing out of gunny sacks and put them on while their own clothing dried before the fire.

Finger-printing is not guaranteed to help in finding Little Johnny or Mary if they get lost at the Richland county fair this week, but visitors will have an opportunity to be fingerprinted, and free of charge, too. The county Red Cross will provide the service, with Herbert S. Garnes, jr., president of the Junior Red Cross council, in charge. A copy of the print will be sent to Washington for filing in the civilian records and another will be given to the person whose finger lines are recorded.

Hitch-hikers are working out some new methods for soliciting rides from motorists, and two of them seen in widely separated sections of the city today both had landed on the same idea. One had the question "Delphos?" painted on the side of his traveling bag, and the other carried a poster with the wording "Chippewa Lake?" They "thumbed" for rides by hoisting the signs in front of motorists as they passed them on the road. Their schemes attracted attention, if nothing else.

Residents on Sturges avenue hill need not be told that The News-Journal Soap Box Derby is approaching. They came to realize this fact over the week-end when the lanes for the coasting race were painted on the slope in preparation for the derby on Wednesday, Aug. 3 Employes of the state highway department did the work, and judging from the way the paint wore last year, the lanes will still be there several months after the race to remind Mansfielders of the Derby.

ATTACK FATAL

Heart Ailment Causes Death of Mrs. Harriet Bolus.

Mrs. Harriet A. Bolus, wife of Harry S. Bolus, 33 Elmwood drive, died at her home Saturday evening as the result of a heart attack. Although she had been in ill health for some time, her death came unexpectedly.

Mrs. Bolus was born in Butler and had lived in Mansfield for 41 years. At one time she and her husband were in vaudeville and traveled extensively over the country. In later years she spent much of her time in Florida with Mr. Bolus.

Surviving are her husband, two sisters, Mrs. Harry M. Martin and Mrs. Claude M. Hunter of Mansfield, and three brothers, James Wilson, North Hollywood, Cal., Walter M. Wilson, Shelby, and D. L. Wilson, Butler.

The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Rev. C. L. Kerns, pastor of South Main Evangelical church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

LAWYERS HEAR LEADER'S PLEA

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—The American Bar association opened its 61st annual convention today with President Arthur T. Vanderbilt, of Newark, N. J., exhorting the nation's lawyers to meet the "challenge of intolerance" by perfecting judicial administration.

Vanderbilt, delivering his opening address of the five-day convention to an estimated 5,000 delegates, warnet them of a "worldwide struggle for economic freedom."

He said the organized bar must mobilize a united front to perfect the processes of judicial administration, "in both our traditional courts and in the newer administrative tribunals." This can be achieved, he said, by fighting for the "maintenance" of the courts' and tribunals' "independence and in tegrity."

"The entire world seems to be dividing into two classes," Vanderbilt said. "On believing that whatever is, is right; the other believing that whatever is, is wrong."

Describing the constitutional courts system as "the bulwark of individual freedom," Vanderbilt deplored what he termed the "sorely tried" faith of the American people in their courts. He blamed "inexcusable delays" in erecting pleadings, bringing cases for trial and decisions based on "outmoded technicalities, occasionally by judicial inefficiency, or, even worse, by judicial bad manners.

DEATH CLAIMS JOHN HECKLER

Bucyrus Water Works Employe For 50 Years Dies at Age 77.

BUCYRUS — John Heckler, 77, stationary engineer at the Bucyrus water works for more than 50 years, died at his home, 155 North Sandusky avenue, today. He had been confined since April when he underwent a major operation.

Mr. Heckler was born in Germany, Jan. 17, 1861, and came to this country at the age of 18.

His wife, Susan; two daughters, Marie and Harriett at home; three sons, John of Sidney, George of Bucyrus and Albert of Chillicothe, and six grandchildren, survive. He was a member of the St. John's Reformed church and Bucyrus 50-Year club. Funeral services will be held Wednesday. Other arrangements have not been completed.

PLANT RE-OPENS

Portsmouth Shoe Company Starts After Strike Settlement.

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—The Selby Shoe factory, idle since July 13 when two CIO locals called a strike over wages, resumed operations today as the result of an employes' profit-sharing agreement. Officials said they expected the full force of 2,600 to be back at work within a few days.

EXPECTS ROOSEVELT TO SEEK THIRD TERM, BUT NOT GET IT

WASHINGTON—Senator Vandenberg (R.,Mich.) expressed the opinion today that President Roosevelt would seek a third term.

"I expect him to try," Vandenberg said, "but I do not expect him to succeed."

The statement was contained in a letter which the senator wrote to a Michigan constituent and which was made public by a friend here.

It came in the midst of speculation over third term possibilities.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan declared in a speech at Traverse City, Mich., yesterday that "we may have to draft the president for four more years of leadership."

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, asserted last week that WPA Administrator Hopkins actually had launched a third-term movement when he told reporters 90 per cent of those on relief were for the president.

Hopkins' remark has attracted the attention of the senate campaign expenditures committee.

Committee Chairman Sheppard (MD-Tex.) called members to meet this week to consider whether action should be taken on this and other matters, including a complaint by Gov. William Langer of North Dakota that relief workers were intimidated during the recent state primary.

Langer was defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination by Sen. Gerald P. Nye.

Vanderburg, who is in Michigan, wrote that "I may be forgiven for commenting upon the opposition's presidential problem inasmuch as Mr. Farley (Democratic national chairman) has so freely commented upon ours."

He said Mr. Roosevelt "may be stopped in his own Democratic convention where the more literal Jeffersonians will cling to their party founders' horror of any such imperial tenure."

DEATH RULED SUICIDE

ED. E. SPAIN DIES

Resident of City for 40 Years to Be Buried Tuesday.

Funeral services for Ed E. Spain, 70, a resident of Mansfield 40 years, who died Saturday at his home, 151 East Third street, after a brief illness, will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Linton Mattox of Mansfield officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Mr. Spain was born in North Lewisburg, Nov. 14, 1867. He was a member of the Last Survivors club of that community, a group of former school boys who formed the organization more than 50 years ago. They met every New Year's eve in Lewisburg, and Mr. Spain had attended every meeting except the last two.

During the 1890's he played professional baseball and was a member of the Mansfield club of the old Inter-State league for several years. Fraternally, he was associated with the Owls and the Eagles lodges.

Surviving are his wife, Ada; a son, Eugene of Mt. Vernon; a daughter, Mrs. Edward Mattox of Mansfield, and two grandchildren, Peggy and Thomas Mattox of Mansfield. The body is at the funeral home.

HUNDREDS LOSE HOMES DURING 7 DAYS OF RAIN

(By International News Service)

Receding flood waters and cessation of rainfall brought happy smiles to inhabitants of eastern seaboard communities, who have seen little more than weeping skies for a week.

Prospects of clearing skies and generally fair weather for states that have been drenched by the record unseasonal rainstorms indicated definitely that the high pressure along the coast finally is weakening.

As the waters withdrew to rivers and creeks, highways were reopened and the extent of the storm's damage became more apparent. The loss to crops throughout New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, where the storm lingered longest and was most severe, will be heavy.

Stops In New York.

After seven days with hardly any letup, rainfall ceased in New York Sunday morning. It continued, however, throughout New England with Massachusetts and Rhode Island the chief targets, and along the south Atlantic coast and gulf states. The San Saba river in Texas continued its rampage, which has caused two deaths, leaving several hundred homeless.

Two dams gave way near New Haven, Conn., loosening 120,000,000 gallons of water that swept away four concrete bridges.

In many of the flood-stricken areas, orders were issued to boil all water before drinking it. Emergency rationing of water was decreed at Ambler, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia, when the borough's water pumps became submerged.

Generally, however, the worst of the storm has passed. All that remains are landslides, washed out highways and bridges, destroyed crops, damaged property and unsightly blotches of silt and muck.

HUNDREDS STORM-STRUCK

AUSTIN Tex.—(INS)—Rain swollen rivers falling below their damaging high water marks of the week-end cheered hundreds of sufferers in the flood ravaged areas of central and south Texts today.

Engineers predicted the worst of the present emergency had passed as the Conocho, San Saba and Colorado rivers dropped back beneath clearing skies.

ESCAPES DEATH

Bucyrus Man Hurt Slightly as Train Hits Car.

SHELBY—Robert Auck of Bucyrus narrowly escaped death at 11:10 p. m. Sunday when the car he was driving was struck by a west-bound passenger train at the Big Four railroad crossing on West Main street.

Auck was taken to the Shelby Memorial hospital where he was treated for slight cuts and bruises, hospital attaches stated.

The car driven by Auck was thrown more than 100 feet into the front yard of the Reedy residence on West Main street. Auck was rushed to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Witnesses told police that Auck, who was driving west over the tracks on Main street, apparently failed to see the signal lights which were working at the time of the accident. The roof of the car was torn off and the body damaged, police said.

FAIR ENOUGH!

It Is Time To Make a Few Concessions To Hitler To Avoid Trouble With Him

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The time has come to recognize the existence of German minorities in certain areas of the United States, notably in New Jersey and specifically in the Yorkville section of New York City, and to head off trouble with Adolf Hitler by concessions to them. Otherwise Hitler eventually will send his armies in to complete the task of his political agents, whose work already is well advanced through the hyphen-American bunds, and these districts may be seized by force as Austria was.

In that event our national prestige and pride will be badly damaged, and the American minorities residing in these predominantly German neighborhoods will be punished as fiercely as the Austrian non-Nazis are today. We should placate the German minorities at any sacrifice.

The terms upon which this may be effected without bloodshed may be read in the demands which have been presented to the government of Czechoslovakia on behalf of Hitler's minority there.

First:—These German sections in our country must have complete territorial autonomy. Yorkville, a neighborhood in the city of New York, for example, must be recognized as an independent German state within the United States.

Second:—These German sections must be permitted to have their own armed police, organized on military lines, and the police of New York City must be withdrawn and kept out of Yorkville. The frontiers of Yorkville may be fortified against the United States, if the Nazis so desire, and members of the American minority who remain in Yorkville must accept the status of aliens, subject to the usual restrictions placed on foreigners in Germany.

Third:—These German sections shall be indemnified by the United States for any damage which they may believe they have suffered since 1918 through the imposition of the American form of government on their people.

Fourth:—The male youths of these sections shall receive Nazi pre-military training, so that if they should join the American army or navy they would join as Nazis, loyal to Hitler, drilled to the minute in treachery against the United States and qualified to act as spies and saboteurs in the service of the reich.

Fifth:—They shall have the right to impose additional taxes, especially on the members of the American minority in their midst.

Sixth:—There shall be full equality of national languages in the United States to the end that German may be made by law the official language of these districts of Jersey and New York City. Children of the American minority in the schools shall learn German, and the courts and all official records shall be conducted in that tongue.

Seventh:—All American officials holding public positions in these areas shall be discharged and Nazi substitutes shall be named by Adolph Hitler. Elsewhere, where there is a scattering of Nazis but a majority, Nazi officials shall be named in proportion to numbers. Not Americans of German descent nor honestly naturalized Germans but Nazi Germans.

As an eighth condition, not stated but implied in the terms which Hitler has presented to the national government of Czechoslovakia, all members of these Nazi minorities in our country shall have the full citizenship rights of Americans while giving their allegiance to Hitler.

This last condition need not be pressed because most of the Nazis of the Hitler minority now make a practice of taking out American citizenship in order that they may organize American societies under the Nazi banner and work for Hitler in the guise of Americans.

Hitler's political agents think this is the best way, and probably it is, because his minority in Austria claimed Austrian citizenship and its benefits while preparing to betray the country to Berlin. The Nazis in Czechoslovakia have done the same. Thus also the Nazis and young Nazis may hold military drills, goose-stepping and heiling Hitler under the American flag, and when criticized for this may swear that they are loyal Americans and were only holding a patriotic parade under their constitutional right of freedom to assemble.

There may be some Americans who will object to this proposal, but the sensible way will be to recognize that Hitler often has proclaimed that wherever any considerable body of Nazis are there is Germany and avowed his determination to redeem all his minorities in time. Our case is no different from that of Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

By PENNY SINGLETON

HOLLYWOOD—"Hi, Harvey," I hail the policeman at 6:45 a. m. at the gate of the Warner Brothers lot as I trundle past in my Ford. "I'm writing a column for Robbin Coons. Got any ideas?"

Say, with my contacts," he grins, "I can get good dough for my ideas."

"You're right about that, Harvey," I retort, "anybody who knows A star is an influential person in Hollywood, no fooling."

"Yeh," he goes on, "a man offered to buy me the most expensive car in Hollywood if I'd let him in to see the boss—had a thousand dollars in bills in his pocket to prove it, too. But I like my old flivver and my job too well, I guess."

They say "contact" is the most over-worked word in Hollywood, and there's no doubt about it, I think to myself. The "contacts" even have a business of their own.

Look at the thriving business conducted by the guides to Movie Stars' Homes. They advertise their tours at stations along Sunset Boulevard. Last night, my phone rings and a man's voice at the end of the line wants to speak to Bill Powell. When I say he has the wrong number, he is so mad he nearly breaks the phone. "And I paid $15 for that number, too," he roars.

Just another one of the minor industries — selling movie stars' phone numbers—at a price.

I know a masseuse who tells me she could retire if she'd accept the bribes she's offered for introductions to some of her star customers.

While I'm parking my car in the studio garage the mechanic tells me he's about to hire a bodyguard.

"But why?" I say, looking at his 200 pounds.

"There have been three guys hounding me for a week trying to get me to recommend their garage service to Pat O'Brien and Anita Louise. I'm about to go nuts. Their chauffeurs are having the same trouble. People are always trying to bribe them for introductions."

By the time I've had my cup of coffee and am in the hair dressing room, it's 7:15. I'm plunked down under the dryer with my hair on curlers and decide to look at some magazines on the nearest stand. They're dated 1903-1912 and marked "Research—Bette Davis." I realize that they're the check for authentic hair styles for Bette's next picture, "The Sisters," which is laid in the 1903 period.

The hairdresser sees me looking at the picture and remarks, "That Bette is certainly popular. A little girl I know offered me ten bucks if I'd just let her come in and watch Bette have her hair dressed."

"Penny, Penny," booms a voice over the studio Public Address system. "Are you daydreaming? You're due on the set."

"Zowie," I think to myself, "that's a contact I'd better not forget."

Menaces All-Time Record

MARK up another season record achievement for Jimmy Stout, Possum Run pro and golfer de luxe.

The hard-hitting Stout came within one stroke of equalling the all-time record on the Washington township layout Saturday when he wrote a brilliant 65, six under perfect figures.

Stout's sensational score was registered just one week to the day after setting a new season mark at the course with a 68, and this record was smashed a week ago yesterday by Pete Linster, who blasted out a 67.

Stout toured the first nine in 32, four under par, and the incoming nine in 33, two under perfect figures.

The only hole on which Stout was beaten by par was on the short No. 10 where he took a four after a nice tee shot to the right of the green. He parred or birdied the other 17 holes. His brilliant card showed seven birdies, and 10 pars.

The lowest 18-hole score ever shot at Possum Run was 64 by Reggie Myles, Columbia Hills, Cleveland, pro formerly of Ashland country club. Stout's card:

First Nine:
Par ..... 435 454 344—36
Stout ..... 334 454 234—32
Second Nine:
Par 335 444 435-35-71

Al Kushin and Linster also shot subpar rounds at Possum Run over the week-end. Kushin pounded out a three-under 68 and the latter rolled out a 70. Frank Vild hit par right on the nose with a 71, added from rounds of 35 and 36.

ONE of the finest 18-hole scores of the year at Coolridge was a 69 shot Saturday by Roy Rachel. Rachel registered rounds of 34 and 35.

Carl Ransinger played five rounds of golf at Coolridge over the week-end, and his highest score was a 38. His rounds in order: 38-37-36-37-38.

Steve Stirtzinger put together a 35 and 38 for a 73 at Coolridge, while Harry Case shot a 39 and 37 for 76. Tony Linster and Tony Schadek scored 77's and Nick Loris had a 78. John Fisch was an even 80 shooter. A 39 was Ray Kendinger's low for the year.

* * *

Mrs. Leopold Adams and Fay Strome won the mixed two-ball foursome featuring play at Possum Run Sunday with a 41. Pete Linster and Mrs. Ernie Geiger were second with a 42.

Estes Coal Beaten By New London

The Estes Coals suffered a 15 to 2 drubbing from New London in the second game of a double-header in New London Sunday. The hosts lost to Spencer, 5 to 4, in the opening game.

In the nightcap, New London fell on three Mansfield hurlers for 11 hits, and completed their scoring with seven runs in the seventh. An error on Darby's double with the bases loaded gave New London five runs, enough to win, in the second.

Dudley Yields Only Two Hits as Legion Wins Series Opener, 8-0

Holds Oilmen Hitless For Six Innings

Durantmen Comb Offerings of 2 Hurlers for 16 Blows Before Meager Crowd.

By OSCAR RUHL

GAME No. 1 in the series to determine the semi-professional baseball championship of the city went to the American Legion club.

Donald Dudley fashioned a two-hit pitching materpiece to hurl the Legionnaires to an 8 to 0 victory over Earl Herrick's Hi-Speeds before a discouraging crowd of few more than 200 customers at the Fairground Sunday.

Best Since 1937.

The young right hander turned in the best mound exhibition witnessed at the Fairground since last June when Lefty Heath of the Mansfield Red Sox had a perfect game in his grasp against Findlay until the third batter in the ninth obtained a fluke single over third.

Dudley also had a no-hit game in his possession until the seventh when Manager Earl Herrick doubled to right center. The only other hit permitted by Dudley was a single off Brother Clarence Herrick's bat in the ninth.

Not a man reached first base between the first and seventh innings, and only four got as far as the initial cushion all afternoon.

Young Dudley never did a better job of twirling as he did out on the Fairground hillock Sunday. He struck out 12 and issued one base on balls as only 29 men faced him.

The only inning in which Dudley suffered any embarrassment was in the first, and he survived it without any damage. After striking out Schmidt, first man to face him, Dudley gave Wallace the only walk he permitted.

Wallace stole second and went to third when Earl Herrick tapped to the pitcher's box. With two down, Ganaway was hit by a pitched ball. Bob De Haven ended the inning by lining to Donnan.

Not another man reached first until the Hi-Speeds' pilot doubled in the seventh without anyone out, and he was left stranded. The other Herrick opened the eighth with a single, and he was forced at second.

Wallace was the only Hi-Speed player to reach third, and Earl Herrick was the only other one to get as far as second.

While Dudley was setting the Hi-Speeds down with monotonous regularity, the Legionnaires pounded two moundsmen for 16 hits, registering one or more bingle in every frame.

Manager Dewey Durant's Legionnaires scored four runs in the first chapter, and tallied in every inning but three thereafter. The Legion boys batted around in the opening frame, Lloyd Beal's single sending two of the four runs across the platter.

Dick Donnan singled, stole second and scored on Junior Keister's one-base knock in the second. Beal tripled to the score board in the third, but was retired at the plate on a fielder's choice.

Petie Beer, who started on the mound for the Hi-Speeds, retired in the fourth after the first two men to face him hit safely. Donnan, who doubled, scoring on Keister's single. Center Fielder Schmidt took over the pitching chores at that point and fared better than his predecessor, but did not exactly silence the bats of the victors.

Leedy's single, an error and Lewis' sacrifice gave the Legionnaires their seventh run in the fifth.

The Durantmen got runners on bases in both the sixth and seventh, but they did not register again until the eighth when Burgraff tallied on Dudley's infield hit with two down.

Divide 16 Hits.

Every Legionnaire who appeared in the lineup secured one or more hits, with Donnan setting the pace with a double and two singles. Keister, Chatlain and Beal each obtained two hits.

The date for the second game of the series has not been determined.

CONTINUE CLASSES AT LIBERTY TUESDAY

The second sessions of the baseball school being conducted by the city recreation department at Liberty park this week will be held Tuesday. The first classes were held today.

Instructions will be given the Yanks and Tigers at 9 a. m. Tuesday and classes for the Cubs and Giants will be held at 1 p. m. The first classes were held today. No games are scheduled in the junior leagues this week due to the county fair which has deprived them of the use of the Fairground.

UNDISPUTED LEAD AT STAKE TODAY

TWO changes are certain to be made in the City Class A softball league today.

Undisputed leadership of the city's premier circuit will be decided for one thing, and the other change will break the tie for third place.

The Johns park and Prospect park entries battle at Johns park in the game which will determine the undisputed leader, and Liberty and North parks will tangle in the other tilt at North park.

Neither the Johnnies nor Prospecters have been beaten so far in the second round, and the result of their meeting will have a definite bearing on the championship.

Jimmy Fullager will be on the hill in an effort to register his seventh straight win. He will be opposed by Ted Frisbee, who is hurling spectacular ball after a slow start.

The winner of the game involving the Richland County Fish & Game team of North park and the Liberty club will go into a tie for second place with the loser of the other tilt.

Mohicans Bow To Lucas, 15-5

Hosts Score 10 Runs in First Four Innings.

The Mohican Chevrolets found the Lucas Merchants tougher than they suspected, and they went down to defeat by a 15 to 5 score at Lucas Sunday.

Lucas tallied 10 runs in the first four innings, and Potye, who relieved Jurgens in the fourth, held the hosts scoreless until the eighth, Gene Yarman finishing the game on the mound for the Automen. Baer started for Lucas, and Diehl relieved him in the seventh when the Chevrolets scored twice.

Gehrisch hit a homer and three singles to lead Lucas, while C. Franks obtained three hits. Baer of Lucas and John Linta of the Mohicans also hit for the circuit.

Ontario Rips Oilmen Twice

Patterson Stars at Plate in Double Triumph.

The Ontario baseball club registered its eighth and ninth straight victories of the season Sunday when it took both ends of a twin-bill from the Ira D. Ling Canzols.

Howard Patterson was the particular star of the first game as he set the Canzols down with three hits and struck out 15 to win 4 to 3. Patterson also starred at the plate with a home run, triple and double as Ontario obtained nine hits off the delivery of Gil Weigand.

The Canzols used three pitchers in the other game, but to no avail, Ontario winning, 13 to 7 as Tucker allowed the Mansfield club five hits. Patterson obtained his second home run and two singles in this game. McFadden of Ontario also hit for the circuit.

Cigar Team Fails To Hit In Pinches

The Musille Cigars loaded the bases three times but was unable to score even one run as it lost to the Elyria Alumni softball team, 1 to 0, before 400 spectators at Prospect park Sunday.

Led by Lemunyon, who obtained two hits, the Cigars secured eight safeties as compared to five permitted by Dale McKinley, who whiffed 12 and walked one. Eleck struck one nine and walked seven. The visitors' run came in the first on a walk, an error and a hit.

PAUL CHOTTEAU NEARS END OF MARATHON SWIM

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Hampered by a sprained ligament and weary, but happy because he has broken his own world's distance swimming record, Paul Chotteau early today was near the end of his 56-mile endurance swim from Santa Barbara island to Venice.

The 40-year-old marathon swimmer had bettered the previous record by eleven miles when, about four miles off the Los Angeles seaside resort he reported spraining a shoulder ligament and announced he was going to "coast in."

DeLuxe Cabs Meet Crestline Tuesday

Dick Van Dyne's DeLuxe Cabs will meet the strong Crestline Kooler Kegs in a softball game at Liberty park at 6 p. m. Tuesday. The Crestline club is one of the strongest in Crawford county, and its victims include a number of Mansfield teams.

Frisbee and Valentine will form the Cabs' battery, with Colonel Brown and Fleiner going to the firing line for the visitors.

FULLAGER HURLS BEERS TO WIN OVER ASHLAND

Jimmy Fullager was again in rare form Sunday as he set the Siler Hatcheries down with seven hits to pitch the Beeber-Ross Beers to a 12 to 2 softball victory at Johns park. Fullager did not allow a run after the first inning. He struck out seven. Kenny Ross, with two triples and a single and Aston, with three singles, led the Beers.

GULDAHL LOSES TITLE BY STROKE TO SNEAD

CHICAGO —(INS)— Something very close to hard luck today gave National Open Champion Ralph Guldahl second place instead of first in the Chicago open tourney, while front honors went to Sam Snead. Snead, blasting his way home over the No. 4 layout at Olympia fields with a 73 and 70 in final rounds, left the champion one stroke behind to cop the $1,500 first prize.

But Guldahl went down fighting. His last two rounds yielded scores of 68 and 68, the best 56 holes ever played over the No. 4 lot at Olympia.

MOXLEY, VIEGEL STAR FOR COSHOCTON CLUB

Two former Mansfield baseball stars played an important part in Coshocton's 2 to 1 victory over Newark in a Central Ohio league game at Newark Sunday. Tommy Moxley's triple accounted for the Coshocton runs while Al Viegel limited Newark to five hits and struck out 11.

125 Horses on Hand For Fair Speed Bill

Three-Day Racing Program Opening Wednesday Expected to Bring 200 Sulkey Pullers Here.

WITH all horse barns filled to overflowing, the "S. R. O." sign was hung out at the Richland county fairground today for the benefit of other horsemen bringing entries here for the opening of the three-day harness racing program Wednesday afternoon.

Checking in the neighborhood of 125 horses already quartered at the track, Bert Huston, superintendent of the county fair's speed program, made preparations today to send the overflow of pacers and trotters to the Ashland county fairground.

More Horses Expected.

These will be brought here on their racing days and placed in a huge canvas paddock to await their turn on the track. Upwards of 200 horses will be entered in the 12 events on the three-day racing program, according to present indications, Huston said.

Meanwhile today, trainers from such outstanding stables as those of Gabe Cartnal, Delvin Miller, Bob Vallory, Harry Short, Wayne Smart, Wert Mallow, Charles Surke, Hump Morrison, Jay and Walter Douglass, Frank Cares, C. J. Shilling, Benny Sturgeon, Dickson-Nail, and others, groomed their pacers and trotters for the big opening just two days away.

The harness program marks a resumption of races in Ohio following the close of the grand circuit meeting at North Randall and recent Ohio Short Ship events. A majority of horses entered

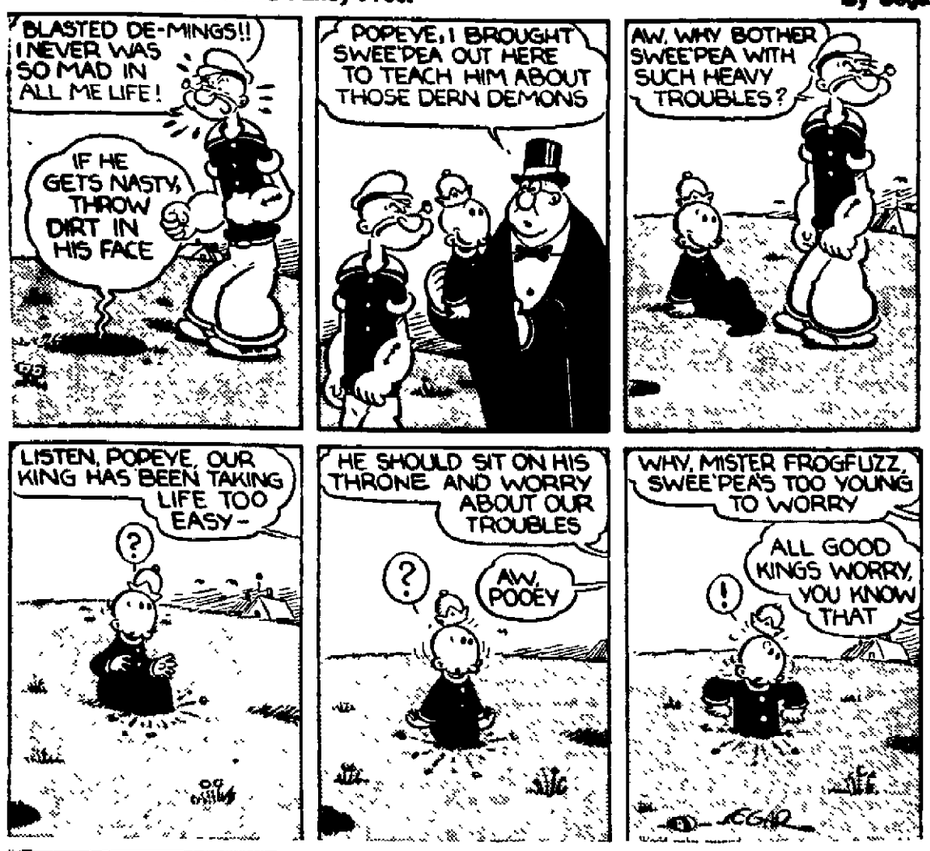
POPEYE—Footloose and Fancy Free. By Segar



BLASTED DE-MINGS!! I NEVER WAS SO MAD IN ALL ME LIFE!
POPEYE, I BROUGHT SWEE'PEA OUT HERE TO TEACH HIM ABOUT THOSE DERN DEMONS
AW, WHY BOTHER SWEE'PEA WITH SUCH HEAVY TROUBLES?
LISTEN, POPEYE, OUR KING HAS BEEN TAKING LIFE TOO EASY-
HE SHOULD SIT ON HIS THRONE AND WORRY ABOUT OUR TROUBLES
WHY, MISTER FROGFUZZ, SWEE'PEA'S TOO YOUNG TO WORRY
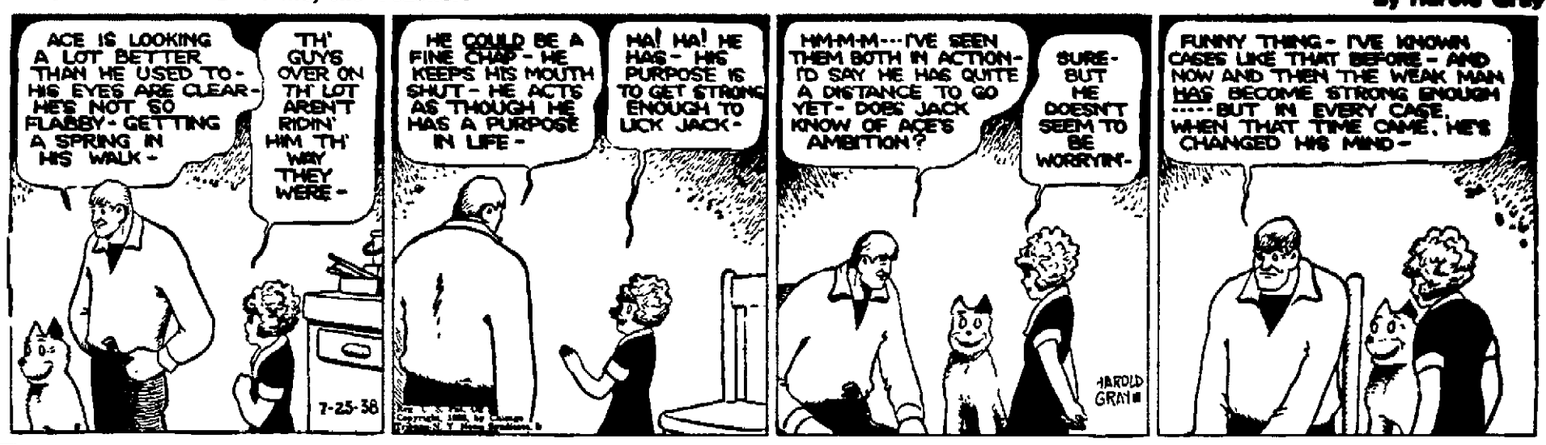
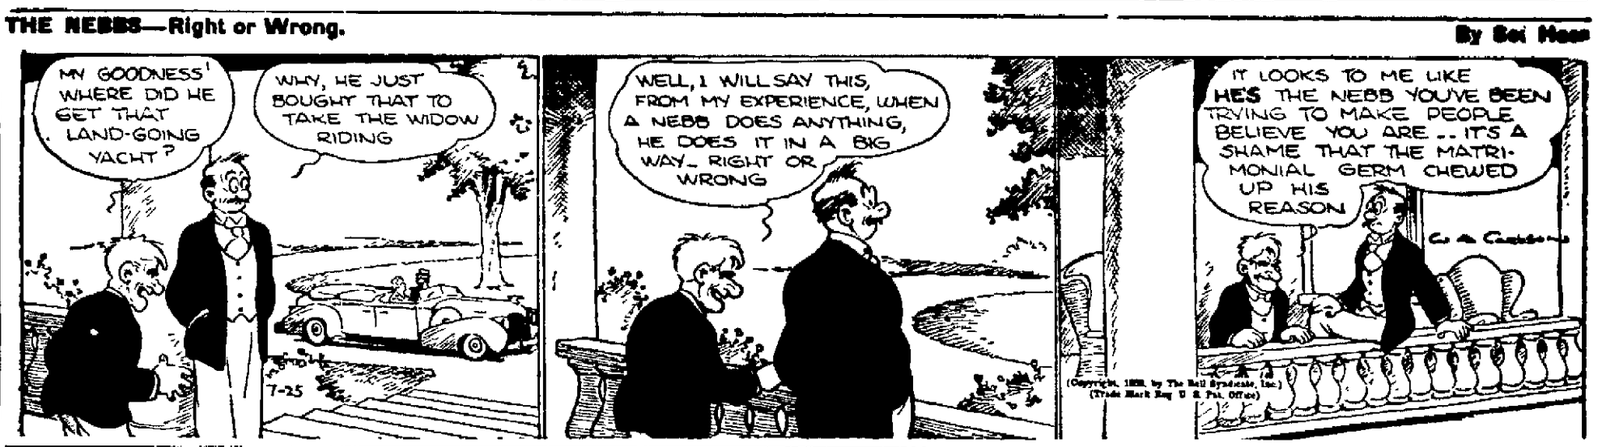
ALL GOOD KINGS WORRY, YOU KNOW THAT

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Time, the Teacher. By Harold Gray



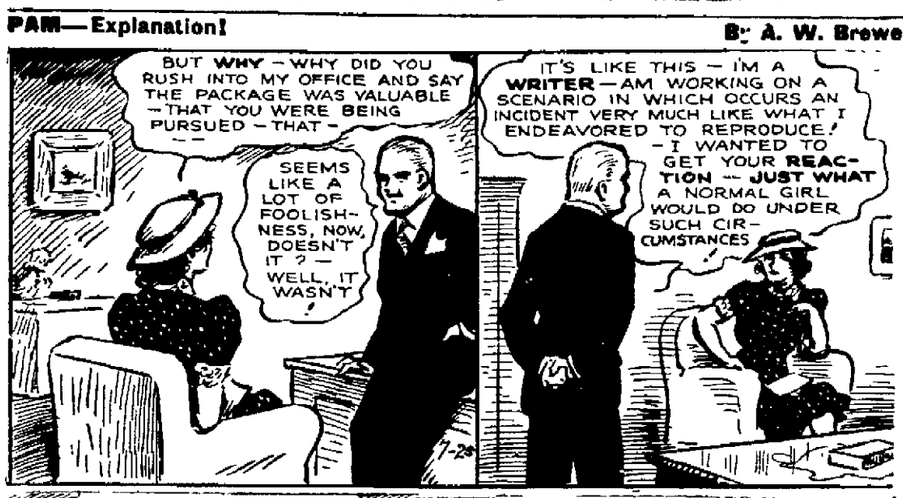
ACE IS LOOKING A LOT BETTER THAN HE USED TO- HIS EYES ARE CLEAR- HE'S NOT SO FLABBY- GETTING A SPRING IN HIS WALK-
TH' GUYS OVER ON TH' LOT AREN'T RIDIN' HIM TH' WAY THEY WERE-
7-25-38
HE COULD BE A FINE CHAP- HE KEEPS HIS MOUTH SHUT- HE ACTS AS THOUGH HE HAS A PURPOSE IN LIFE-
HA! HA! HE HAS- HIS PURPOSE IS TO GET STRONG ENOUGH TO LICK JACK-
HM-M-M--- I'VE SEEN THEM BOTH IN ACTION- I'D SAY HE HAS QUITE A DISTANCE TO GO YET- DOES JACK KNOW OF ACE'S AMBITION?
SURE- BUT HE DOESN'T SEEM TO BE WORRYIN-
HAROLD GRAY
FUNNY THING- I'VE KNOWN CASES LIKE THAT BEFORE- AND NOW AND THEN THE WEAK MAN HAS BECOME STRONG ENOUGH ----BUT IN EVERY CASE, WHEN THAT TIME CAME, HE'S CHANGED HIS MIND-

THE NEBBS—Right or Wrong. By Sol Hess



MY GOODNESS! WHERE DID HE GET THAT LAND-GOING YACHT?
WHY, HE JUST BOUGHT THAT TO TAKE THE WIDOW RIDING
7-25
WELL, I WILL SAY THIS, FROM MY EXPERIENCE, WHEN A NEBB DOES ANYTHING, HE DOES IT IN A BIG WAY- RIGHT OR WRONG
IT LOOKS TO ME LIKE HE'S THE NEBB YOU'VE BEEN TRYING TO MAKE PEOPLE BELIEVE YOU ARE -- IT'S A SHAME THAT THE MATRIMONIAL GERM CHEWED UP HIS REASON

PAM—Explanation! By A. W. Brewerton



BUT WHY - WHY DID YOU RUSH INTO MY OFFICE AND SAY THE PACKAGE WAS VALUABLE - THAT YOU WERE BEING PURSUED - THAT - SEEMS LIKE A LOT OF FOOLISHNESS, NOW, DOESN'T IT? - WELL, IT WASN'T!
IT'S LIKE THIS - I'M A WRITER - AM WORKING ON A SCENARIO IN WHICH OCCURS AN INCIDENT VERY MUCH LIKE WHAT I ENDEAVORED TO REPRODUCE! - I WANTED TO GET YOUR REACTION - JUST WHAT A NORMAL GIRL WOULD DO UNDER SUCH CIRCUMSTANCES
SO YOU SEE, YOU'VE REALLY BEEN WORKING FOR ME, THOUGH YOU DIDN'T KNOW IT - AND OF COURSE I SHALL PAY YOU FOR IT! - IT WAS VERY NERVY - BRAZEN, ON MY PART - BUT - I WANTED THE PLAY TO BE TRUE TO LIFE - REAL! HOW ELSE COULD I GET SUCH REACTION?
I COULDN'T GO TO YOU, OR SOME OTHER YOUNG WOMAN, TELL HER WHAT I WANTED TO DO AND THEN ENACT THE INCIDENT - IT HAD TO BE A SURPRISE - UNEXPECTED! - FULL OF MYSTERY, ETC., TO BRING OUT YOUR REAL FEELINGS AND ACTIONS!
TO BE CONTINUED

SRICK BRADFORD— In the Fortress of Fear. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

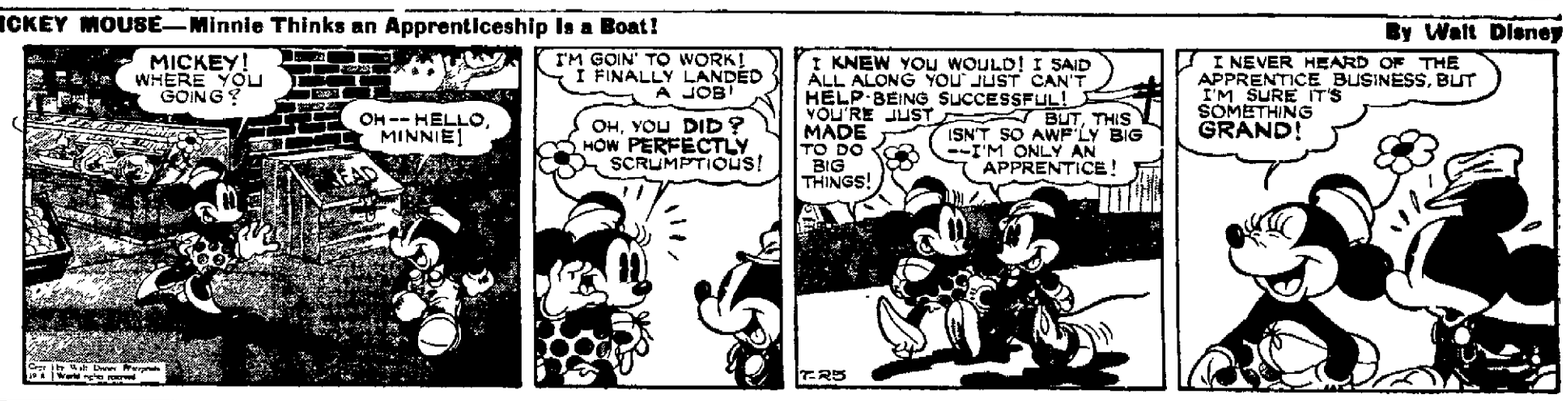
I'M CERTAINLY IN A TOUGH SPOT IF HE BETRAYS ME BUT - WHAT AM I THINKING OF? SAMSA'S AS TRUE AS THEY MAKE THEM!
7-25
OH! HELLO, SAMSA!
I'VE GOOD NEWS, MASTER! WE ARE TO MEET THE GRAND MASTER, HASSAN BEN SABAH— HIMSELF!

MICKEY MOUSE—Minnie Thinks an Apprenticeship Is a Boat! By Walt Disney



MICKEY! WHERE YOU GOING?
OH--HELLO, MINNIE!
I'M GOIN' TO WORK! I FINALLY LANDED A JOB!
OH, YOU DID? HOW PERFECTLY SCRUMPTIOUS!
I KNEW YOU WOULD! I SAID ALL ALONG YOU JUST CAN'T HELP BEING SUCCESSFUL! YOU'RE JUST MADE TO DO BIG THINGS!
BUT, THIS ISN'T SO AWF'LY BIG --I'M ONLY AN APPRENTICE!
I NEVER HEARD OF THE APPRENTICE BUSINESS, BUT I'M SURE IT'S SOMETHING GRAND!

HI, CHIEF!
YOU SURE MADE FAST TIME!
WHERE'S SKEETER?
HE LEFT THREE-POINT EARLY THURSDAY IN THE OLD PUSHER. HE SHOULD HAVE BEEN HERE BY NOW!
WE HAVEN'T SEEN HIM YET!
WELL, I'LL GO OVER TO THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE AND O-O-O-OH IF I HAD TH' WINGS OF AN ANGEL..
LISTEN!
FOR LIMITED TIME ONLY! SEND 3-CENT STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED, LARGE ENVELOPE TO HAL FORREST, % THIS PAPER, FOR MODEL PLANS OF DOUGLAS DST PLANE

JUDGE PUFFLE By Gene Ahern

IT'S ALL SET, JUDGE! - YOU REPORT FOR WORK THURSDAY MORNING! - BE AT THE PARK BOAT-HOUSE AT EIGHT AND ASK FOR SHANAHAN; - HE'LL SHOW YOU HOW TO RUN THE LAUNCH! - I'LL GO IN AND TELL MY SISTER, SO SHE CAN PUT THE BURR ON YOU, TO KEEP YOU FROM FORGETTING THE DATE AND TIME!
EIGHT O'CLOCK THURSDAY MORNING! - IT IS SET IN MY MEMORY LIKE A BRONZE TABLET IN GRANITE. SYLVESTER! - INDEED, YES! - OBSERVE THIS SHOT, DEAR BROTHER-IN-LAW!
WELL - THAT DEFINITELY PLACES THE DATE FOR MY VACATION DEPARTURE. - THE NIGHT BEFORE I AM SUPPOSED TO BECOME A GALLEY SLAVE ON A PARK LAUNCH!
HE'LL BE THERE, SYLVESTER, - IN SPIRIT.

BUSTLING MART EXTENDS GAINS TO NEW PEAKS

Penetrates Further Into High Ground for Year With Major Advances.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market bounded forward anew today, penetrating further into new high ground for the year on gains of 1 to more than 2 points.

Trading was at a heavy pace, the high-speed ticker falling 3 minutes behind at the start and again a minute in the second hour. Huge blocks of stock changed hands in early transactions, running to 8,000 shares in radio.

The advance, an extension of Saturday's last-minute upthrust to new 1938 peaks, was packed by coppers, rubbers, steels, motors and blue-chips. Bullish enthusiasm continued to reflect general improvement in business.

There were hundreds of individual new tops for the year scattered through the list. Included were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, duPont, Case, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, Kennecott, Sears Roebuck, U. S. Rubber and Johns-Manville.

Case, duPont, U. S. Gypsum and Westinghouse Electric each were up about 2 points. Most other leaders were a point or more above previous closing levels.

Amusements, after their modest recovery Saturday, again turned downward on an independent movement. Loew's slipped a point before meeting support. Gains in the rails were limited to minor fractions in most cases.

Utilities came forward late in the forenoon, Consolidated Edison reached a new top on an advance of almost a point. Public Service of N. J. was up more than a point.

TEXANS CHOOSE 'POLITICAL BABY'

ticians" long after seasoned foes had started stumping the hinterlands, commented:

"The secret of success in business is ability to co-operate. I think the sane principles of business can be applied to government. I have no idea of being a dictator. I expect to get along well with the legislature."

Stout and Irish, Paul J. Kilday, 38-year-old San Antonio attorney backed by Mayor C. K. Quin's political machine, whipped Maverick, New Deal mainstain, by 589 votes. Quickly came reports that Maverick would demand an investigation and recount.

O'Daniel and Kilday campaigned on pensions issues.

So did 25-year-old Lindley Beckworth, a state representative, to crush Sanders. The youngster shouted promises to work for pension increases; declared his loyalty to President Roosevelt. Trailing him was Smith County Judge Brady Gentry. Two hundred votes back, almost out of run-off contention, was Sanders.

Attorney Ed Gossett, another old-age pensions advocate, led Rep. W. D. MacFarlane, who recently got a warm-greeting from President Roosevelt in Texas. Gossett almost had the necessary vote for a majority in late incomplete returns.

He contended that a more economic and non-political administration would result in more assistance to the aged.

Attorney General William A. McCraw, who batted O'Daniel from the stump and ridiculed his plan to have business men sit with the governor in council over proposed legislation, finished third.

In second position was Col. Ernest O. Thompson, railroad commissioner, who advocated lowering of utility rates and general industrialization of Texas. Thompson's latest total was 161,-993; McCraw's 107,309.

COUNTY FAIR'S 3-DAY PROGRAM LISTED BY WOLF

Board's President Announces Time Schedule for Program Opening Wednesday.

Richland county fair board officials today completed a detailed draft of the day and night program for the county fair which opens Wednesday and continues through Friday night.

Because this year's fair is a three-day event, one day less than in previous years, H. H. Wolf, president of the fair board, today reminded fairgoers that the custom of placing exhibits on the opening day has been eliminated this year. For that reason, he said, in place of delaying attendance until the second day of the fair, spectators will have a well-rounded program on the opening day just as in the two succeeding days.

The program as announced by Wolf is as follows:

WEDNESDAY
(Racing Program)

Event	Purse
2-Year-Old Trot
Stake Pace.....	$200 and added
3-Year-Old Stake
Pace	$200 and added

SLASHES WRIST

Lincoln Heights Woman Ends Own Life With Razor Blade.

A suicide verdict was returned by Coroner Hugh Winbigler in the death late Saturday of Mrs. Fairy Tupps, 44, Lincoln Heights, whose body was found in her room with the left wrist slashed with a razor blade.

The body was discovered about 6 p. m. by her husband, W. J. Tupps, after he returned from work. Mrs. Tupps, who had been in ill health for several weeks, left a note under a pillow, explaining that she feared losing her mind, Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman said. The note was addressed to her husband.

A native of Crawford county, Mrs. Tupps came to Mansfield 22 years ago. She was a member of the English Lutheran church of Bucyrus.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, W. B. Tupps, Mansfield; a daughter, Carol Jean, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Zaebst of Crawford county; four sisters, Mrs. Charles Gadfield of Mansfield, Mrs. Chester Miller of Bellville, Mrs. Leo Walton of Bucyrus and Alice Zaebst of Crawford county, and two brothers, Robert Zaebst of Mansfield and Richard Zaebst of Crawford county.

The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. H. S. Garnes pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Union cemetery, Crawford county.

TOO SPEEDY!

Autoist Who Drove 84 Miles An Hour Fined $10 and Costs.

Accused of passing a state highway patrol car at 84 miles an hour, Carl O. Whitten, 38, of 22 South Adams street, charged with careless and reckless driving, pleaded guilty in municipal court today and was fined $10 and costs.

Whitten was arrested by Corporal Scott B. Radcliffe last Friday night on route 13 at the city limits. Radcliffe testified that Whitten passed the patrol car which was enroute to Mansfield, near the airport on North Main street. He said he failed to catch up with the driver until he had slowed up upon entering the city.

ONE ACCIDENT IN COUNTY, SIX DIE IN OHIO TRAFFIC

Pedestrian Hit by Car Here; Lightning Kills Three in Southern Part of State.

One traffic accident in Mansfield, in which one person suffered minor injuries, was the only mishap reported in Richland county over the week-end. It was the second consecutive week-end in which the county escaped without a major accident.

At least 15 persons, however, died in the state as the result of traffic crashes, drowning and lightning. Only six of the fatalities were attributed to traffic, while three persons were killed by lightning as severe electrical storms swept the southern half of Ohio.

Pedestrian Hit.

In the county's lone accident, Howard Culp, 28, of 325 Cline avenue, suffered head lacerations when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Wynn, 106 Harter avenue, at Sturges and Rhein avenues about 9 p. m. Saturday.

Wynn took Culp home after the injured man had been treated at General hospital. Wynn told police he failed to see Culp, who was walking in the street, until too late to avoid hitting him.

Two young men were killed late Saturday when lightning struck a barn west of Circleville while they were storing hay in the mow. The victims were Emmett Cook, 21, and Donald Smith, 18. Fire started by the lightning destroyed the barn, livestock and machinery.

Mrs. Glenn Smith, 40, was killed by lightning as she picked blackberries in Adams county.

13 Fishermen Rescued.

Thirteen Toledo fishermen, who had been marooned without food for nearly 30 hours on West Sister island in Lake Erie, were rescued by coast guards. The fishermen's 36-foot launch became disabled, struck rocks and was partially submerged.

Among the traffic victims were Miss Ursula Ryan, 18, Cleveland, fatally hurt in an accident at Rocky River, and Harry Simmons, 45, of Lockport, killed in an automobile collision on route 20 near West Unity.

Miss Ursula LaValle, 16, daughter of former Councilman Hugh L. LaValle of Cleveland, drowned while swimming in Lake Erie near Willoughby. Aaron Shedroff, 30, also of Cleveland, was drowned at a picnic near Twinsburg after suffering a heart attack.

FACES COURT ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Celeryville Man's Trial Awaits Determination of Injuries.

Willard Sharpless, 26, of Celeryville will face Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court Aug. 6, on a charge of assault and battery filed today by Mrs. Harris Postema, R. D. 1, Plymouth, following an alleged altercation between Sharpless and her husband.

The case was continued at the request of City Solicitor Marion D. Ward until the condition of Postema, who is confined in the Willard hospital with a fractured jaw could be determined. Sharpless was released on $500 bond.

Deputy sheriffs said they arrested Sharpless Saturday night at his home.

HELD ON TRAFFIC COUNT

SHELBY—Charged with reckless and careless driving, Robert Metz, 40 Third street, today was being held for appearance before Mayor D. B. Young's court. Metz was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman William Ewalt when he was reported by police to have been driving 50 miles per hour on West Main street.

A Farmer's Diary

THE ICE CREAM SOCIAL

THE ice cream social is an annual event, held in the sugar grove, beyond the church. The members and the whole community join in preparing the food for sale, and in the frolic that accompanies it.

In every home about the countryside, the odors of baked food are in the air. There are huge sandwich buns, with tempting golden crust; light, fluffy cakes; fresh peach and apple pies, steaming in a row. From behind the house, comes the sound of the ice cream freezer turning—the chipping of ice, the banter and laughter as the tempting yellow dessert is finished, and the can is opened to get a glimpse and a first taste of the creamy delicacy.

In the evening twilight, motherly country women lay the tables, while the men light the outdoor lamps and lanterns, and place chairs and benches in convenient places.

When darkness comes, the grove echoes with the songs and laughter of the young folks. The blushing maids serve the food of their own making to the strong, bronzed lads . . . and hope for notice. The backward, eager youths eat heartily and the ice is broken. Presently the rugged young men and winsome girls are wandering about in pairs or walking home after the games.

The young children get sleepy and their parents begin to talk of leaving. The familiar "cake walk" is announced, to rid the tables of those cakes remaining uneaten. Each one who joins pays a small fee and enters into a great circle. They march around to a jolly tune until the leader commands "Halt!" The one who stands nearest the man with the lantern at the halt is a winner, and can choose a cake to take home with him.

LASHES DAVEY, RESIGNS POST

butions to Governor Davey's campaign fund, has been an active Davey lieutenant since 1935.

In his letter, Hubbell criticized Charles S. Leasure, chairman of the unemployment commission, charging the latter with nepotism.

"Mr. Leasure has insisted on personally directing and handling accounting and financial details, concerning which he has not the slightest experience or conception," he said. "This is quite easily understood, as Mr. Leasure's only experience, prior to the time you appointed him to administer the $100,000,000 unemployment compensation fund, consisted of four years as the prosecuting attorney of one of the smaller counties of Ohio and two years as clerk in your office.

Charges Nepotism.

"Another reason for my resignation is the nepotism which has existed in the Ohio unemployment compensation commission and which prevents this department from functioning properly. For more than a year, Chairman Leasure has had a number of his relatives on the commission's payroll, one of whom is receiving an annual salary of several thousand dollars despite the fact that he is lacking in ability, training, experience and habits of industry.

"In support of this charge of incompetency, I refer you to the work this employe performed on our cash journal for the year 1937. Even from a position 10 feet away from the open book, it is apparent that as a book-keeper this man would make a good paper-hanger.

"For political reasons, Chairman Leasure has assigned inexperienced and incompetent employes to important posts in my department without my prior knowledge and over my objections. The situation confronting me is such that it is impossible for me to require or obtain from the members of my staff an honest day's work for each day's pay. Absence from duty on political missions is so prevalent that the work of my department has suffered very materially.

Interviews Denied, Claim.

On numerous occasions I have sought an interview with you to relate to you personally the situation which exists. . . . Failing in my efforts to obtain such an interview, I then enlisted the co-operation of a Cleveland citizen, a mutual friend of yours and mine, and a man who stands high in your confidence. Together this gentleman and I drove out to the executive mansion one evening in late spring and while I waited for nearly two hours, he discussed with you the mal-administraton of the Ohio unemployment compensation commission under the Davey-Leasure influence.

"At the end of that time, our friend returned to me in the waiting automobile and quoted the governor of Ohio as saying, 'What the hell does Hubbell care, he is getting his pay, isn't he?'

"As a direct result of the Davey policy of giving jobs to politicians who are incompetent, rather than to qualified persons who have had adequate training and experience for the highly specialized duties of the positions to be filled, I predict that, beginning with January, 1939, the time fixed by law for starting the payment of unemployment benefits, there will be chaos in the office of the Ohio unemployment compensation commission instead of the orderly and prompt payment of benefits, and thousands of needy and worthy men, women and children will never receive the benefit payments to which they will be entitled."

MEET AT KLEIN HOME

SHELBY—A postponed meeting will be held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Jerry Klein on Auburn street by members of the Ever-Ready class of the United Brethren church.

'BLOW' 4 SAFES

Cleveland Safecrackers Bind Watchman, Escape.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Police today sought a gang of safecrackers who bound the night watchman at the Hickox building at Ninth street and Euclid avenue, leisurely "blew" four safes and escaped with loot valued at several thousand dollars.

Michael Maiorano, 43, the watchman, bound, gagged and blindfolded, was forced to ring A. D. T. boxes at the regular times to prevent an alarm being given.

CIVIL SERVICE TEST DATE SET

Exam for School Attendance Officer to Be Held on Aug. 19, Biddle Says.

Competitive examinations for the purpose of preparing an eligibility list from which an attendance officer for Mansfield schools may be named, will be held Aug. 19 at the city building, Atty. George Biddle, secretary of the civil service commission, said today.

Applications for the examinations will be accepted at the office of the commission in the city building from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. Aug. 6, Biddle said.

Biddle said the commission had received a request for certification from the Mansfield school board for a list of eligibles for the position left vacant by the death three months ago, of A. H. Wood.

He explained that the commission had no such list, and for that reason was conducting the examination. Applicants, he said, must be between the ages of 35 and 55, married, and with a family and have a motor car operator's permit.

Biddle said the commission had also accepted a petition for reinstatement from Ralph H. Hildebrand, former city patrolman, and ordered it simply received and filed.

He explained that the commission could take no action on the request because it was made after more than a year had elapsed since Hildebrand had resigned.

He said the state law requires that the application be made within a year.

The commission also will hold a non-competitive examination on Aug. 6, for Edward Alheim, who was recently appointed temporarily as WPA inspector on the Woodland water project. The appointment is for 90 days.

ernor estimated it would cost $10,000,000 to repair state highways damaged by the 1937 flood the actual cost was less than $1,000,000.

Sawyer inaugurated a week of intensive campaign traveling with a farm meeting in Columbus.

Governor Davey was expected to make his regular weekly radio campaign speech tonight and to follow up with other "stump" speeches, but this itinerary was not yet available. The governor attended the state American Legion convention in Cincinnati over the week-end and reviewed national guard troops at Camp Perry.

In a radio interview in Cincinnati Sunday night with John T. Brown, Champaign county, former lieutenant governor, Robert A. Taft, candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, renewed his criticism of the Roosevelt administration's farm policy.

"The New Deal farm policy is crippling the American farmer at home and abroad," he said.

Taft proposed removal of all limitation on farm production and creation of tariffs equal to the difference in cost of production here and in foreign countries.

EX-MANSFIELDER DIES IN FLAMES

Mrs. Krug Fatally Burned; Husband Was Newspaperman Here.

Mrs. Dorothy Krug, 26, of Canton, wife of George Krug, former Mansfield resident, died yesterday in Mercy hospital, Canton, from burns which were caused when her bed ignited from a cigaret.

She was in a bedroom of their apartment, with the door locked, when her bed and clothing ignited. Neighbors and her husband, hearing her screams, had to break down the door before they could reach her.

Her husband is the son of Dan Krug, formerly business manager of the old Mansfield News and later of The Mansfield Journal. The younger Krug also was employed on The Journal. They moved to Canton over five years ago.

BOND PARADE PLANNED, FINAL MEETINGS BEGIN

Pupils to March Aug. 5; Series of Talks Before P. T. A. Groups on Last Lap.

The Mansfield P. T. A. organization will launch the final lap of its campaign for the board of education's proposed $550,000 bond issue with a meeting of the Newman P. T. A. at 7:30 p. m. today at Liberty park. Four other meetings are scheduled for the week.

Postponed from Friday night because of rain, the session will include talks by Dr. John S. Hattery and H. W. Arlin of the board of education, and a concert by the Senior high school band. Both speakers will urge support of the bond issue for a school building program.

The school bond campaign will be presented on another front tonight by H. A. Bruce, school board member, who will discuss it at a meeting of the Hermit club at the Y. M. C. A. day camp on Park avenue west.

Plan Parade.

Plans for a parade of school children through the city Aug. 5 in the interests of the school bond issue were to be formulated at a committee meeting at 4 p. m. today at the office of Supt. W. L. Miller.

The parade will climax the bond issue campaign, City Patrolman Frend Boals is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Supt. W. L. Miller and Arlin are scheduled to speak on the building program Tuesday night at a meeting of the Senior high P. T. A. at North Lake park. The high school band will play at the rally.

The Hedges P. T. A. will meet Wednesday night at the school building where board members Arlin and Bruce and Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, will speak.

The Carpenter school organization will meet Thursday night at the school building and the Brinkerhoff P. T. A. Friday night at that school.

PUSHES DRIVE

Senior High P. T. A. to Aid Bond Campaign Tuesday.

A concert by the Senior High School band will precede a meeting of the Senior high school Parent-Teacher association at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Dickson stand at North Lake park.

The meeting will be open to the public, and is being called for the purpose of presenting to the public and association members, the proposed $550,000 school bond issue.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the Mansfield board of education, will address the association at 8:15 p. m., and motion pictures of conditions in the public schools will be shown.

The band concert will be directed by J. Merton Holcombe. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, vice president of the association, will preside during the meeting.

Mansfield Vets March Today As Legion Parades

Mansfield Legionnaires who are in Cincinnati for the 20th annual state convention, were in the big parade this afternoon, in which approximately 7,000 veterans took part.

Veterans in dark blue uniforms and post drum corps in their brilliant uniforms, made the parade one of the most colorful Cincinnati had seen in several years.

The peak of hilarity was reached Saturday night when the 40 and 8, the fun organization of the Legion, staged its annual parade and gave Cincinnatians something to remember.

Daniel J. Doherty, Indianapolis, national commander of the Legion, spoke yesterday afternoon and urged the American Legion to continue its campaign for Americanism, pointing out that education of American youth in sound citizenship was in the first line of defense "against alien doctrines such as Communism and Fascism."

New state officers will be elected at the closing session tomorrow. A keen contest for state commander is being waged between the supporters of J. W. Bowen, Hillsboro, and Eli Jenson, Springfield. Mansfield Legionnaires were particularly interested in view of the fact that McVey Post endorsed the candidacy of Bowen.

FEATURE OUTING

2 Softball Games Mark K. of C. Stag Picnic Attended By 125.

Two softball games between Mansfield and Mt. Vernon K. of C. teams featured the outing, with Mt. Vernon winning the first game, 13 to 5 and Mansfield taking the second, 8 to 0. A committee headed by George Wintersteen, jr., was in charge of the picnic.

ANOTHER RECORD

Playgrounds Attendance Mark Broken by 3,491.

Breaking the previous week's attendance mark by 3,491, Mansfield playgrounds last week set a new attendance record when 21,253 children took part in the various activities on the 12 city operated playlots, Al Fendrick, playground director, announced today.

In addition to breaking the fourth week's attendance record of 17,762, the attendance last week was an increase of 9,169 over the 1937 mark for the same period.

The playground swimming carnival staged last Friday at Liberty park, and which attracted more than 1,200 children, was partly responsible for the large attendance increase, Fendrick said.

A total of 88,821 children have attended the grounds daily since they opened in June for the summer season, the attendance records show. The first week drew 17,165, the second 15,740, the third 16,901 and the fourth 17,762.

CITY, TOWNSHIP FORGET LEVIES

No Campaign to Be Waged in Behalf of Relief Issues; Officials See Defeat.

but strictly on the merits of the issue."

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said it was unquestionably the "most needed" of any of the issues to be decided on—but didn't see "what chance" it had of receiving a 65 per cent majority.

Madison township trustees, however, were less pessimistic but said that no campaign would be launched to obtain the approval of the voters.

F. J. Stahlheber, clerk of the board, said the township had "no funds to carry on a campaign."

Mansfield will be asked to approve the two-mill levy for two years which would produce approximately $90,000 annually while Madison township is seeking one mill which will raise about $45,000 annually for the township.

City and county officials were at a loss to say just what would be done to raise funds to care for the families on relief if the bond issues fail to pass.

Hunter said he "didn't know where" the money would come from in the event the city issue was defeated, while township officials asserted that they "could make no promises."

LOVE IN DANGER

By KATHRYN BEMIS

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER XIII

Ray switched on the night lamp on the table beside her, got out of bed. She threw a green satin robe around her shoulders and settled herself in a lounging chair by her desk. From its drawer, she took a pack of cards and began a game of solitaire on a magazine in her lap.

Even this had no power to distract her mind from a man like Frank. She saw his face in every jack and king in the pack. It was maddening, it was ridiculous, it was pure insanity. With a fling of her hand, she dashed the cards to the floor. She got up, walked across the room to her bed, and threw herself face down on its rose silk counterpane and sobbed herself to sleep.

She awakened some hours later feeling as spent and breathless as a climber above timberline. She must see Mr Roper and tell him about all that had happened. She must expose Frank Armstrong if it were the last thing she ever did Even if she loved him, she must do it She had no business loving him! She would take this way to kill her love for him. It wouldn't be easy to do but, merciful heavens, she couldn't go on as she was going.

Laboriously, she sat up, then stood on her feet. She took a cold shower. She rubbed herself briskly with a heavy towel and felt some of her old self-reliance surging through her. After all, it was good to be alive, things might not be as bad as they seemed. And that awful creature who was captured last night was no doubt as much of a criminal as he looked, and the cause of all the disturbance in Mumford. Frank would not be implicated.

Yet she would see Mr. Roper. Perhaps he could straighten out her misgivings, so that never again would she mistrust a man like Frank whom she could so thoroughly love Obviously, she was a fool, as Frank had said, but sometimes it was wonderful to be a dear fool over just one man.

She had coffee and melba toast in her sitting room, after which Mimi gave her a relaxing facial and alcohol rub Her spirits began to soar higher with every stroke She felt nearly happy, found it easier to bury her worries.

When she was finally dressed, she was lovely in a green wool suit with a bright green scarf at her throat Her green felt beret clung to her golden curls like an emerald crown Its tiny yellow quill exactly matched her pigskin gloves and handbag Her feet were smartly shod in green suede pumps, exquisite against her slim ankles in the sheerest of hose.

She hurried downstairs and out of the house to walk briskly in the hazy morning sunshine. The soft gentle breze seemed to foretell Indian summer, soon to arrive with its burst of golden fleeting days. The trees had turned to amber, crimson and purple, the lawns hid their dying grass under a carpet of brilliant-hued leaves, and were decorated here and there by the flaming color of shrubs

Ray couldn't remember when she had taken so long a walk as this, but it suited her mood and gave her an opportunity to thrash out problems the result of which threatened to affect her whole life. She came out of the fashionable residential section at last and into the older part of town, and finally found herself in the middle of the busy downtown traffic Her pulses began racing in harmony with the milling crowd, the noise, the bustle.

She hurried along to the First National Bank Building, and crowded into an elevator with men who frankly stared at her loveliness and women who flung envious glances at her. She held her burning cheeks high and got out at the third floor She paused an instant beside the partially opened door on which was lettered UNION DETECTIVE AGENCY. She started as she recognized Mr. Roper's voice raised in anger.

"I'm ready to wash my hands of you!" he was declaring. "There's no rhyme or reason to all this, Armstrong! Either you did or you didn't—and it's my business to find out!"

"See here, Roper," it was Frank Armstrong's pleading tone that frightened Ray, "I'm not ready to expose this yet. Give me two days more."

'Hell! You've had all the time within reason! If you're in a jam—"

Ray crouched against the wall Fortunately, no one was passing through the corridor at the moment She was ill with doubt Mr Roper had just threatened to wash his hands of Frank, thought Frank was in some sort of jam "Oh, dear God—won't let him be—in a jam," she prayed tremulously and slid to the floor in a faint

"Ray—Ray, darling!" he cried "What's the matter?"

He quickly picked her up in his arms and re-entered the office.

"Here, Roper," he said, "give me a hand, please. Miss Hunt's fainted"

The two men laid Ray on a large antique sofa James Roper looked as disturbed as Frank at seeing her in this condition He got out nervously, "Well, well—what's the cause of all this? What's she doing here?"

Frank Armstrong made no comment but hurried to the cooler and drew a glass of water. He dipped the end of a towel in it and bathed Ray's face He was doing this when she regained consciousness.

"Frank," she murmured, her wide eyes questioning.

"Yes, Ray," he said "Mr. Roper is wondering why you chose to faint just outside his door"

She realized then that he was trying to make her remember where she was, let her know that Mr. Roper was present. She endeavored to smile her appreciation. Had it not been for Frank's hint, she might have said something foolish One was apt to at a time like this when one loved a man, even an undeserving man. She tried to smile at him gratefully.

Mr. Roper came to stand within her range of vision. The kindly brown eyes in his sallow round face appraised her quizzically. Between his thick red lips was the inevitable cigar. He removed it to remark, "Sorry you feel bad, Miss Hunt—but you'll be okay in a minute"

Ray's gaze shifted to Frank He was running long unsteady fingers through his fine nut-brown hair, his gray eyes were serious as they looked with her imploring scrutiny. She began to tremble violently. Her eyes filling with tears. She saw this man she must cease to love through a dull mist of regret, but still thought him desirable. It was plainly evident now that all she had feared must be true It had been apparent from the very first that she could never marry him.

She said with brave resolution, "I think I'm better now."

Frank assisted her to sit up and took a chair beside the sofa. Mr Roper seated himself on the other end of the sofa and inquired solicitiously, "All right?"

"Yes—I believe so"

She was thankful that Mr. Roper had no highly discerning girl secretary, thankful that no employes of his were in the office to wonder about and piece together the salient points of this little scene. She tried to explain, "I only came down to—to—"

She hesitated. Frank being here did complicate matters. There could be no heart to heart talk for the present between Mr. Roper and herself

"It's your check, I'll wager," Mr Roper said, with a chuckle. "I'm sorry I neglected to send it to you I'll make it out at once. You've done splendid work for us—I appreciate it"

"Only fair," she smiled up at him.

"It took Armstrong two solid hours to give me your report last time—I call that nearly a hundred per cent fair."

He went to his desk at the other side of the room, picked up his check book, and began to write.

Ray faced Frank severely. She said in an undertone, "What have you being doing? I never gave you that much information!"

Frank avoided Ray's eyes, looking fixedly at a framed copy of the Declaration of Independence hanging on the white plastered wall. "I thought it might seem better to Roper, that's all. I didn't tell him anything you couldn't have told me. I simply kept my eyes open and the drama of scandal in your set naturally unfolded before my gaze." He grinned and turned to her with that gay light in his eyes again. "Please don't be so technical, dear. Was there any particular harm in trying to make your job last longer?"

"Yes—when you've practically earned my salary," she got out disdainfully.

"But, darling—"

'Here you are, Miss Hunt," said Mr. Roper, starting toward her with the check.

Her face paled, she clenched her hands tightly in her lap. She made no move to accept the bit of paper, so Mr. Roper laid it on the sofa beside her.

"I—I—" she began helplessly.

JACK-KNIFE—Muscles tense in the blue—a thrilling pause—an arrowlike flash into the pool, leaving scarcely a ripple. As one spectator exclaimed: "It's perfect—the water seems to part to let Wayne in!"

INTERMISSION—and a Camel! "Always after an exhausting tournament," says champion Wayne, "I light up a Camel for a very welcome 'lift.' Camels add a lot to my comfort and contentment!"

"Camels agree with me in a lot of ways!"

"CALLING ALL CARS!" finds Radio Patrolman Harold Sickles (right) always alert, ready for action! He says: "I can't afford jittery nerves. So my off-duty smoke is Camel. I smoke Camels plenty 'for digestion's sake' too."

ARE CAMEL CIGARETTES REALLY DIFFERENT FROM THE OTHERS?
THEY CERTAINLY ARE, ELNORA, FROM MANY ANGLES. CAMELS NEVER TIRE MY TASTE AND THEY ARE EASY ON MY THROAT TOO. EVEN AFTER STEADY SMOKING, THEY DON'T BOTHER MY NERVES. CAMELS ARE SWELL!

Tobacco growers know "inside" reasons for preferring Camels

These planters tell what they know about Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos

"At the warehouse sales," says Leon Mullen, experienced planter, "Camel buys the choice ... grades of tobacco. That's the reason why most of us men who grow and know tobacco smoke Camel cigarettes. We certainly appreciate the difference in the tobacco Camel buys"

"Almost every one of my fine baskets of tobacco went to Camel buyers last year," says G. A. Langley, who knows tobacco growing from every angle. "Better tobaccos mean better smoking," he adds "That means Camels to me—and to most other growers too."

Alton Barnes, a planter who has grown and graded many a fine crop, says this about Camels: "Year after year the choicest lots of my tobacco have gone to the Camel buyers. Naturally, we growers select the best tobacco for our own smoking. So we choose Camels."

"I know from experience that Camel buys choice tobaccos," says Mr. Cecil Claybourne, veteran planter. "Many's the time they've paid more to get my finest lots of tobacco Yes, most of us planters smoke Camels. We sure find a difference in their finer tobaccos."

COUNTY FAIR'S 3-DAY PROGRAM LISTED BY WOLF

Board's President Announces Time Schedule for Program Opening Wednesday.

Richland county fair board officials today completed a detailed draft of the day and night program for the county fair which opens Wednesday and continues through Friday night.

Because this year's fair is a three-day event, one day less than in previous years, H. H. Wolf, president of the fair board, today reminded fairgoers that the custom of placing exhibits on the opening day has been eliminated this year. For that reason, he said, in place of delaying attendance until the second day of the fair, spectators will have a well-rounded program on the opening day just as in the two succeeding days.

The program as announced by Wolf is as follows:

SLASHES WRIST

Lincoln Heights Woman Ends Own Life With Razor Blade.

A suicide verdict was returned by Coroner Hugh Winbigler in the death late Saturday of Mrs. Fairy Tupps, 44, Lincoln Heights, whose body was found in her room with the left wrist slashed with a razor blade.

The body was discovered about 6 p. m. by her husband, W. J. Tupps, after he returned from work. Mrs. Tupps, who had been in ill health for several weeks, left a note under a pillow, explaining that she feared losing her mind, Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman said. The note was addressed to her husband.

A native of Crawford county, Mrs. Tupps came to Mansfield 22 years ago. She was a member of the English Lutheran church of Bucyrus.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, W. B. Tupps, Mansfield; a daughter, Carol Jean, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Zaebst of Crawford county; four sisters, Mrs. Charles Gadfield of Mansfield, Mrs. Chester Miller of Bellville, Mrs. Leo Walton of Bucyrus and Alice Zaebst of Crawford county, and two brothers, Robert Zaebst of Mansfield and Richard Zaebst of Crawford county.

The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. H. S Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Union cemetery, Crawford county.

TOO SPEEDY!

Autoist Who Drove 84 Miles An Hour Fined $10 and Costs.

Accused of passing a state highway patrol car at 84 miles an hour, Carl O. Whitten, 38, of 22 South Adams street, charged with careless and reckless driving, pleaded guilty in municipal court today and was fined $10 and costs.

Whitten was arrested by Corporal Scott B. Radcliffe last Friday night on route 13 at the city limits. Radcliffe testified that Whitten passed the patrol car which was enroute to Mansfield, near the airport on North Main street. He said he failed to catch up with the driver until he had slowed up upon entering the city.

ONE ACCIDENT IN COUNTY, SIX DIE IN OHIO TRAFFIC

One traffic accident in Mansfield, in which one person suffered minor injuries, was the only mishap reported in Richland county over the week-end. It was the second consecutive week-end in which the county escaped without a major accident.

At least 15 persons, however, died in the state as the result of traffic crashes, drowning and lightning. Only six of the fatalities were attributed to traffic, while three persons were killed by lightning as severe electrical storms swept the southern half of Ohio.

Pedestrian Hit.

In the county's lone accident, Howard Culp, 28, of 325 Cline avenue, suffered head lacerations when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Wynn, 106 Harter avenue, at Sturges and Rhein avenues about 9 p. m. Saturday.

Wynn took Culp home after the injured man had been treated at General hospital. Wynn told police he failed to see Culp, who was walking in the street, until too late to avoid hitting him.

Two young men were killed late Saturday when lightning struck a barn west of Circleville while they were storing hay in the mow. The victims were Emmett Cook, 21, and Donald Smith, 18. Fire started by the lightning destroyed the barn, livestock and machinery.

Mrs. Glenn Smith, 40, was killed by lightning as she picked blackberries in Adams county.

13 Fishermen Rescued.

Thirteen Toledo fishermen, who had been marooned without food for nearly 30 hours on West Sister island in Lake Erie, were rescued by coast guards. The fishermen's 36-foot launch became disabled, struck rocks and was partially submerged.

Among the traffic victims were Miss Ursula Ryan, 18, Cleveland, fatally hurt in an accident at Rocky River, and Harry Simmons, 45, of Lockport, killed in an automobile collision on route 20 near West Unity.

Miss Ursula LaValle, 16, daughter of former Councilman Hugh L. LaValle of Cleveland, drowned while swimming in Lake Erie near Willoughby. Aaron Shedroff, 30, also of Cleveland, was drowned at a picnic near Twinsburg after suffering a heart attack.

FACES COURT ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Celeryville Man's Trial Awaits Determination of Injuries.

Willard Sharpless, 26, of Celeryville will face Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court Aug. 6, on a charge of assault and battery filed today by Mrs. Harris Postema, R. D. 1, Plymouth, following an alleged altercation between Sharpless and her husband.

The case was continued at the request of City Solicitor Marion D. Ward until the condition of Postema, who is confined in the Willard hospital with a fractured jaw could be determined. Sharpless was released on $500 bond.

Deputy sheriffs said they arrested Sharpless Saturday night at his home.

HELD ON TRAFFIC COUNT

SHELBY—Charged with reckless and careless driving, Robert Metz, 40 Third street, today was being held for appearance before Mayor D. B. Young's court. Metz was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman William Ewalt when he was reported by police to have been driving 50 miles per hour on West Main street.

LASHES DAVEY, RESIGNS POST

butions to Governor Davey's campaign fund, has been an active Davey lieutenant since 1935.

In his letter, Hubbell criticized Charles S. Leasure, chairman of the unemployment commission, charging the latter with nepotism.

"Mr. Leasure has insisted on personally directing and handling accounting and financial details, concerning which he has not the slightest experience or conception," he said. "This is quite easily understood, as Mr. Leasure's only experience, prior to the time you appointed him to administer the $100,000,000 unemployment compensation fund, cohsisted of four years as the prosecuting attorney of one of the smaller counties of Ohio and two years as clerk in your office.

Charges Nepotism.

"Another reason for my resignation is the nepotism which has existed in the Ohio unemployment compensation commission and which prevents this department from functioning properly. For more than a year, Chair...an Leasure has had a number of his relatives on the commission's payroll, one of whom is receiving an annual salary of several thousand dollars despite the fact that he is lacking in ability, training, experience and habits of industry.

"In support of this charge of incompetency, I refer you to the work this employe performed on our cash journal for the year 1937. Even from a position 10 feet away from the open book, it is apparent that as a book-keeper this man would make a good paper-hanger.

"For political reasons, Chairman Leasure has assigned inexperienced and incompetent employes to important posts in my department without my prior knowledge and over my objections. The situation confronting me is such that it is impossible for me to require or obtain from the members of my staff an honest day's work for each day's pay. Absence from duty on political missions is so prevalent that the work of my department has suffered very materially.

Interviews Denied, Claim.

On numerous occasions I have sought an interview with you to relate to you personally the situation which exists. . . . Failing in my efforts to obtain such an interview, I then enlisted the co-operation of a Cleveland citizen, a mutual friend of yours and mine, and a man who stands high in your confidence. Together this gentleman and I drove out to the executive mansion one evening in late spring and while I waited for nearly two hours, he discussed with you the mal-administraton of the Ohio unemployment compensation commission under the Davey-Leasure influence.

"At the end of that time, our friend returned to me in the waiting automobile and quoted the governor of Ohio as saying, "What the hell does Hubbell care, he is getting his pay, isn't he?"

"As a direct result of the Davey policy of giving jobs to politicians who are incompetent, rather than to qualified persons who have had adequate training and experience for the highly specialized duties of the positions to be filled, I predict that, beginning with January, 1939, the time fixed by law for starting the payment of unemployment benefits, there will be chaos in the office of the Ohio unemployment compensation commission instead of the orderly and prompt payment of benefits, and thousands of needy and worthy men, women and children will never receive the benefit payments to which they will be entitled."

MEET AT KLEIN HOME

SHELBY—A postponed meeting will be held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Jerry Klein on Auburn street by members of the Ever-Ready class of the United Brethren church.

'BLOW' 4 SAFES

Cleveland Safecrackers Bind Watchman, Escape.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Police today sought a gang of safecrackers who bound the night watchman at the Hickox building at Ninth street and Euclid avenue, leisurely "blew" four safes and escaped with loot valued at several thousand dollars.

Michael Maiorano, 43, the watchman, bound, gagged and blindfolded, was forced to ring A. D. T. boxes at the regular times to prevent an alarm being given.

CIVIL SERVICE TEST DATE SET

Exam for School Attendance Officer to Be Held on Aug. 19, Biddle Says.

Competitive examinations for the purpose of preparing an eligibility list from which an attendance officer for Mansfield schools may be named, will be held Aug. 19 at the city building, Atty. George Biddle, secretary of the civil service commission, said today.

Applications for the examinations will be accepted at the office of the commission in the city building from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. Aug. 6, Biddle said.

Biddle said the commission had received a request for certification from the Mansfield school board for a list of eligibles for the position left vacant by the death three months ago, of A. H. Wood.

He explained that the commission had no such list, and for that reason was conducting the examination. Applicants, he said, must be between the ages of 35 and 55, married, and with a family and have a motor car operator's permit.

Biddle said the commission had also accepted a petition for reinstatement from Ralph H. Hildebrand, former city patrolman, and ordered it simply received and filed.

He explained that the commission could take no action on the request because it was made after more than a year had elapsed since Hildebrand had resigned.

He said the state law requires that the application be made within a year.

The commission also will hold a non-competitive examination on Aug. 6, for Edward Alheim, who was recently appointed temporarily as WPA inspector on the Woodland water project. The appointment is for 90 days.

ernor estimated it would cost $10,000,000 to repair state highways damaged by the 1937 flood the actual cost was less than $1,000,000.

Sawyer inaugurated a week of intensive campaign traveling with a farm meeting in Columbus.

Governor Davey was expected to make his regular weekly radio campaign speech tonight and to follow up with other "stump" speeches, but this itinerary was not yet available. The governor attended the state American Legion convention in Cincinnati over the week-end and reviewed national guard troops at Camp Perry.

In a radio interview in Cincinnati Sunday night with John T. Brown, Champaign county, former lieutenant governor, Robert A. Taft, candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, renewed his criticism of the Roosevelt administration's farm policy.

"The New Deal farm policy is crippling the American farmer at home and abroad," he said.

Taft proposed removal of all limitation on farm production and creation of tariffs equal to the difference in cost of production here and in foreign countries.

EX-MANSFIELDER DIES IN FLAMES

Mrs. Krug Fatally Burned; Husband Was Newspaperman Here.

Mrs. Dorothy Krug, 26, of Canton, wife of George Krug, former Mansfield resident, died yesterday in Mercy hospital, Canton, from burns which were caused when her bed ignited from a cigaret.

She was in a bedroom of their apartment, with the door locked, when her bed and clothing ignited. Neighbors and her husband, hearing her screams, had to break down the door before they could reach her.

Her husband is the son of Dan Krug, formerly business manager of the old Mansfield News and later of The Mansfield Journal. The younger Krug also was employed on The Journal. They moved to Canton over five years ago.

BOND PARADE PLANNED, FINAL MEETINGS BEGIN

The Mansfield P. T. A. organization will launch the final lap of its campaign for the board of education's proposed $550,000 bond issue with a meeting of the Newman P. T. A. at 7:30 p. m. today at Liberty park. Four other meetings are scheduled for the week.

Postponed from Friday night because of rain, the session will include talks by Dr. John S. Hattery and H. W. Arlin of the board of education, and a concert by the Senior high school band. Both speakers will urge support of the bond issue for a school building program.

The school bond campaign will be presented on another front tonight by H. A. Bruce, school board member, who will discuss it at a meeting of the Hermit club at the Y. M. C. A. day camp on Park avenue west.

Plan Parade.

Plans for a parade of school children through the city Aug. 5 in the interests of the school bond issue were to be formulated at a committee meeting at 4 p. m. today at the office of Supt. W. L. Miller.

The parade will climax the bond issue campaign, City Patrolman Frend Boals is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Supt. W. L. Miller and Arlin are scheduled to speak on the building program Tuesday night at a meeting of the Senior high P. T. A. at North Lake park. The high school band will play at the rally.

The Hedges P. T. A. will meet Wednesday night at the school building where board members Arlin and Bruce and Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, will speak.

The Carpenter school organization will meet Thursday night at the school building and the Brinkerhoff P. T. A. Friday night at that school.

PUSHES DRIVE

Senior High P. T. A. to Aid Bond Campaign Tuesday.

A concert by the Senior High School band will precede a meeting of the Senior high school Parent-Teacher association at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Dickson stand at North Lake park.

The meeting will be open to the public, and is being called for the purpose of presenting to the public and association members, the proposed $550,000 school bond issue.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the Mansfield board of education, will address the association at 8:15 p. m., and motion pictures of conditions in the public schools will be shown.

The band concert will be directed by J. Merton Holcombe. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, vice president of the association, will preside during the meeting.

Mansfield Vets March Today As Legion Parades

Mansfield Legionnaires who are in Cincinnati for the 20th annual state convention, were in the big parade this afternoon, in which approximately 7,000 veterans took part.

The peak of hilarity was reached Saturday night when the 40 and 8, the fun organization of the Legion, staged its annual parade and gave Cincinnatians something to remember.

Daniel J. Doherty, Indianapolis, national commander of the Legion, spoke yesterday afternoon and urged the American Legion to continue its campaign for Americanism, pointing out that education of American youth in sound citizenship was in the first line of defense "against alien doctrines such as Communism and Fascism."

New state officers will be elected at the closing session tomorrow. A keen contest for state commander is being waged between the supporters of J. W. Bowen, Hillsboro, and Eli Jenson, Springfield. Mansfield Legionnaires were particularly interested in view of the fact that McVey Post endorsed the candidacy of Bowen.

2 Softball Games Mark K. of C. Stag Picnic Attended By 125.

[illegible] softball games between Mansfield and Mt. Vernon K. of C. teams featured the outing, with Mt. Vernon winning the first game, 13 to 5 and Mansfield taking the second, 8 to 0. A committee headed by George Wintersteen, jr., was in charge of the picnic.

ANOTHER RECORD

Playgrounds Attendance Mark Broken by 3,491.

Breaking the previous week's attendance mark by 3,491, Mansfield playgrounds last week set a new attendance record when 21,253 children took part in the various activities on the 12 city operated playlots, Al Fendrick, playground director, announced today.

In addition to breaking the fourth week's attendance record of 17,762, the attendance last week was an increase of 9,169 over the 1937 mark for the same period.

The playground swimming carnival staged last Friday at Liberty park, and which attracted more than 1,200 children, was partly responsible for the large attendance increase, Fendrick said.

A total of 88,821 children have attended the grounds daily since they opened in June for the summer season, the attendance records show. The first week drew 17,165, the second 15,740, the third 16,901 and the fourth 17,762.

but strictly on the merits of the issue."

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said it was unquestionably the "most needed" of any of the issues to be decided on—but didn't see "what chance" it had of receiving a 65 per cent majority.

Madison township trustees, however, were less pessimistic but said that no campaign would be launched to obtain the approval of the voters.

F. J. Stahlheber, clerk of the board, said the township had "no funds to carry on a campaign."

Mansfield will be asked to approve the two-mill levy for two years which would produce approximately $90,000 annually while Madison township is seeking one mill which will raise about $45,000 annually for the township.

City and county officials were at a loss to say just what would be done to raise funds to care for the families on relief if the bond issues fail to pass.

Hunter said he "didn't know where" the money would come from in the event the city issue was defeated, while township officials asserted that they "could make no promises."

"There is no Excuse for a Poor Complexion"

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

THE ICE CREAM SOCIAL

THE ice cream social is an annual event, held in the sugar grove, beyond the church. The members and the whole community join in preparing the food for sale, and in the frolic that accompanies it.

In every home about the countryside, the odors of baked food are in the air. There are huge sandwich buns, with tempting golden crust; light, fluffy cakes; fresh peach and apple pies, steaming in a row. From behind the house, comes the sound of the ice cream freezer turning—the chipping of ice, the banter and laughter as the tempting yellow dessert is finished, and the can is opened to get a glimpse and a first taste of the creamy delicacy.

In the evening twilight, motherly country women lay the tables, while the men light the outdoor lamps and lanterns, and place chairs and benches in convenient places.

When darkness comes, the grove echoes with the songs and laughter of the young folks. The pleasing maids serve the food of their own making to the strong bronzed lads . . . and hope for notice. The backward, eager youths eat heartily and the ice is broken. Presently the rugged young men and winsome girls are wandering about in pairs or walking home after the games.

The young children get sleepy and their parents begin to talk of leaving. The familiar "cake walk" is announced, to rid the tables of those cakes remaining uneaten. Each one who joins pays a small fee and enters into a great circle. They march around to a jolly tune until the leader commands "Halt!" The one who stands nearest the man with the lantern at the halt is a winner, and can choose a cake to take home with him.

LOVE IN DANGER

CHAPTER XIII

Ray switched on the night lamp on the table beside her, got out of bed. She threw a green satin robe around her shoulders and settled herself in a lounging chair by her desk. From its drawer, she took a pack of cards and began a game of solitaire on a magazine in her lap.

Even this had no power to distract her mind from a man like Frank. She saw his face in every jack and king in the pack. It was maddening, it was ridiculous, it was pure insanity. With a fling of her hand, she dashed the cards to the floor. She got up, walked across the room to her bed, and threw herself face down on its rose silk counterpane and sobbed herself to sleep.

She awakened some hours later feeling as spent and breathless as a climber above timberline. She must see Mr. Roper and tell him about all that had happened. She must expose Frank Armstrong if it were the last thing she ever did. Even if she loved him, she must do it. She had no business loving him! She would take this way to kill her love for him. It wouldn't be easy to do but, merciful heavens, she couldn't go on as she was going.

Laboriously, she sat up, then stood on her feet. She took a cold shower. She rubbed herself briskly with a heavy towel and felt some of her old self-reliance surging through her. After all, it was good to be alive, things might not be as bad as they seemed And that awful creature who was captured last night was no doubt as much of a criminal as he looked, and the cause of all the disturbance in Mumford. Frank would not be implicated.

Yet she would see Mr. Roper. Perhaps he could straighten out her misgivings, so that never again would she mistrust a man like Frank whom she could so thoroughly love. Obviously, she was a fool, as Frank had said, but sometimes it was wonderful to be a dear fool over just one man.

She had coffee and melba toast in her sitting room, after which Mimi gave her a relaxing facial and alcohol rub Her spirits began to soar higher with every stroke She felt nearly happy, found it easier to bury her worries

When she was finally dressed, she was lovely in a green wool suit with a bright green scarf at her throat Her green felt beret clung to her golden curls like an emerald crown Its tiny yellow quill exactly matched her pigskin gloves and handbag. Her feet were smartly shod in green suede pumps, exquisite against her slim ankles in the sheerest of hose.

She hurried downstairs and out of the house to walk briskly in the hazy morning sunshine The soft gentle breze seemed to foretell Indian summer, soon to arrive with its burst of golden fleeting days The trees had turned to amber, crimson and purple, the lawns hid their dying grass under a carpet of brilliant-hued leaves, and were decorated here and there by the flaming color of shrubs.

Ray couldn't remember when she had taken so long a walk as this but it suited her mood and gave her an opportunity to thrash out problems the result of which threatened to affect her whole life. She came out of the fashionable residential section at last and into the older part of town, and finally found herself in the middle of the busy downtown traffic. Her pulses began racing in harmony with the milling crowd, the noise, the bustle.

She hurried along to the First National Bank Building, and crowded into an elevator with men who frankly stared at her loveliness and women who flung envious glances at her. She held her burning cheeks high and got out at the third floor She paused an instant beside the partially opened door on which was lettered UNION DETECTIVE AGENCY She started as she recognized Mr. Roper's voice raised in anger

"I'm ready to wash my hands of you!" he was declaring "There's no rhyme or reason to all this, Armstrong! Either you did or you didn't—and it's my business to find out!"

"See here, Roper," it was Frank Armstrong's pleading tone that frightened Ray, "I'm not ready to expose this yet Give me two days more"

"Hell! You've had all the time within reason! If you're in a jam—"

Ray crouched against the wall Fortunately, no one was passing through the corridor at the moment. She was ill with doubt. Mr Roper had just threatened to wash his hands of Frank, thought Frank was in some sort of jam 'Oh, dear God—won't let him be—in a jam," she prayed tremulously and slid to the floor in a faint

"Ray—Ray, darling!" he cried "What's the matter?"

He quickly picked her up in his arms and re-entered the office

"Here, Roper," he said, "give me a hand, please. Miss Hunt's fainted."

The two men laid Ray on a large antique sofa James Roper looked as disturbed as Frank at seeing her in this condition. He got out nervously, "Well, well—what's the cause of all this? What's she doing here?"

Frank Armstrong made no comment but hurried to the cooler and drew a glass of water. He dipped the end of a towel in it and bathed Ray's face. He was doing this when she regained consciousness

"Frank," she murmured, her wide eyes questioning

"Yes, Ray," he said "Mr. Roper is wondering why you chose to faint just outside his door."

She realized then that he was trying to make her remember where she was, let her know that Mr. Roper was present. She endeavored to smile her appreciation. Had it not been for Frank's hint, she might have said something foolish. One was apt to at a time like this when one loved a man, even an undeserving man She tried to smile at him gratefully

Mr Roper came to stand within her range of vision. The kindly brown eyes in his sallow round face appraised her quizzically. Between his thick red lips was the inevitable cigar He removed it to remark, "Sorry you feel bad, Miss Hunt—but you'll be okay in a minute"

Ray's gaze shifted to Frank He was running long unsteady fingers through his fine nut-brown hair, his gray eyes were serious as they looked with her imploring scrutiny. She began to tremble violently Her eyes filling with tears She saw this man she must cease to love through a dull mist of regret, but still thought him desirable It was plainly evident now that all she had feared must be true. It had been apparent from the very first that she could never marry him.

She said with brave resolution, "I think I'm better now."

Frank assisted her to sit up and took a chair beside the sofa Mr Roper seated himself on the other end of the sofa and inquired solicitously, "All right?"

"Yes—I believe so"

She was thankful that Mr. Roper had no highly discerning girl secretary, thankful that no employes of his were in the office to wonder about and piece together the salient points of this little scene. She tried to explain, "I only came down to—to—"

She hesitated. Frank being here did complicate matters. There could be no heart to heart talk for the present between Mr. Roper and herself

"It's your check, I'll wager," Mr Roper said, with a chuckle "I'm sorry I neglected to send it to you I'll make it out at once. You've done splendid work for us—I appreciate it"

"Only fair," she smiled up at him

"It took Armstrong two solid hours to give me your report last time—I call that nearly a hundred per cent fair"

He went to his desk at the other side of the room, picked up his check book, and began to write

Ray faced Frank severely. She said in an undertone, "What have you being doing? I never gave you that much information!"

Frank avoided Ray's eyes, looking fixedly at a framed copy of the Declaration of Independence hanging on the white plastered wall. "I thought it might seem better to Roper, that's all. I didn't tell him anything you couldn't have told me. I simply kept my eyes open and the drama of scandal in your set naturally unfolded before my gaze." He grinned and turned to her with that gay light in his eyes again. "Please don't be so technical, dear. Was there any particular harm in trying to make your job last longer?"

"Yes—when you've practically earned my salary," she got out disdainfully.

"But, darling—"

Here you are, Miss Hunt," said Mr. Roper, starting toward her with the check.

Her face paled, she clenched her hands tightly in her lap. She made no move to accept the bit of paper, so Mr. Roper laid it on the sofa beside her.

"I—I—" she began helplessly.

JACK-KNIFE—Muscles tense in the blue—a thrilling pause—an arrowlike flash into the pool, leaving scarcely a ripple. As one spectator exclaimed: "It's perfect—the water seems to part to let Wayne in!"

INTERMISSION—and a Camel! "Always after an exhausting tournament," says champion Wayne, "I light up a Camel for a very welcome 'lift.' Camels add a lot to my comfort and contentment!"

"Camels agree with me in a lot of ways!"

SAYS MARSHALL WAYNE OLYMPIC PLATFORM DIVING CHAMPION

THEY CERTAINLY ARE, ELNORA, FROM MANY ANGLES. CAMELS NEVER TIRE MY TASTE AND THEY ARE EASY ON MY THROAT TOO. EVEN AFTER STEADY SMOKING, THEY DON'T BOTHER MY NERVES. CAMELS ARE SWELL!

OTHER CAMEL SMOKERS TELL THEIR EXPERIENCES TOO

(Left) IONE REED, movie stunt girl. Her most famous exploit: a dangerous leap from speeding auto to train. Healthy nerves are a big 'must' with Miss Reed 'Camels," she says, 'are so mild that steady smoking never gets on my nerves."

"CALLING ALL CARS!" finds Radio Patrolman Harold Sickles (right) always alert, ready for action! He says: "I can't afford jittery nerves. So my off-duty smoke is Camel. I smoke Camels plenty 'for digestion's sake' too."

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS —Turkish and Domestic

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

Tobacco growers know "inside" reasons for preferring Camels

These planters tell what they know about Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos

"At the warehouse sales," says Leon Mullen, experienced planter, "Camel buys the choice grades of tobacco. That's the reason why most of us men who grow and know tobacco smoke Camel cigarettes. We certainly appreciate the difference in the tobacco Camel buys."

"Almost every one of my fine baskets of tobacco went to Camel buyers last year," says G. A. Langley, who knows tobacco growing from every angle. "Better tobaccos mean better smoking," he adds "That means Camels to me—and to most other growers too."

Alton Barnes, a planter who has grown and graded many a fine crop, says this about Camels· "Year after year the choicest lots of my tobacco have gone to the Camel buyers. Naturally, we growers select the best tobacco for our own smoking. So we choose Camels."

"I know from experience that Camel buys choice tobaccos," says Mr. Cecil Claybourne, veteran planter. "Many's the time they've paid more to get my finest lots of tobacco. Yes, most of us planters smoke Camels We sure find a difference in their finer tobaccos."

Nobody could be more pleased than a third term aspirant is with himself.

Hero worship being what it is, there's little likelihood that Corrigan will be subjected to a lie detector.

A scientist is experimenting in hope of finding a way to keep rubber trees alive after being bled. Taxpayers will be interested in the outcome.

This Is County Fair Week.

THIS WEEK brings to Mansfield its first experience with an early-dated Richland county fair.

Starting Wednesday and continuing through Friday, the county fairground, out Springmill street, will be the scene of an agricultural exposition, horse racing program and variety of general entertainment and amusement, that give promise of making this year's fair among the best in many years.

The earlier dates have made it possible to attract a larger number of good horses for the races than would ordinarily be the case, resulting in predictions that the racing program for all three afternoons will be of exceptional excellence.

Displays of livestock, farm produce and exhibits by boys and girls of 4-H clubs are expected to be unusually complete and attractive. Carnival and vaudeville features are also said to be of a quality and variety that will provide the fun and entertainment necessary to a well balanced county fair program.

The county fair provides an important link between Mansfield and the fine agricultural sections of this and surrounding counties. It offers opportunity for seeing old friends and making new acquaintances. This year's Richland county fair deserves sufficient patronage and show of interest to insure its continuance as an annual event for a number of years to come.

Ask Ban On Sunday Sale of Beer.

MANSFIELD city council has again turned down the request of night club operators for an ordinance revision that would allow these liquor dispensaries and entertainment places to stay open longer after midnight.

Night club permit holders also asked—in the event of extension of hours being granted—that sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday be stopped.

The latter suggestion is worthy of further consideration. Sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday has been permitted only because of the fallacious dictum that it is non-intoxicating, when, in fact, any person not accustomed to alcoholic drinks very quickly notices the effect of 3.2 beer and is thereby rendered incapable of safely driving an automobile or behaving normally in other ways.

Thus far the legality of city ordinances banning the sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday has not been passed upon by the state supreme court, but such ordinances have been upheld by appellate courts in the state and are so much in accord with public opinion and common sense that no other course seems tenable.

It appears that Mansfield city council would be fully justified in following the suggestion to prohibit the sale of 3.2 beer on Sundays.

Lancaster Proves 'It Can Be Done'.

LANCASTER, county seat of Fairfield county, with a population of around 19,000, is the latest Ohio city to show that "it can be done."

It appears that for some time Lancaster has felt the need for a new, modern hotel.

Several months ago the Lancaster chamber of commerce took leadership in a movement to unite the community in support of a hotel-building project.

It was realized that conditions were none too favorable, that this project would not qualify for government aid, and that success would be entirely dependent on financial support by Lancaster citizens.

Much along lines on which Mansfield's successful hotel-financing campaign was carried through twelve years ago, Lancaster citizens organized and carried through an intensive campaign to get the money to build a new and modern 70-room hotel.

Result: A total of $252,100 worth of common stock at $100 a share was subscribed for by 1,059 persons—or one out of every eighteen men, women and children in the community.

Overhauling Economics.

A BOLD challenge to the so-called science of economics is made by a distinguished woman economist of England, Barbara Wootton, in a book entitled "Lament for Economics." She starts with this blunt statement:

"The economic theory of today, it is alleged, is useless because it is unintelligible; because, after all their arduous studies, the economists cannot be relied upon not to give diametrically opposite diagnoses and prognoses of the same situation; because the economists feed on their own tails by busying themselves on the analysis of imaginary worlds which they themselves have invented; and finally because they are passing off as the result of purely scientific inquiry what is in reality no more than a partisan advocacy of particular social policies."

Many people have been suspecting something of this sort, as they have seen the successful defiance of many old economic theories and the inability of old-fashioned doctrinaires to deal with practical events in late years. They seem to have gone wrong especially in not paying enough attention to social and political forces affecting the economic system.

New Helium Supply.

THE federal geological department of Brazil announces that helium has been discovered in the state of Sao Paulo. The statement gives no clue as to estimated quantity of the gas. If it proves abundant it will end this country's monopoly and would open the way for Germany to obtain the helium recently refused it by the interior department.

With helium available in commercial quantities outside the United States there may be resumption of construction and use of zeppelins and other dirigibles for transportation.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

NOTES FROM HERE AND THERE:

Correspondents who were with President Roosevelt in California are saying privately that the demonstration for F. D. R. was astonishing. That is why they are writing so much concerning third-term sentiment.

FASTER TIME

New York-Florida passenger train service will be speedier this coming winter. The Seaboard Airline, in receivership, has petitioned federal court to purchase nine 90-mile-an-hour Diesel locomotives. The Atlantic Coast line undoubtedly also will move its trains a notch faster than its weaker competitor.

Airplanes and passenger autos force time reduction.

New Dealers say that some businessmen now are convinced that federal judges, not the president, are the real "dictators."

Last year, a federal judge decreed that the Westchester suburban electric line, adjunct of the parallel New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad (in receivership) must be abandoned, because of its losses. Thousands of home owners along the line, with business in New York, declared they would suffer not only great inconvenience, but severe loss on their residential properties. Efforts even were made to raise money to take over the line. But the judge decided that the line had to cease—and cease it did.

Now the 400-mile Rutland railroad, which supplies a large part of Vermont with its freight service, may be abandoned because a federal judge, who rules supreme because of receivership, is determining whether the road shall continue or cease.

The question rises in the minds of even conservative businessmen whether the government had not better take over certain weak and strong lines and consolidate particular services so that the public will not suffer and at the same time overhead can be cut.

But a federal judge can only estop, not build up. And nobody can stop him from estopping.

IMPROVEMENT COUNTS

It pays to modernize. The first full month's operation of the new streamlined equipment of the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited shows a 20 per cent increase in business over the same month last year.

The business from Chicago to New York has almost doubled, due largely (according to the railroad) to a half-hour later starting time, with arrival in New York at the old time.

PULLING OUT

Railroads gradually may be pulling out of their hole, as fas as actual operating earnings are concerned. (They never may catch up with their topheavy indebtedness, which eats up millions that should go into property.)

Business is picking up. And rumor has it that the rail brotherhoods may agree to some wage reduction—if that would mean the employment of more men.

NOT AGREED

Beneath the surface, all was not so rosy at the British-French parley in Paris. The French had hoped against hope that the Chamberlain government would abate its aversion to the Stalin government and join with France in a joint understanding with the Soviet Union for a united stand of the democratic nations against the Fascist.

COLLAPSE

Strange as it may seem to many (except economists and bankers), England is greatly worried over what seems to be the beginning of a simultaneous financial collapse in Germany, Italy and Japan. Such a crash could shake the markets of the world.

An optimistic view of the situation, however, reasons that this may preclude any enlargement of military activities by those powers. That, in the long run, would be a strong bull factor—which even the dictators cannot fail to recognize.

Timely Editorial

Bear Down On Jaywalkers.

Down in Cincinnati where the police have been strict about traffic law enforcement for many years, they are getting especially tough with jaywalkers. You will readily identify this species of violator as the absent minded or downright foolhardy pedestrian who crosses the streets at any points except intersections.

Dodging through congested traffic, he is at once the bane of the motorist and the problem child of the actuaries who compute mortality tables for insurance underwriters.

In a current Cincinnati drive to save him from the consequences of his own folly the jaywalker is being cited to court even after he has been knocked down by a motor car and wakes up to find himself under treatment in a hospital.

The procedure may seem like adding insult to injury as well as an infringement on personal liberty. But on the theory that it will prevent some habitual jaywalkers from meeting sudden death and serve as an object lesson impelling others to be cautious and use the designated pedestrians' crossing, it probably is fully justified. — Columbus Dispatch.

Party Lines Less Closely Drawn

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — This year's congressional fight is not between Democrats and Republicans. It is not even between liberals and conservatives. It is between New Dealers and Old Dealers.

There are, as we know, Old Deal Democrats as well as Republicans. There also are some quite New Dealerish Republicans. I do not think of any New Dealers who can be classified as conservatives, but I can think of plenty of so-called Old Dealers who always were considered liberals until rather recently.

Besides, what about La Follette Progressives and the Farmer-Laborites? They surely are liberal, but they remain independent of New Dealerish Democracy—and of any kind of Republicanism also.

And as to individuals? Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan favors the nomination of what he deems the right sort of Democrats as Republicans. Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York, who used to be a Republican (except occasionally, when he was a Socialist or a Fusionist, or when he has had American Labor party affiliations), is suggested as a possible New Deal Democratic nominee, for one office or another.

To say that this is confusing is to put it mildly.

CHANGING TIMES

Democratic Senator William H. King of Utah has been one of the most consistent of the New Deal's opponents. He is not up for reelection this year, but the New Dealers speak of him as a vehement reactionary. Yet I can remember when, wanting an interview with a generally recognized liberal, Senator King was one of the first statesmen I headed for.

I always greatly liked Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky. But whenever I got an interview from him, all my liberal friends bawled me out for consulting a solon who, they said, was so bitterly a Bourbon Democrat. Now he is a sound New Dealer.

If Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska (an Independent at present but previously, for many years, a Republican) were to ask for a Democratic nomination, for anything, unquestionably the New Deal Democrats would grant it to him joyfully.

Senator Gerald P. Nye has Republican (his own party's) independent opposition in his home state of North Dakota because he has been, maybe, a bit too Democratically New Dealerish.

LIBERALS SPLIT

Wouldn't one surmise that the Farmer-Laborites and the La Follette Progressives, politically and economically as both of those two groups are, would cast in lots with the Democratic New Dealers?

But, no! Each has its own row to hoe.

They do not even join forces between each other.

CONSERVATIVES SOLID

Roughly speaking, this next election will hinge upon liberalism versus conservatism—though conservatism will be much more liberal than it used to be.

If business conditions improve, as they have been doing lately, New Deal liberalism will win by a comfortable margin. It may lose a few congressional seats but not enough to signify—unless it suffers a much worse set-back than anything today hints at.

On the opposite hand, there is this to reckon with:

Conservatism has solidarity. Conservatives may differ a little but they can get together, and compromise.

Radical groups are irreconcilable.

Not New Deal Democrats, Farmer-Laborites, La Follette Progressives, La Guardia semi-Socialists and other miscellaneous liberals—up to the radical stage.

The split has got to be two ways in this country.

It is traditional.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, July 25, 1918.

No lemonade was served at St. John's Sunday school picnic, in order to conserve sugar.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, July 25, 1933.

Miss Pauline Crowe, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crowe, West Fifth street, died.

A Goodyear balloon, with a crew of six men, was forced down on the North Main street road near the airport.

James Bauer and Eugene Wilging, each three years old, were in General hospital, severely burned when a pot of boiling syrup overturned.

Fifty-three tables of bridge were in play at the benefit lawn and bridge party at the Weldon and Robert Black homes, sponsored by the Federation of Women.

Mrs. Lelyn S. Spicer, 25, died at General hospital.

Health Advice

Keeping Up With Changes.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE scientific exhibits at the American Medical association are among the most educational features of the meeting. They are all arranged by doctors, and the doctor is required to be in attendance to explain them.

A physician, for instance, will have had an unusually large experience with certain tumors of the adrenal glands. These produce changes in hair development and the quality of the skin. Also when they occur in women, they tend to develop masculine characteristics—deeper voice, growth of beard, etc. In a man the opposite occurs—he loses his beard, and he becomes feminine in characteristics. The doctor who has had so many of these cases has photographs of the patients, specimens of the tumors under the microscope, case histories, a moving picture of the operations for removal, and a chart of statistics showing the results of the operations. All these are assembled in a little booth with the doctor in attendance to explain and answer questions. A visitor who spends 15 minutes there comes away with a liberal education in that subject.

Treatment Of Fractures.

At another booth was a special exhibit in the treatment of fractures. Here all day long an experienced orthopedic surgeon — there were 56 of them who worked in shifts—demonstrated how to prepare splints and plaster of paris bandages, and on a dummy demonstrated the latest approved methods of treating fractures of the arms and legs and spine. Doctors in the audience were invited to apply bandages themselves under the instruction of these teachers. Any doctor who spent an hour there would be doing his patients a great potential service.

Another special exhibit was on the latest methods of anesthesia. Here all the anesthetics used in surgical operations and during childbirth were exhibited. The apparatus used was demonstrated and the most approved methods of administration described. Charts explaining the advantages and dangers of each anesthetic were hung on the wall, so that even he who saw might read and learn.

This brief and incomplete account will give the reader some idea of the variety of interests, the wide field of usefulness which modern medicine presents. Your family physician has great responsibilities to keep up with the advances in all these fields. Through the help of the American Medical association he is doing it ably.

Young America Says---

Lets Have a Pet Peeve Department

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DONALDA BARRY, of Detroit, Mich., thinks it would be one grand idea . . . and sends us a few test questions, guaranteed to start a Crockery-Throwing Contest in the happiest home. Says she—

"IF YOU'RE A MAN—

"Does your wife go around straightening pictures, telling you what to wear, what to eat, when to wear rubbers, whom to associate with? Does she open your mail, go through your pockets, insist on cleaning the ash trays before you're through smoking? Does she throw away your 'old' comfortable slippers and substitute new ones and sell your nice, old lounging robe to the junk man and buy you a 'nice, bright new one'?

"IF YOU'RE A WOMAN—

"Does your husband brag about whom he could have married before he met you? Does he insist on staying out several nights a week 'with the boys'? Does he stretch his neck at every pretty face and extend little niceties to other women, but forbid you to smoke although he thinks it's cute when other women do it?"

Donalda Barry—age 28,
Detroit, Mich.
($10 prize winner)

Yes, Donalda—a Pet Peeve Department would certainly start things. However, I doubt if we need to suggest it—human nature being what it is. But how about a PET PRAISE DEPARTMENT? There's a really novel idea. Suppose, for just one week, you vowed to mention ONLY THE NICE THINGS in the other fellow's program....TO SAY ONLY LOVING, HELPFUL WORDS AND SEAL YOUR LIPS AGAINST ALL OTHERS? Ever try it? You'd be surprised to see what miracles it works.

* * *

AND now—Arling O. Kressler, of Allentown, Pa.—CRUSADING FOR HONESTY...AND BEGINNING WITH MISS AMERICA'S MAKE-UP!

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"I'd like to ask the girls of America to accept a challenge—not from me but from life. I DARE YOU TO STOP PRETENDING . . . TO BE NATURAL AND GIVE NATURE A CHANCE?

'It's all very well to be dainty and make yourself as pretty as you can. BUT WHY THESE EXCESSIVE MAKE-UPS . . . THE TORTURE YOU ENDURE WITH HIGH HEELS, THE TIME YOU WASTE CONSTANTLY FUSSING OVER YOURSELVES?

"Why don't you think more about the way you LIVE than the way you LOOK? Life has so much to give to those who will stop posing and pretending and go after the fundamental things—companionship, love, the adventure of building a home and having a family. As for beauty—instead of banking on your 'false fronts' why not try living in harmony with the laws of health? With the right kind of living, eating and thinking you'd look as beautiful at six in the morning as nine in the evening and 'hold your man' far more surely.

"It seems to me that this artificiality is the cause of much of the increase in divorce and mismating. The Pretenses are carried on until marriage, and then, when the real self becomes known, the disillusionments and discord begin. It need never have been so, if the parties involved had given their true selves a chance."

Arling O. Kressler—age 27,
Allentown, Pa.
($10 prize winner)

And last comes young Mrs. William Burrow, of Aurora, N. Y., with a question many will echo.

"WHAT," she asks, 'HAS HAPPENED TO THE YOUNG MARRIED COUPLES WHO ONCE ENJOYED A SUNDAY OUTING OR FAMILY DINNER WITH THEIR CHILDREN AND OLD FOLKS AROUND THEM?

"Nowadays they park their children somewhere, take in as many beer gardens as they can, and land home at four in the morning. Even card parties are filled with the escapades of last Saturday night, and end in drunkenness and vile talk. AND ANYONE WHO DOESN'T LIKE THIS IS CONSIDERED A PRUDE, AND ISN'T ASKED AGAIN!

Mrs. William Burrow, age 28,
Aurora, N. Y.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

OLD LYME, Conn.—This has been a lazy man's day, and at being lazy I can give the natives a head start and win hands down.

We got up this morning about 8:30 and then went down on the shaded patio and rested awhile. Then we strolled over to the dining room and had a simple breakfast composed of fruit juice, cantaloupe, bacon, eggs, hot rolls, butter, marmalade and coffee. Then we went back to the patio and rested some more while having a smoke, and after that we got into bathing suits, climbed into the car, and lit out for the beach.

I suppose the Boxwood beach where we swim is about two miles from the inn. It isn't the prettiest beach in the world, but it is private and it is comfortable and there is a big hot sun and a lot of hot sand and all the water even a greedy swimmer might care for. There is, in fact, all of Long Island Sound, and on clear days you can look across ten miles of salt water and see the the tip of Long Island.

WELL, after we got to the beach we spread blankets and then stretched out in the sun to have a nap and rest some more. And then we shifted so that we could get burned all over, and after that we went in swimming. The Sound isn't as rough as the ocean, but it is just as salty. The Island serves as a bumper for the big breakers, so that usually we get only gentle swells and white caps of a minor order.

It was while taking these swells in the shallows near shore that the one jarring note of the day took place. A big eel scared the pants off me. It swam right past me and I thought it was a big snake until Harrison Wood, my host, explained.

While we were resting we suddenly discovered a three-masted sailing vessel bowling along far out in the sound. Some of the guests thought it might be the Corsair, J. P. Morgan's magnificent yacht, but Morgan is in Europe and the Corsair has a black hull. This one was snow white, and the last we saw of her she tipped towards the Connecticut river and disappeared into its maw.

About 12 o'clock we got lazily into the car and went back to the Inn, where we dressed and then had a fine turkey dinner. And after dinner of course we were tired, so we sat in the shade and refreshed ourselves and then went back to the beach again.

IT WAS during the afternoon swim that one of those sudden, inexplicable fogs came up. One minute the sun was bright and the world was a continuous glare. And a moment later, so quickly that we were taken unawares, all of it was blotted out. You couldn't even see the diving raft a couple of hundred yards out. Everything disappeared under a blanket of fog-cloud. To a landlubber like myself it was a phenomenon but nobody else thought anything about it. In half an hour perhaps it was gone again, leaving the Sound crystal clear and the beach more glary than ever.

I almost forgot the most important thing of all. During the fog a great tanker lost her bearings and almost ran aground on the sandbars. She was within a hundred yards of us before we noticed her, a white ghostly hulk looming through the mists. But there was no real damage. A group of shoremen magically appeared and helped push her off, and the last we saw of her she was a grey blot in the fog.

TOTALS $25,000

East Side Water Collection Ends, 90 Per Cent Pay Up.

With more than 90 per cent of the 3,500 east side water and sewer rental bills paid, the water department closed its collection today with approximately $25,000 of the $30,000 billing paid, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage departments, announced.

Of the total collections, approximately $18,000 represented water bills while $7,000 was in sewer rentals. The billing included $19,898 in water and $9,425 in sewer rental.

Lingafelter said those who failed to make payment during the collection period which was extended five days through Saturday now will be subject to the usual 10 per cent penalty as provided in the city ordinance.

FARM PICNIC SET

County Outing to Be Held at Fairground, Aug. 18.

Plans were going forward today for the first Richland county farm picnic which will be held Thursday, Aug. 18, at the county fairground.

Hundreds of county farmers and their families are expected to attend the all-day outing which is being arranged by representatives of farm organizations and 4-H clubs.

The day's program will include ball games and other athletic contests, band concerts and talks on subjects of interest to rural residents, County Agent George B. Ganyard said.

To keep paint fresh in uncovered cans fill them to the top with water after stirring the paint thoroughly. When needed pour off the water with care.

Modified Form of Air Conditioning Available Now

Air conditioning equipment, such as is now installed in theaters, stores, sleeping cars, restaurants, etc., is a rather expensive installation. Yet, a modified form of air conditioning is now available to practically every home owner.

That air conditioning is wanted by home owners there can be little doubt because recently of 11,000 families interviewed, 65 per cent said that they would like very much to have such a system, and 30 per cent said that they must have such a system and were going to have it as soon as they could afford it.

As described by a prominent heating engineer, air conditioning amounts to this.

"In the winter you heat a certain volume of air to a certain temperature and through a pipe is forced into a room. Directly across the room, near the floor, another pipe is used to draw out the air. In the summer time, the same pipes are used but the air must be cooled to a low temperature before it is sent to a room and the warm air is withdrawn through the exhaust pipe.

"The average home owner cannot afford a complete air conditioning system that cools in the summer and heats in the winter, largely because the plant itself is rather expensive. A modification of this plant is not costly. In the winter months, warm air can be inexpensively developed from an ordinary furnace and withdrawn after it is cooled. In the summer the house may be closed—practically sealed—and cool basement air can be circulated in every room in the house three or four times an hour.

The movement of the air tends to make you more comfortable and the cost of this summer service is seldom more than $1 or $2 a month, which is the cost of the electricity used to operate the fan which circulates the air."

The Charles Hoffman company, 106 North Walnut street, cooperating with the Williamson Heater company, has installed a free heating check-up service that is now offered to every family in this community.

Factory engineers working with Hoffman representatives make a complete examination of any home and prescribe for both heating as well as air conditioning problems without obligation.

Safety Facts Drivers Should Know

Presented By Lincoln Mutual Indemnity Co. and Continental Auto Mutual Insurance Co.

1 BLIND CORNERS — Danger lurks at every crossing—danger to you. Sometimes there is a friendly warning. "Bad Corner," but sometimes there is not. Overconfident drivers often find that blind corners are deathtraps. The experienced driver approaches every intersection at such speed that in an emergency he can stop before a collision occurs.

2 THE RIGHT OF WAY—In the absence of traffic signals the driver approaching from the right has the right of way at an intersection, but it's never wise to take risks by insisting upon this right.

3 STARTING — Before pulling away from the curb or parking space always look to the rear as well as ahead, and give ample warning of your intention to move. Rolling backwards, when starting on upgrades, can be overcome by engaging the clutch gradually and releasing the brake at the same time.

4 STOPPING—To avoid emergency stops and unnecessary wear on brakes, form the habit of watching the traffic light changes and of anticipating the actions of other drivers and pedestrians. Always stop the engine and set the hand brake when leaving your car unattended.

5 PARKING BETWEEN CARS —You can park in small spaces with little effort if you first drive alongside and close to the car ahead. Next, cut your wheels sharply right, and back until your front right bumper just clears the rear left bumper on the car ahead. Then, cut your wheels sharply left, backing slowly until alongside the curb

6 PARKING IN THE COUNTRY—Competent drivers do not park near the crest of a hill nor on a curve. Whenever they can avoid it, they do not park on the paved part of the highway. At night they watch out for the man who obscures his tail light when parked on the highway for repairs.

7 BACKING—It is dangerous to back, particularly out of a driveway, unless you are positive that the way behind your car is clear. Even then, back slowly and keep a sharp lookout behind.

8 PEDESTRIANS AND GREEN LIGHTS — Pedestrians crossing an intersection when the traffic light is in their favor have the right of way over vehicles making turns.

9 HEADLIGHTS — Improperly focused headlights are both discourteous and dangerous. Considerate drivers have their headlights tested and adjusted at frequent intervals.

10 CARBON MONOXIDE GAS —This is the deadly odorless gas that is given off by automobile exhausts. To prevent being overcome by this gas, always open garage doors before starting your motor—no matter how cold it is outside. Leaky exhausts and heaters are dangerous because they may permit this deadly gas to escape into the car. Always keep a window open.

2 WORKERS LOSE LIVES IN JUNE

Two Richland county industrial workers died during June as the result of injuries suffered while at work, the Ohio Industrial commission reported today.

County workers filed 141 claims with the commission during the month. Three reported injuries causing permanent partial disability, 27 were for more than seven days lost time, 12 for seven days or less, and 97 were medical only cases.

Total time lost by county workers during the month because of injuries was 14,010 days.

LAUNDRY TUBS USED EVERY DAY

Stationary wash tubs can be made to work every day in the week by the installation of several handy adjuncts.

The wash tub can be enclosed on sides and at the bottom in a cabinet which will afford a storage space for little-used utensils, cases, and those patent kitchen appliances that the husband will bring home from time to time. A plain wooden top, which can be used for cutting, chopping, and preparing vegetables and meats, is also a worth-while addition.

TAXES $24 PER MINUTE

The annual report of a large Eastern power company disclosed that its tax bill is $61,000 a day or $24 per minute for every minute in the year.

AIR CONDITIONED CARS

The railroads and the Pullman company now have 1,168 air-conditioned passenger cars in operation.

CHEAPER TIRES

Tires which in the infancy of the auto industry cost $40 now sell for $12.

Total tax collections are estimated at $10,498,000,000 for 1936, and at approximately $12,300,000,000, including Social Security taxes for 1937.

Did you know that—

The balance wheel of the average watch "ticks" (oscillates) 5 times a second, 300 times a minute, 18,000 times an hour, 432,000 times a day, and 157,680,000 times a year.

"Such constant activity requires regular lubrication and the finest oil," H. S. Them, veteran Mansfield watch specialist, says.

"If a watch runs as close as ONE MINUTE a month (many fine watches do) each "tick" of the balance wheel is made with a constant accuracy of 1-216 thousandth part of a second," he points out.

"Precision such as this is obtained only from fine watches in fine mechanical order approaching perfection."

Mr. Them adds that much confusion exists about winding watches,, "too tight." The fact is, he says, that it is impossible to wind a modern watch too tight. It should be wound up full every 24 hours.

Mr. Them has been repairing watches in Mansfield for more than 17 years and operates a watch repair service on the fifth floor of the Walpark building. Work is called for and delivered.

This Is County Fair Week.

THIS WEEK brings to Mansfield its first experience with an early-dated Richland county fair.

Starting Wednesday and continuing through Friday, the county fairground, out Springmill street, will be the scene of an agricultural exposition, horse racing program and variety of general entertainment and amusement, that give promise of making this year's fair among the best in many years.

The earlier dates have made it possible to attract a larger number of good horses for the races than would ordinarily be the case, resulting in predictions that the racing program for all three afternoons will be of exceptional excellence.

Displays of livestock, farm produce and exhibits by boys and girls of 4-H clubs are expected to be unusually complete and attractive. Carnival and vaudeville features are also said to be of a quality and variety that will provide the fun and entertainment necessary to a well balanced county fair program.

The county fair provides an important link between Mansfield and the fine agricultural sections of this and surrounding counties. It offers opportunity for seeing old friends and making new acquaintances. This year's Richland county fair deserves sufficient patronage and show of interest to insure its continuance as an annual event for a number of years to come.

Ask Ban On Sunday Sale of Beer.

MANSFIELD city council has again turned down the request of night club operators for an ordinance revision that would allow these liquor dispensaries and entertainment places to stay open longer after midnight.

Night club permit holders also asked—in the event of extension of hours being granted—that sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday be stopped.

The latter suggestion is worthy of further consideration. Sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday has been permitted only because of the fallacious dictum that it is non-intoxicating, when, in fact, any person not accustomed to alcoholic drinks very quickly notices the effect of 3.2 beer and is thereby rendered incapable of safely driving an automobile or behaving normally in other ways.

Thus far the legality of city ordinances banning the sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday has not been passed upon by the state supreme court, but such ordinances have been upheld by appellate courts in the state and are so much in accord with public opinion and common sense that no other course seems tenable.

It appears that Mansfield city council would be fully justified in following the suggestion to prohibit the sale of 3.2 beer on Sundays.

Lancaster Proves 'It Can Be Done'.

LANCASTER, county seat of Fairfield county, with a population of around 19,000, is the latest Ohio city to show that "it can be done."

It appears that for some time Lancaster has felt the need for a new, modern hotel.

Several months ago the Lancaster chamber of commerce took leadership in a movement to unite the community in support of a hotel-building project.

It was realized that conditions were none too favorable, that this project would not qualify for government aid, and that success would be entirely dependent on financial support by Lancaster citizens.

Much along lines on which Mansfield's successful hotel-financing campaign was carried through twelve years ago, Lancaster citizens organized and carried through an intensive campaign to get the money to build a new and modern 70-room hotel.

Result: A total of $252,100 worth of common stock at $100 a share was subscribed for by 1,059 persons—or one out of every eighteen men, women and children in the community.

Overhauling Economics.

A BOLD challenge to the so-called science of economics is made by a distinguished woman economist of England, Barbara Wootton, in a book entitled "Lament for Economics." She starts with this blunt statement:

"The economic theory of today, it is alleged, is useless because it is unintelligible: because, after all their arduous studies, the economists cannot be relied upon not to give diametrically opposite diagnoses and prognoses of the same situation: because the economists feed on their own tails by busying themselves on the analysis of imaginary worlds which they themselves have invented: and finally because they are passing off as the result of purely scientific inquiry what is in reality no more than a partisan advocacy of particular social policies."

Many people have been suspecting something of this sort, as they have seen the successful defiance of many old economic theories and the inability of old-fashioned doctrinaires to deal with practical events in late years. They seem to have gone wrong especially in not paying enough attention to social and political forces affecting the economic system.

New Helium Supply.

THE federal geological department of Brazil announces that helium has been discovered in the state of Sao Paulo. The statement gives no clue as to estimated quantity of the gas. If it proves abundant it will end this country's monopoly and would open the way for Germany to obtain the helium recently refused it by the interior department.

With helium available in commercial quantities outside the United States there may be resumption of construction and use of zeppelins and other dirigibles for transportation.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

NOTES FROM HERE AND THERE:

Correspondents who were with President Roosevelt in California are saying privately that the demonstration for F. D. R. was astonishing. That is why they are writing so much concerning third-term sentiment.

FASTER TIME

New York-Florida passenger train service will be speedier this coming winter. The Seaboard Airline, in receivership, has petitioned federal court to purchase nine 90-mile-an-hour Diesel locomotives. The Atlantic Coast line undoubtedly also will move its trains a notch faster than its weaker competitor.

Airplanes and passenger autos force time reduction.

New Dealers say that some businessmen now are convinced that federal judges, not the president, are the real "dictators."

Last year, a federal judge decreed that the Westchester suburban electric line, adjunct of the parallel New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad (in receivership) must be abandoned, because of its losses. Thousands of home owners along the line, with business in New York, declared they would suffer not only great inconvenience, but severe loss on their residential properties. Efforts even were made to raise money to take over the line. But the judge decided that the line had to cease—and cease it did.

Now the 400-mile Rutland railroad, which supplies a large part of Vermont with its freight service, may be abandoned because a federal judge, who rules supreme because of receivership, is determining whether the road shall continue or cease.

The question rises in the minds of even conservative businessmen whether the government had not better take over certain weak and strong lines and consolidate particular services so that the public will not suffer and at the same time overhead can be cut.

But a federal judge can only estop, not build up. And nobody can stop him from estopping.

IMPROVEMENT COUNTS

It pays to modernize. The first full month's operation of the new streamlined equipment of the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited shows a 20 per cent increase in business over the same month last year.

The business from Chicago to New York has almost doubled, due largely (according to the railroad) to a half-hour later starting time, with arrival in New York at the old time.

PULLING OUT

Railroads gradually may be pulling out of their hole, as fas as actual operating earnings are concerned. (They never may catch up with their topheavy indebtedness, which eats up millions that should go into property.)

Business is picking up. And rumor has it that the rail brotherhoods may agree to some wage reduction—if that would mean the employment of more men.

NOT AGREED

Beneath the surface, all was not so rosy at the British-French parley in Paris. The French had hoped against hope that the Chamberlain government would abate its aversion to the Stalin government and join with France in a joint understanding with the Soviet Union for a united stand of the democratic nations against the Fascist.

COLLAPSE

Strange as it may seem to many (except economists and bankers), England is greatly worried over what seems to be the beginning of a simultaneous financial collapse in Germany, Italy and Japan. Such a crash could shake the markets of the world.

An optimistic view of the situation, however, reasons that this may preclude any enlargement of military activities by those powers. That, in the long run, would be a strong bull factor—which even the dictators cannot fail to recognize.

Timely Editorial

Bear Down On Jaywalkers.

Down in Cincinnati where the police have been strict about traffic law enforcement for many years, they are getting especially tough with jaywalkers. You will readily identify this species of violator as the absent minded or downright foolhardy pedestrian who crosses the streets at any points except intersections.

Dodging through congested traffic, he is at once the bane of the motorist and the problem child of the actuaries who compute mortality tables for insurance underwriters.

In a current Cincinnati drive to save him from the consequences of his own folly the jaywalker is being cited to court even after he has been knocked down by a motor car and wakes up to find himself under treatment in a hospital.

The procedure may seem like adding insult to injury as well as an infringement on personal liberty. But on the theory that it will prevent some habitual jaywalkers from meeting sudden death and serve as an object lesson impelling others to be cautious and use the designated pedestrians' crossing, it probably is fully justified. — Columbus Dispatch.

"SALES MEAN JOBS"—BUY WHAT YOU NEED

Party Lines Less Closely Drawn

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — This year's congressional fight is not between Democrats and Republicans. It is not even between liberals and conservatives. It is between New Dealers and Old Dealers.

There are, as we know, Old Deal Democrats as well as Republicans. There also are some quite New Dealerish Republicans. I do not think of any New Dealers who can be classified as conservatives, but I can think of plenty of so-called Old Dealers who always were considered liberals until rather recently.

Besides, what about La Follette Progressives and the Farmer-Laborites? They surely are liberal, but they remain independent of New Dealerish Democracy—and of any kind of Republicanism also.

And as to individuals? Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan favors the nomination of what he deems the right sort of Democrats as Republicans. Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York, who used to be a Republican (except occasionally, when he was a Socialist or a Fusionist, or when he has had American Labor party affiliations), is suggested as a possible New Deal Democratic nominee, for one office or another.

To say that this is confusing is to put it mildly.

CHANGING TIMES

Democratic Senator William H. King of Utah has been one of the most consistent of the New Deal's opponents. He is not up for re-election this year, but the New Dealers speak of him as a vehement reactionary. Yet I can remember when, wanting an interview with a generally recognized liberal, Senator King was one of the first statesmen I headed for.

I always greatly liked Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky. But whenever I got an interview from him, all my liberal friends bawled me out for consulting a solon who, they said, was so bitterly a Bourbon Democrat. Now he is a sound New Dealer.

If Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska (an Independent at present but previously, for many years, a Republican) were to ask for a Democratic nomination, for anything, unquestionably the New Deal Democrats would grant it to him joyfully.

Senator Gerald P. Nye has Republican (his own party's) independent opposition in his home state of North Dakota because he has been, maybe, a bit too Democratically New Dealerish.

LIBERALS SPLIT

Wouldn't one surmise that the Farmer-Laborites and the La Follette Progressives, politically and economically as both of those two groups are, would cast in lots with the Democratic New Dealers?

But, no! Each has its own row to hoe.

They do not even join forces between each other.

CONSERVATIVES SOLID

Roughly speaking, this next election will hinge upon liberalism versus conservatism—though conservatism will be much more liberal than it used to be.

If business conditions improve, as they have been doing lately, New Deal liberalism will win by a comfortable margin. It may lose a few congressional seats but not enough to signify—unless it suffers a much worse set-back than anything today hints at.

On the opposite hand, there is this to reckon with:

Conservatism has solidarity. Conservatives may differ a little but they can get together, and compromise.

Radical groups are irreconcilable.

Not New Deal Democrats, Farmer-Laborites, La Follette Progressives, La Guardia semi-Socialists and other miscellaneous liberals—up to the radical stage.

The split has got to be two ways in this country.

It is traditional.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, July 25, 1918.

No lemonade was served at St. John's Sunday school picnic, in order to conserve sugar.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, July 25, 1933.

Miss Pauline Crowe, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crowe, West Fifth street, died.

A Goodyear balloon, with a crew of six men, was forced down on the North Main street road near the airport.

James Bauer and Eugene Wilging, each three years old, were in General hospital, severely burned when a pot of boiling syrup overturned.

Fifty-three tables of bridge were in play at the benefit lawn and bridge party at the Weldon and Robert Black homes, sponsored by the Federation of Women.

Mrs. Lelyn S. Spicer, 25, died at General hospital.

Health Advice

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE scientific exhibits at the American Medical association are among the most educational features of the meeting. They are all arranged by doctors, and the doctor is required to be in attendance to explain them.

A physician, for instance, will have had an unusually large experience with certain tumors of the adrenal glands. These produce changes in hair development and the quality of the skin. Also when they occur in women, they tend to develop masculine characteristics—deeper voice, growth of beard, etc. In a man the opposite occurs—he loses his beard, and he becomes feminine in characteristics. The doctor who has had so many of these cases has photographs of the patients, specimens of the tumors under the microscope, case histories, a moving picture of the operations for removal, and a chart of statistics showing the results of the operations. All these are assembled in a little booth with the doctor in attendance to explain and answer questions. A visitor who spends 15 minutes there comes away with a liberal education in that subject.

Treatment Of Fractures.

At another booth was a special exhibit in the treatment of fractures. Here all day long an experienced orthopedic surgeon — there were 56 of them who worked in shifts—demonstrated how to prepare splints and plaster of paris bandages, and on a dummy demonstrated the latest approved methods of treating fractures of the arms and legs and spine. Doctors in the audience were invited to apply bandages themselves under the instruetion of these teachers. Any doctor who spent an hour there would be doing his patients a great potential service.

Another special exhibit was on the latest methods of anethesia. Here all the anesthetics used in surgical operations and during childbirth were exhibited. The apparatus used was demonstrated and the most approved methods of administration described. Charts explaining the advantages and dangers of each anesthetic were hung on the wall, so that even he who saw might read and learn.

This brief and incomplete account will give the reader some idea of the variety of interests, the wide field of usefulness which modern medicine presents. Your family physician has great responsibilities to keep up with the advances in all these fields. Through the help of the American Medical association he is doing it ably.

Young America Says---

Lets Have a Pet Peeve Department

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DONALDA BARRY, of Detroit, Mich., thinks it would be one grand idea . . . and sends us a few test questions, guaranteed to start a Crockery-Throwing Contest in the happiest home. Says she—

"IF YOU'RE A MAN—

"Does your wife go around straightening pictures, telling you what to wear, what to eat, when to wear rubbers, whom to associate with? Does she open your mail, go through your pockets, insist on cleaning the ash trays before you're through smoking? Does she throw away your 'old' comfortable slippers and substitute new ones and sell your nice, old lounging robe to the junk man and buy you a 'nice, bright new one'?

"IF YOU'RE A WOMAN—

"Does your husband brag about whom he could have married before he met you? Does he insist on staying out several nights a week 'with the boys'? Does he stretch his neck at every pretty face and extend little niceties to other women, but forbid you to smoke although he thinks it's cute when other women do it?"

Donalda Barry—age 28,
Detroit, Mich.
($10 prize winner)

Yes, Donalda—a Pet Peeve Department would certainly start things. However, I doubt if we need to suggest it—human nature being what it is. But how about a PET PRAISE DEPARTMENT? There's a really novel idea. Suppose, for just one week, you vowed to mention ONLY THE NICE THINGS in the other fellow's program....TO SAY ONLY LOVING, HELPFUL WORDS AND SEAL YOUR LIPS AGAINST ALL OTHERS? Ever try it? You'd be surprised to see what miracles it works.

* * *

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"I'd like to ask the girls of America to accept a challenge—not from me but from life. I DARE YOU TO STOP PRETENDING . . . TO BE NATURAL AND GIVE NATURE A CHANCE?

"It's all very well to be dainty and make yourself as pretty as you can. BUT WHY THESE EXCESSIVE MAKE-UPS . . . THE TORTURE YOU ENDURE WITH HIGH HEELS, THE TIME YOU WASTE CONSTANTLY FUSSING OVER YOURSELVES?

"Why don't you think more about the way you LIVE than the way you LOOK? Life has so much to give to those who will stop posing and pretending and go after the fundamental things —companionship, love, the adventure of building a home and having a family. As for beauty —instead of banking on your 'false fronts' why not try living in harmony with the laws of health? With the right kind of living, eating and thinking you'd look as beautiful at six in the morning as nine in the evening and 'hold your man' far more surely.

"It seems to me that this artificiality is the cause of much of the increase in divorce and mismating. The Pretenses are carried on until marriage, and then, when the real self becomes known, the disillusionments and discord begin. It need never have been so, if the parties involved had given their true selves a chance."

Arling O. Kressler—age 27,
Allentown, Pa.
($10 prize winner)

And last comes young Mrs. William Burrow, of Aurora, N. Y., with a question many will echo.

"WHAT," she asks, 'HAS HAPPENED TO THE YOUNG MARRIED COUPLES WHO ONCE ENJOYED A SUNDAY OUTING OR FAMILY DINNER WITH THEIR CHILDREN AND OLD FOLKS AROUND THEM?

"Nowadays they park their children somewhere, take in as many beer gardens as they can, and land home at four in the morning. Even card parties are filled with the escapades of last Saturday night, and end in drunkenness and vile talk. AND ANYONE WHO DOESN'T LIKE THIS IS CONSIDERED A PRUDE, AND ISN'T ASKED AGAIN!

Mrs. William Burrow, age 28,
Aurora, N. Y.
($5 prize winner)

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

OLD LYME, Conn.—This has been a lazy man's day, and at being lazy I can give the natives a head start and win hands down.

We got up this morning about 8:30 and then went down on the shaded patio and rested awhile. Then we strolled over to the dining room and had a simple breakfast composed of fruit juice, cantaloupe, bacon, eggs, hot rolls, butter, marmalade and coffee. Then we went back to the patio and rested some more while having a smoke, and after that we got into bathing suits, climbed into the car, and lit out for the beach.

I suppose the Boxwood beach where we swim is about two miles from the inn. It isn't the prettiest beach in the world, but it is private and it is comfortable and there is a big hot sun and a lot of hot sand and all the water even a greedy swimmer might care for. There is, in fact, all of Long Island Sound, and on clear days you can look across ten miles of salt water and see the the tip of Long Island.

WELL, after we got to the beach we spread blankets and then stretched out in the sun to have a nap and rest some more. And then we shifted so that we could get burned all over, and after that we went in swimming. The Sound isn't as rough as the ocean, but it is just as salty. The Island serves as a bumper for the big breakers, so that usually we get only gentle swells and white caps of a minor order.

It was while taking these swells in the shallows near shore that the one jarring note of the day took place. A big eel scared the pants off me. It swam right past me and I thought it was a big snake until Harrison Wood, my host, explained.

While we were resting we suddenly discovered a three-masted sailing vessel bowling along far out in the sound. Some of the guests thought it might be the Corsair, J. P. Morgan's magnificent yacht, but Morgan is in Europe and the Corsair has a black hull. This one was snow white, and the last we saw of her she tipped towards the Connecticut river and disappeared into its maw.

About 12 o'clock we got lazily into the car and went back to the Inn, where we dressed and then had a fine turkey dinner. And after dinner of course we were tired, so we sat in the shade and refreshed ourselves and then went back to the beach again.

IT WAS during the afternoon swim that one of those sudden, inexplicable fogs came up. One minute the sun was bright and the world was a continuous glare. And a moment later, so quickly that we were taken unawares, all of it was blotted out. You couldn't even see the diving raft a couple of hundred yards out. Everything disappeared under a blanket of fog-cloud. To a landlubber like myself it was a phenomenon but nobody else thought anything about it. In half an hour perhaps it was gone again, leaving the Sound crystal clear and the beach more glary than ever.

I almost forgot the most important thing of all. During the fog a great tanker lost her bearings and almost ran aground on the sandbars. She was within a hundred yards of us before we noticed her, a white ghostly hulk looming through the mists. But there was no real damage. A group of shoremen magically appeared and helped push her off, and the last we saw of her she was a grey blot in the fog.

East Side Water Collection Ends, 90 Per Cent Pay Up.

With more than 90 per cent of the 3,500 east side water and sewer rental bills paid, the water department closed its collection today with approximately $25,000 of the $30,000 billing paid, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage departments, announced.

Of the total collections, approximately $18,000 represented water bills while $7,000 was in sewer rentals. The billing included $19,898 in water and $9,425 in sewer rental.

Lingafelter said those who failed to make payment during the collection period which was extended five days through Saturday now will be subject to the usual 10 per cent penalty as provided in the city ordinance.

FARM PICNIC SET

County Outing to Be Held at Fairground, Aug. 18.

Plans were going forward today for the first Richland county farm picnic which will be held Thursday, Aug. 18, at the county fairground.

Hundreds of county farmers and their families are expected to attend the all-day outing which is being arranged by representatives of farm organizations and 4-H clubs.

The day's program will include ball games and other athletic contests, band concerts and talks on subjects of interest to rural residents, County Agent George B. Ganyard said.

To keep paint fresh in uncovered cans fill them to the top with water after stirring the paint thoroughly. When needed pour off the water with care.

Modified Form of Air Conditioning Available Now

Air conditioning equipment, such as is now installed in theaters, stores, sleeping cars, restaurants, etc., is a rather expensive installation. Yet, a modified form of air conditioning is now available to practically every home owner.

That air conditioning is wanted by home owners there can be little doubt because recently of 11,000 families interviewed, 65 per cent said that they would like very much to have such a system, and 30 per cent said that they must have such a system and were going to have it as soon as they could afford it.

As described by a prominent heating engineer, air conditioning amounts to this:

"In the winter you heat a certain volume of air to a certain temperature and through a pipe is forced into a room. Directly across the room, near the floor another pipe is used to draw out the air. In the summer time, the same pipes are used but the air must be cooled to a low temperature before it is sent to a room and the warm air is withdrawn through the exhaust pipe.

"The average home owner cannot afford a complete air conditioning system that cools in the summer and heats in the winter, largely because the plant itself is rather expensive. A modification of this plant is not costly. In the winter months, warm air can be inexpensively developed from an ordinary furnace and withdrawn after it is cooled. In the summer the house may be closed—practically sealed—and cool basement air can be circulated in every room in the house three or four times an hour.

The movement of the air tends to make you more comfortable and the cost of this summer service is seldom more than $1 or $2 a month, which is the cost of the electricity used to operate the fan which circulates the air."

The Charles Hoffman company, 106 North Walnut stheet, cooperating with the Williamson Heater company, has installed a free heating check-up service that is now offered to every family in this community.

Factory engineers working with Hoffman representatives make a complete examination of any home and prescribe for both heating as well as air conditioning problems without obligation.

Safety Facts Drivers Should Know

1 BLIND CORNERS — Danger lurks at every crossing—danger to you. Sometimes there is a friendly warning. "Bad Corner," but sometimes there is not. Overconfident drivers often find that blind corners are deathtraps. The experienced driver approaches every intersection at such speed that in an emergency he can stop before a collision occurs

2 THE RIGHT OF WAY—In the absence of traffic signals the driver approaching from the right has the right of way at an intersection, but it's never wise to take risks by insisting upon this right.

3 STARTING — Before pulling away from the curb or parking space always look to the rear as well as ahead, and give ample warning of your intention to move. Rolling backwards, when starting on upgrades, can be overcome by engaging the clutch gradually and releasing the brake at the same time.

4 STOPPING—To avoid emergency stops and unnecessary wear on brakes, form the habit of watching the traffic light changes and of anticipating the actions of other drivers and pedestrians. Always stop the engine and set the hand brake when leaving your car unattended.

5 PARKING BETWEEN CARS —You can park in small spaces with little effort if you first drive alongside and close to the car ahead. Next, cut your wheels sharply right, and back until your front right bumper just clears the rear left bumper on the car ahead. Then, cut your wheels sharply left, backing slowly until alongside the curb

6 PARKING IN THE COUNTRY—Competent drivers do not park near the crest of a hill nor on a curve. Whenever they can avoid it, they do not park on the paved part of the highway. At night they watch out for the man who obscures his tail light when parked on the highway for repairs.

7 BACKING—It is dangerous to back, particularly out of a driveway, unless you are positive that the way behind your car is clear. Even then, back slowly and keep a sharp lookout behind.

8 PEDESTRIANS AND GREEN LIGHTS — Pedestrians crossing an intersection when the traffic light is in their favor have the right of way over vehicles making turns.

9 HEADLIGHTS — Improperly focused headlights are both discourteous and dangerous. Considerate drivers have their headlights tested and adjusted at frequent intervals.

10 CARBON MONOXIDE GAS —This is the deadly odorless gas that is given off by automobile exhausts. To prevent being overcome by this gas, always open garage doors before starting your motor—no matter how cold it is outside. Leaky exhausts and heaters are dangerous because they may permit this deadly gas to escape into the car. Always keep a window open.

2 WORKERS LOSE LIVES IN JUNE

Two Richland county industrial workers died during June as the result of injuries suffered while at work, the Ohio Industrial commission reported today.

County workers filed 141 claims with the commission during the month. Three reported injuries causing permanent partial disability, 27 were for more than seven days lost time, 12 for seven days or less, and 97 were medical only cases

Total time lost by county workers during the month because of injuries was 14,010 days.

LAUNDRY TUBS USED EVERY DAY

Stationary wash tubs can be made to work every day in the week by the installation of several handy adjuncts.

The wash tub can be enclosed on sides and at the bottom in a cabinet which will afford a storage space for little-used utensils, cases, and those patent kitchen appliances that the husband will bring home from time to time A plain wooden top, which can be used for cutting, chopping, and preparing vegetables and meats, is also a worth-while addition.

TAXES $24 PER MINUTE

The annual report of a large Eastern power company disclosed that its tax bill is $61,000 a day or $24 per minute for every minute in the year.

AIR CONDITIONED CARS

The railroads and the Pullman company now have 1,168 air-conditioned passenger cars in operation.

CHEAPER TIRES

Tires which in the infancy of the auto industry cost $40 now sell for $12.

Total tax collections are estimated at $10,498,000,000 for 1936, and at approximately $12,300,000,000, including Social Security taxes for 1937.

Your Watch Ticks 432,000 Times Every Day

Did you know that—

The balance wheel of the average watch "ticks" (oscillates) 5 times a second, 300 times a minute, 18,000 times an hour, 432,000 times a day, and 157,680,000 times a year.

"Such constant activity requires regular lubrication and the finest oil," H. S. Them, veteran Mansfield watch specialist, says.

"If a watch runs as close as ONE MINUTE a month (many fine watches do) each "tick" of the balance wheel is made with a constant accuracy of 1-216 thousandth part of a second," he points out.

"Precision such as this is obtained only from fine watches in fine mechanical order approaching perfection."

Mr. Them adds that much confusion exists about winding watches,, "too tight." The fact is, he says, that it is impossible to wind a modern watch too tight. It should be wound up full every 24 hours.

Mr. Them has been repairing watches in Mansfield for more than 17 years and operates a watch repair service on the fifth floor of the Walpark building. Work is called for and delivered.

NEW MOTOR

Operated by a motor, a new type of switch for controlling lights and other electrical circuits, has been on test for three and a half years. Its mechanism has been rocked back and forth, opening and closing its circuit once every second. By June the switch will have been operated 140,000,000 miles.

ROOSEVELT AND PARTY MEET 'KING NEPTUNE' OF PACIFIC

(By International News Service)

ABOARD THE U. S S HOUSTON, EN ROUTE TO ALBERMARLE ISLAND, Galapagos Group (Via Navy Radio)—After more than a week of bickering the pollywog members of President Roosevelt's staff met up with the loyal members of King Neptune's realm today as the cruiser Houston steamed from Sullivan Bay, San Salvador island, to Albermarle island.

There were plenty of charges against members of the presidential party, and Davey Jones as high ambassador for Neptunus Rex, saw that justice was meted out today in accordance with sentences passed at the court-martial held last night, soon after he boarded the ship.

Stephen E Early, secretary of the president, was one of the chief offenders under charges prepared by Senior Shellback Roosevelt and reported to Davey Jones. As a result, Early was meted out the "royal works" by Shellbacks.

Everything from the electric chair, stocks, operating tables, the "royal dentist's" mouthwash and the tank was administered to the unfortunates who had never crossed the equator before, together with good old-fashioned swats from canvas beaters in hands of long rows of shellbacks

Mr. Roosevelt stretched himself under a canvas awning where as senior shellback he could see the proceedings and enliven it from time to time as some especially recalcitrant pollywog needed extra discipline

Anchored in Sullivan bay, where Prof Charles Darwin first developed his theory of the evolution of man during a visit aboard the Beagle in 1835 President Roosevelt slept a few miles south of the equator last night

Are Girls Opposed to Petting?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Are girls on the point of a strike against obligatory petting?

It's my impression that if boys don't watch out, they're going to have to deal with just this situation.

Let me explain what I mean.

Imagine a little party or dance where girls have taken some pains to make themselves look as charming as possible. They've freshened up their permanents and brightened their complexions and put on becoming dreses. They are radiant with smiles.

Every girl at such a party naturally hopes that some boy will especially admire her. If one does, and says so, she feels that she's a success. If these two find that they like each other and if, before the evening is over, the boy wants to kiss his pretty partner, it's not very likely that she will object. On the contrary, the spontaneous wish to make innocent love to her flatters and pleases her.

But in allowing herself to be petted, the girl interprets it as the boy's way of telling her that he finds her pretty and sweet and nice. And she doesn't grant the privilege unless she herself likes the boy and trusts him. In other words, the matter is in the girl's hands.

But there's another way of looking at this mater of petting, and it's this view that's causing resentment among a good many girls. It's the view held by hard-boiled youths who feel that they're the dictators of whatever social life they condescend to lead. Don't they choose the girl they take out in the evening, and doesn't she have to conform closely to their specifications in looks, dress and manner? Don't they themselves, without reference to any posible choice of hers, decide on the kind of entertainment they offer her? Don't they buy the movie-tickets, pay for meals and taxi-fares?

It's the girl's part, then, to argue, to fall in line and do whatever may be suggested to her.

And if the lordly host happens to feel like petting his girl guest, she must assent with good grace.

Her expenses have been paid, haven't they? She has had a competent escort, hasn't she? Well, now it's her turn, (according to this masculine type). She must pet; she has no choice. Otherwise she will be socially blacklisted. Neither this escort nor any other of the same type will take her out again.

If she belongs to a group or community where this notion prevails, a girl must either submit to it or spend lonely evenings. That is, if she is alone in objecting to the idea.

But I am told that gradually girls who could make no effective protest single-handed are confiding their resentment to each other with the hope of jointly withstanding enforced love-making. Let us hope that they will succeed.

It isn't fair to call these girls prudish. They aren't. They have grown up in a world where kissing was more or less taken for granted. They think kissing is natural and pleasant—as long as you can choose whom you kiss and who it is that kisses you. To be obliged to submit to petting by a youth who may not in the least attract them, because he exacts it as his due, seems to them an experience no girl should be asked to face.

If you were a lonely boy in search of a petting-partner, wouldn't you hope to find one whose assent really meant something—who had retained the power of independent choice?

Or would you prefer to make love to an intimidated dummy?

NOTES IN THE DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

WE ARE sailing tomorrow, and it's not too soon for me. It has been terribly hot, and I really did feel the heat. Perhaps it is because I have been in the city during the hot, sticky weeks. And I've had a lot of running around to do, since there are always so many last-minute details to take care of.

The apartment is closed and I guess I won't see it for many weeks. I got rid of a lot of stuff that had accumulated during the year, and going through the table in the foyer I found a note from Bill that I Never received. In it he asked me if I would have dinner with him, that he had some very important clients coming into town and that he hoped that I would do him the favor of making up the foursome.

Feels Dreadful.

Well, I just don't know what to think! I feel dreadful about it. He must think that I am a very ill-bred person not to even answer such a note. I remember distinctly when that couple were here. Apparently Bill had received the commission to design a house for them, and they had come to town to discuss the plans with him. Naturally, he would wish to invite them to dinner and thought of me to make up a foursome. I think that Bill is a sweet soul that he didn't as much as mention all this to me. All I can say is that time has changed him. Formerly, there would have been a first-class row about it.

I dashed to the telephone and called him. But I was told that he was out of town and would not be back for weeks. So I sat down and wrote him an explanatory letter, enclosing the note in its dusty crushed envelope just as I had found it. I daresay the maid put it in the drawer, meaning to give it to me, then forgot all about it.

Here's a coat that Consuelo bought in Europe for wear along the Riviera. She liked it so much that she sent me a sketch and description. It is of fine white flannel with royal blue triangular pieces that turn back at collar and pockets. It's worn with royal blue linen dress wth triangular tabs at the neck.

If you want to make sure of good peonies next year, don't overlook the necessity of applying water generously to the plants now. Many people seem to think that because the blooming season is over it is not necessary to give any water until next spring. This is altogether a mistake, because it is right now that the plants are forming their next year's shoots, as could be learned by examining the roots. These shoots contain flower buds which will develop next season, and the stronger the growth now, the better will be the bloom. It also pays to fertilize the peony plants at this season, using bone meal or manure water. The novice is often surprised to see the improvement in his flowers which follows a little extra attention of this kind.

Lip Tinting Requires Care

By MME. QUI VIVE

With beauty fads, it is usually a case of hello and bye-bye; they don't linger long. That hasn't happened to the lipstick. It started on its rosy career after the termination of the World war. That means it has been flaunting its crimson banners for nearly twenty years. Up to 1918 nice girls didn't "paint their faces." That's what everybody thought. Plenty of nice girls did paint; they were so slick and sly about it nobody suspected that their facial coloring wasn't home grown. Timid darlings pinched their cheeks to make them pink, bit their lips. Sounds naive these days. Weren't girls quaint in the olden times?

If the goddess of beauty has a fairy wand it is the lipstick. Used discreetly with a keen eye and a steady hand, it "does things." Say what you will about aged women looking silly with tinted lips, I've seen many of them past sixty who looked stunning with restrained mouth decorations. It depends upon the woman. If clothes are chic, carriage erect, hat sassy, why not the batik?

Young girls fall into line; there's no reason why they shouldn't. Mama do, daughter do. If the color selected is not too vivid, the effect is enhancing.

Line up a dozen women who rely upon the lipstick, the same number who are scornful of artifice, and you will come to the conclusion that naturalness may be all right but can stand improvement. We're not fluanting Chinese red any more or scarlet; we're contenting ourselves with softer tints. Fuchsia is popular; so are orange reds. The first is effective with a pale complexion, the others are grand with the skin that has been toasted in the sunlight and bitten by the winds.

Use a lipstick that has a flattened point. Use the sharp edge to outline the lips. Make two dabs in the center of the upper lip, one in the center of the lower one, smooth the pigment toward the lip ends with the fingers.

Break into a nice wide grin, so you'll get in the creases. Give a light film to the inner surfaces. Not too much. A blot of lip rouge on the teeth is no beauty spot.

If you use coloring on the cheeks we implore you to have it friendly to the lip polish. Rosy cheeks and nasturtium mouth portals are enough to put the optic nerve in a dither. If you are an addict of eye shadows, see that they don't start a color war with your lipstick.

When making up your mouth, don't rush. Don't think you can make a good job of retouching with a purse mirror. Careless, slipshod makeup brands one as lacking in fastidiousness. Be fussy. Take your time. Use your head.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I ACQUIT myself of being as much of a melodrama lover as either my maid or my mother-in-law, but I must confess that little thrills of excitement ran up and down my spine at the request of the captain of the state troopers for Jim because of his ability to advise the cordon of guards around the farmhouse as to the identity of our friends and tradesmen.

'Here's the idea, Mrs. Graham," the captain said deferentially, and I realized that he did not think Dickey had been explicit enough in explanation. "We want to make this thing airtight, so that nobody not wanted can get into the farmhouse tonight. But on the other hand, we do not want the news of your expected guests leaking out—your father's message said there would be people arriving secretly at the farmhouse tonight—and so we do not want to stop anybody that you know from driving in. You people will have to manage them after they get here, if anybody does come, but you see, don't you, that it wouldn't look so good if we stopped everybody you know from coming in?"

He stopped, literally for breath, and I had a sudden mirthful vision of the faces of some of our friends if they should be stopped and turned back at the entrance to the farmhouse by state troopers.

"We have very few visitors," I told him truthfully, "and I think it extremely unlikely that anyone will come to the farmhouse tonight. But Jim knows every face and name for miles around, and he can be counted on not only to follow your instructions implicitly, but to use discretion if he is momentarily left to his own devices."

"He'll be on his own a lot," the captain rejoined, "for we're all keeping out of sight as much as possible. So it's a good thing he's discreet. Did you say he was somewhere around?"

I had not said, as he very well knew, but I promptly gave him the answer he wished.

Dicky Offers To Go.

"He's upstairs shifting bods," I said. "I'll call him at once."

"You forget that you have a perfectly good and able-bodied husband," Dicky said, plucking my sleeve with an efficient restraining hand as I started for the door. "Sit down or go on with whatever you are doing. I'll get Jim. Which room?"

"Mary's and—thank you," I told him smiling. He was out of the door on the word, and back again with Jim in tow before the captain had finished a panegyric on my father, whom he evidently considered the last word in ability.

"There's no one can touch him—nobody," he declared as Dicky ushered Jim in.

"Here's your man," Dicky said, "and I've told him he's absolutely under your orders until further notice."

"All right, Jim," the captain said genially, "I'll try not to overwork you. But we'd better get going. If you'll excuse us, Mrs. Graham."

He bowed himself to quite an impressive exit, and Dicky chuckled when the door closed behind him.

"You sure do slay 'em, old Dear," he said, and my involuntary embarrassment at the gibe was tempered by the realization that the excitement had been instrumental in banishing temporarily his brooding over the menace hanging over him, vague and abstract to me, but evidently most concrete to him.

"What do you think this all means"? he queried me abruptly.

"I haven't the slighest idea," I said truthfully.

"Refugees of some sort, of course," he said.

"Or perhaps prisoners," I countered with a smile, and then, at his look of astonishment, told him of Katie's fantistic theory.

"She's there with the wild-eyed theories, all right," he said. "Lucky Mother isn't awake. We'd have some real guesses then."

"I am not in the habit of guessing, Richard," his mother said loftily from the doorway. "And may I ask what is the reason for all this commotion?"

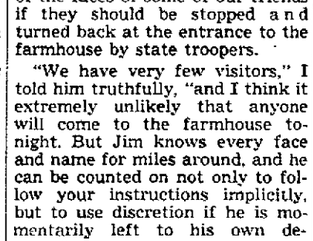
"The Authority on Authorities"

BACK YOUR JUDGMENT

EVEN IF the suit is weak, a major contract with four trumps each in your own hand and dummy usually is preferable to no trump, especially if one of the two holdings is made up of unbalanced distribution containing a singleton. When you have bid a weak four-carder and your partner has supported it a couple of times, you can be doubly sure that he has enough trumps for safety and should forget no trump.



(Dealer: North, East-West vulnerable).

When North opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Club South responded with 1-Heart. After a bid of 2-Hearts by North, South went to 2-No Trunmps. In spite of a 3-Heart bid by North, South went to 3-No Trumps. His insistence on No Trump was due to the fact that he felt North could not realize how weak the suit really was.

He made a mistake by taking the contract into no trump, for a spade was led and won with East's K. This was followed by the spade 10 and then the 6, which South won with the A. He tried the club finesse and, when that failed, two more spades were lost.

Had South allowed the hand to play in hearts, only three tricks would have been lost.

What is the best defense against South's 3-No Trumps contract when South holds up his ace on the first club lead?

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, July 26.

THE LUNAR transits operating on this day point to rather lively conditions, with much stirring about in pursuit of out-of-the-ordinary activities. There may be journeys and changes, and while business seems to be under favorable auspices, yet progress may be postponed because of a death or other bereavement or sorrow.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a rather lively and probably eventful year, with new business and general affairs progressing, but these may be held up by sorrow, bereavement or loss. Change and a journey seem likely, in which strangers or new plans may probably have important bearing on the future.

A child born on this day should be versatile, fond of new things, places and persons, although serious, steady and dependable.

THEATER

THE technical end of picture making, which is little publicized, has as much grief to contend with as the handling of temperamental stars. "Room Service," the Marx Brothers' expensive comedy, is an example. One of the important comedy scenes is that in which the three Marxes are marooned in a hotel room and don't know where their next meal is coming from. Suddenly, a nice big fat turkey stalks into the room and the Mad Marxes chase it with the obvious intention of making a meal on it. But the Humane Society of America forbids pictures showing an implied cruelty to an animal or fowl. So what? The property department has to have a turkey killed and stuffed, its wings fixed to operate with a small motor. The stuffed turkey is operated on a series of invisible wires for the chase. It's cruel to chase a live turkey, but all right to kill it and chase its corpse. But the corpse will look very real when you see it.

Inside View of Life.

An intimate, inside view of the life of an average American family is blazoned on the screen in "Love Finds Andy Hardy," fourth in the series of Judge Hardy pictures, and which the Madison presents through Wednesday. The story, a simple telling of domestic entanglements, tells of the young man of the family who not only braves his father's wrath by buying a second hand car without his permission, but gets pretty well tangled up with three girls at the same time. Lewis Stone is the kindly, discerning judge, head of a typical family of five. Mickey Rooney is given the biggest part he has played thus far in the series, as the young man of the family. His girl friends are Judy Garland, Lana Turner and Ann Rutherford.

Musical Film Fiesta.

An all-star cast headed by Bob Burns, Martha Raye, Ray Milland, and Dorothy Lamour, a setting in romantic southern Mexico, six new songs from Mexico's most popular composer, and gay story about the mad people of Hollywood are the main attractions in the musical film fiesta, "Tropic Holiday," which the Ohio offers the first half of the week. A bored Hollywood writer sets out for a tropic holiday and finds Dorothy Lamour with a few more clothes than she has been wearing in her recent pictures. Martha Raye also goes native in her own particular way until rescued by her fiance, Bob Burns, the "gentleman from Oklahoma."

Mystery Comedy.

A whole bank full of extortion money, with half the town's leading citizens under suspicion in a wierd series of clueless crimes, is the pivot around which the story of "One Wild Night" revolves. June Lang plays an irresponsible newspaper reporter out in search of the Great Scoop, while Dick Baldwin is an amateur detective. It is a mystery story but there's comedy in it when good citizens begin putting marked extortion money into collection plates, department stores, and barber shops. Before the mystery is solved every one in the audience suspects everyone in the picture. It opens at the Majestic Tuesday, with a Will Rogers re-issue, "The County Chairman" as the second feature.

Deanna Durbin at Ritz.

Lovely Deanna Durbin brings her charm and her splendid voice to the Ritz the middle of the week, in "Mad About Music." Herbert Marshall as the adopted father, Arthur Treacher as the butler-valet and Gail Patrick as the Hollywood star who can't let the world know that she had a daughter, are the major characters in support of Miss Durbin, who is shown as a lonely youngster in a girl's school in Switzerland. When she invents a father and has to make good, she produces Marshall. Besides a number of old favorites, she sings three new songs, "I Love to Whistle," "Chapel Bells" and Serenade to the Stars." The beautifully colored romantic drama, "God's Country and the Woman" with George Brent and Beverly Roberts is also on the bill.

Asparagus casserole can be made by adding cooked asparagus to well-seasoned thick white sauce and baking the mixture in individual baking dishes. Serve them on the main plate.

BRITISH RUSH TROOPS INTO TRAGEDY AREA

(By United Press)

JERUSALEM—A bomb of terrific power exploded in an Arab crowd at the vegetable market at Haifa today and exacted a toll of casualties expected to surpass that in any of the long series of outbreaks between Jews and Arabs.

The exchange telegraph of London reported 42 Arabs killed and 50 wounded.

Public and private hospitals were overtaxed and British authorities opened a field hospital in a school to take care of the overflow of casualties.

Police, soldiers and marines from the British battle cruiser Repulse were sent to emergency duty in the disaster area and British troop reinforcements were called from other parts of Palestine as maddened Arabs, who had seen wives, sweethearts, fathers and sons torn to pieces began setting fire to Jewish shops.

Crowds Disbanded.

Jews began closing their shops and other businesses voluntarily, but British authorities, fearing an explosion of racial hatred that would get beyond all bounds, imposed a day time curfew to keep crowds from congregating.

This was the third, and most serious incident of this sort this month, and the second at Haifa. On July 6 a bomb was thrown into a mixed crowd of Arabs and Jews at the Haifa vegetable market. In a day of frenzied rioting which this outrage caused, 18 Arabs and two Jews were killed and 60 Arabs and Jews wounded. On July 15 a bomb was thrown into an Arab crowd in the vegetable market here and eight Arabs were killed and 12 wounded.

There was a frightful explosion.

Scene of Slaughter.

In a moment, the colorful market was changed into a sickening scene of slaughter. Human limbs, heads and torsos were mingled with the melons and vegetables from the market stalls and the bodies of donkeys and camels.

The scene was such a frightful one that the rescue workers put corpses and limbless bodies of the dying into ambulance with those less seriously wounded, believing that it was better to send all victims to hospitals for classification.

News was received later of a clash in which one Jew was killed and six were wounded near Mt. Carmel when a bus, proceeding to Haifa, was halted by a road barricade and fired upon by men in ambush.

Can Anyone Beat Family of 13 In Madison Contest?

If there is any farmer in Richland county who can boast of more than 13 in his family he'd better hurry up and register for the Big Family contest at the Madison theater before 6 p. m. Tuesday for one contestant, apparently without fear of the "unlucky 13," has registered that number.

He is R. O. Smith, R. F. D. 3, Shelby, who has 11 children and two adults. The children range in age from one to 24. The next closest entry is Walter Maglott, R. D. 6, Mansfield, who offers nine in the family. There are a number of other entries, but all out-pointed by Smith.

The contest is being conducted by Manager William Dworski in connection with his current picture feature, "Love Finds Andy Hardy," and which the winning family will have an opportunity to see Wednesday night.

To date there have been four families entered in the contest, which is for the largest farm family in the county, counting only the immediate members. Children may be married or single.

The winning family will be brought to Mansfield Wednesday evening in motor cars, taken out to dinner, given flowers and candy, taken to the show and given an ice cream treat afterward, and then returned to their home.

Flood Waters Recede Along Atlantic Coast

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfield Girl Scouts demonstrated last week that their training in resourcefulness and self-reliance really has practical value. They were cooking their own dinners in the woods back of the Girl Scout camp on South Diamond street when a sudden shower came up and soaked their clothing before they could get back to the camp building. Nothing daunted, they fashioned primitive clothing out of gunny sacks and put them on while their own clothing dried before the fire.

Finger-printing is not guaranteed to help in finding Little Johnny or Mary if they get lost at the Richland county fair this week, but visitors will have an opportunity to be fingerprinted, and free of charge, too. The county Red Cross will provide the service, with Herbert S. Garnes, jr., president of the Junior Red Cross council, in charge. A copy of the print will be sent to Washington for filing in the civilian records and another will be given to the person whose finger lines are recorded.

Hitch-hikers are working out some new methods for soliciting rides from motorists, and two of them seen in widely separated sections of the city today both had landed on the same idea. One had the question "Delphos?" painted on the side of his traveling bag, and the other carried a poster with the wording "Chippewa Lake?" They "thumbed" for rides by hoisting the signs in front of motorists as they passed them on the road. Their schemes attracted attention, if nothing else.

Residents on Sturges avenue hill need not be told that The News-Journal Soap Box Derby is approaching. They came to realize this fact over the week-end when the lanes for the coasting race were painted on the slope in preparation for the derby on Wednesday, Aug. 3 Employes of the state highway department did the work, and judging from the way the paint wore last year, the lanes will still be there several months after the race to remind Mansfielders of the Derby.

ATTACK FATAL

Heart Ailment Causes Death of Mrs. Harriet Bolus.

Mrs. Harriet A. Bolus, wife of Harry S. Bolus, 33 Elmwood drive, died at her home Saturday evening as the result of a heart attack. Although she had been in ill health for some time, her death came unexpectedly.

Mrs. Bolus was born in Butler and had lived in Mansfield for 41 years. At one time she and her husband were in vaudeville and traveled extensively over the country. In later years she spent much of her time in Florida with Mr. Bolus.

Surviving are her husband, two sisters, Mrs. Harry M. Martin and Mrs. Claude M. Hunter of Mansfield, and three brothers, James Wilson, North Hollywood, Cal., Walter M. Wilson, Shelby, and D. L. Wilson, Butler.

The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Rev. C. L. Kerns, pastor of South Main Evangelical church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

LAWYERS HEAR LEADER'S PLEA

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—The American Bar association opened its 61st annual convention today with President Arthur T. Vanderbilt, of Newark, N. J., exhorting the nation's lawyers to meet the "challenge of intolerance" by perfecting judicial administration.

Vanderbilt, delivering his opening address of the five-day convention to an estimated 5,000 delegates, warnet them of a "world-wide struggle for economic freedom."

He said the organized bar must mobilize a united front to perfect the processes of judicial administration, "in both our traditional courts and in the newer administrative tribunals." This can be achieved, he said, by fighting for the "maintenance" of the courts' and tribunals' "independence and in tegrity."

"The entire world seems to be dividing into two classes," Vanderbilt said. "On believing that whatever is, is right; the other believing that whatever is, is wrong."

Describing the constitutional courts system as "the bulwark of individual freedom," Vanderbilt deplored what he termed the "sorely tried" faith of the American people in their courts. He blamed "inexcusable delays" in erecting pleadings, bringing cases for trial and decisions based on "outmoded technicalities, occasionally by judicial inefficiency, or, even worse, by judicial bad manners.

DEATH CLAIMS JOHN HECKLER

Bucyrus Water Works Employe For 50 Years Dies at Age 77.

BUCYRUS — John Heckler, 77, stationary engineer at the Bucyrus water works for more than 50 years, died at his home, 155 North Sandusky avenue, today. He had been confined since April when he underwent a major operation.

Mr. Heckler was born in Germany, Jan. 17, 1861, and came to this country at the age of 18.

His wife, Susan; two daughters, Marie and Harriett at home; three sons, John of Sidney, George of Bucyrus and Albert of Chillicothe, and six grandchildren, survive. He was a member of the St. John's Reformed church and Bucyrus 50-Year club. Funeral services will be held Wednesday. Other arrangements have not been completed.

PLANT RE-OPENS

Portsmouth Shoe Company Starts After Strike Settlement.

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—The Selby Shoe factory, idle since July 13 when two CIO locals called a strike over wages, resumed operations today as the result of an employes' profit-sharing agreement. Officials said they expected the full force of 2,600 to be back at work within a few days.

EXPECTS ROOSEVELT TO SEEK THIRD TERM, BUT NOT GET IT

WASHINGTON—Senator Vandenberg (R.,Mich.) expressed the opinion today that President Roosevelt would seek a third term.

"I expect him to try," Vandenberg said, "but I do not expect him to succeed."

The statement was contained in a letter which the senator wrote to a Michigan constituent and which was made public by a friend here.

It came in the midst of speculation over third term possibilities.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan declared in a speech at Traverse City, Mich., yesterday that "we may have to draft the president for four more years of leadership."

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, asserted last week that WPA Administrator Hopkins actually had launched a third-term movement when he told reporters 90 per cent of those on relief were for the president.

Hopkins' remark has attracted the attention of the senate campaign expenditures committee.

Committee Chairman Sheppard (MD-Tex.) called members to meet this week to consider whether action should be taken on this and other matters, including a complaint by Gov. William Langer of North Dakota that relief workers were intimidated during the recent state primary.

Vanderburg, who is in Michigan, wrote that "I may be forgiven for commenting upon the opposition's presidential problem inasmuch as Mr. Farley (Democratic national chairman) has so freely commented upon ours."

He said Mr. Roosevelt "may be stopped in his own Democratic convention where the more literal Jeffersonians will cling to their party founders' horror of any such imperial tenure."

ED. E. SPAIN DIES

Resident of City for 40 Years to Be Buried Tuesday.

Funeral services for Ed E. Spain, 70, a resident of Mansfield 40 years, who died Saturday at his home, 151 East Third street, after a brief illness, will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Linton Mattox of Mansfield officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Mr. Spain was born in North Lewisburg, Nov. 14, 1867. He was a member of the Last Survivors club of that community, a group of former school boys who formed the organization more than 50 years ago. They met every New Year's eve in Lewisburg, and Mr. Spain had attended every meeting except the last two.

During the 1890's he played professional baseball and was a member of the Mansfield club of the old Inter-State league for several years. Fraternally, he was associated with the Owls and the Eagles lodges.

Surviving are his wife, Ada; a son, Eugene of Mt. Vernon; a daughter, Mrs. Edward Mattox of Mansfield, and two grandchildren, Peggy and Thomas Mattox of Mansfield. The body is at the funeral home.

DEATH RULED SUICIDE

HUNDREDS LOSE HOMES DURING 7 DAYS OF RAIN

(By International News Service)

Receding flood waters and cessation of rainfall brought happy smiles to inhabitants of eastern seaboard communities, who have seen little more than weeping skies for a week.

Prospects of clearing skies and generally fair weather for states that have been drenched by the record unseasonal rainstorms indicated definitely that the high pressure along the coast finally is weakening.

As the waters withdrew to rivers and creeks, highways were reopened and the extent of the storm's damage became more apparent. The loss to crops throughout New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, where the storm lingered longest and was most severe, will be heavy.

Stops In New York.

After seven days with hardly any letup, rainfall ceased in New York Sunday morning. It continued, however, throughout New England with Massachusetts and Rhode Island the chief targets, and along the south Atlantic coast and gulf states. The San Saba river in Texas continued its rampage, which has caused two deaths, leaving several hundred homeless.

Two dams gave way near New Haven, Conn., loosening 120,000,000 gallons of water that swept away four concrete bridges.

In many of the flood-stricken areas, orders were issued to boil all water before drinking it. Emergency rationing of water was decreed at Ambler, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia, when the borough's water pumps became submerged.

Generally, however, the worst of the storm has passed. All that remains are landslides, washed out highways and bridges, destroyed crops, damaged property and unsightly blotches of silt and muck.

HUNDREDS STORM-STRUCK

AUSTIN Tex.—(INS)—Rain swollen rivers falling below their damaging high water marks of the week-end cheered hundreds of sufferers in the flood ravaged areas of central and south Texts today.

Engineers predicted the worst of the present emergency had passed as the Conocho, San Saba and Colorado rivers dropped back beneath clearing skies.

ESCAPES DEATH

Bucyrus Man Hurt Slightly as Train Hits Car.

SHELBY—Robert Auck of Bucyrus narrowly escaped death at 11:10 p. m. Sunday when the car he was driving was struck by a west-bound passenger train at the Big Four railroad crossing on West Main street.

Auck was taken to the Shelby Memorial hospital where he was treated for slight cuts and bruises, hospital attaches stated.

The car driven by Auck was thrown more than 100 feet into the front yard of the Reedy residence on West Main street. Auck was rushed to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Witnesses told police that Auck, who was driving west over the tracks on Main street, apparently failed to see the signal lights which were working at the time of the accident. The roof of the car was torn off and the body damaged, police said.

E. P. CHARLTON DIES IN ASHLAND

Was Former Erie Ticket Clerk; Funeral Services Tuesday.

Born Aug. 2, 1866 in Jeromesville, Mr. Charlton had been a resident of Ashland county since 1904. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Surviving are his wife Louise, a son, Robert L. Charlton, and a granddaughter, all of Ashland. The body was removed to the Heyl funeral home where services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. A. A. Hunter, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

It Is Time To Make a Few Concessions To Hitler To Avoid Trouble With Him

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The time has come to recognize the existence of German minorities in certain areas of the United States, notably in New Jersey and specifically in the Yorkville section of New York City, and to head off trouble with Adolf Hitler by concessions to them. Otherwise Hitler eventually will send his armies in to complete the task of his political agents, whose work already is well advanced through the hyphen-American bunds, and these districts may be seized by force as Austria was.

In that event our national prestige and pride will be badly damaged, and the American minorities residing in these predominantly German neighborhoods will be punished as fiercely as the Austrian non-Nazis are today. We should placate the German minorities at any sacrifice.

The terms upon which this may be effected without bloodshed may be read in the demands which have been presented to the government of Czechoslovakia on behalf of Hitler's minority there.

First:—These German sections in our country must have complete territorial autonomy. Yorkville, a neighborhood in the city of New York, for example, must be recognized as an independent German state within the United States.

Second:—These German sections must be permitted to have their own armed police, organized on military lines, and the police of New York City must be withdrawn and kept out of Yorkville. The frontiers of Yorkville may be fortified against the United States, if the Nazis so desire, and members of the American minority who remain in Yorkville must accept the status of aliens, subject to the usual restrictions placed on foreigners in Germany.

Third:—These German sections shall be indemnified by the United States for any damage which they may believe they have suffered since 1918 through the imposition of the American form of government on their people.

Fourth:—The male youths of these sections shall receive Nazi pre-military training, so that if they should join the American army or navy they would join as Nazis, loyal to Hitler, drilled to the minute in treachery against the United States and qualified to act as spies and saboteurs in the service of the reich.

Fifth:—They shall have the right to impose additional taxes, especially on the members of the American minority in their midst.

Sixth:—There shall be full equality of national languages in the United States to the end that German may be made by law the official language of these districts of Jersey and New York City. Children of the American minority in the schools shall learn German, and the courts and all official records shall be conducted in that tongue.

Seventh:—All American officials holding public positions in these areas shall be discharged and Nazi substitutes shall be named by Adolph Hitler. Elsewhere, where there is a scattering of Nazis but a majority, Nazi officials shall be named in proportion to numbers. Not Americans of German descent nor honestly naturalized Germans but Nazi Germans.

As an eighth condition, not stated but implied in the terms which Hitler has presented to the national government of Czechoslovakia, all members of these Nazi minorities in our country shall have the full citizenship rights of Americans while giving their allegiance to Hitler.

This last condition need not be pressed because most of the Nazis of the Hitler minority now make a practice of taking out American citizenship in order that they may organize American societies under the Nazi banner and work for Hitler in the guise of Americans.

Hitler's political agents think this is the best way, and probably it is, because his minority in Austria claimed Austrian citizenship and its benefits while preparing to betray the country to Berlin. The Nazis in Czechoslovakia have done the same. Thus also the Nazis and young Nazis may hold military drills, goose-stepping and heiling Hitler under the American flag, and when criticized for this may swear that they are loyal Americans and were only holding a patriotic parade under their constitutional right of freedom to assemble.

There may be some Americans who will object to this proposal, but the sensible way will be to recognize that Hitler often has proclaimed that wherever any considerable body of Nazis are there is Germany and avowed his determination to redeem all his minorities in time. Our case is no different from that of Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

By PENNY SINGLETON

HOLLYWOOD—"Hi, Harvey," I hail the policeman at 6:45 a. m. at the gate of the Warner Brothers lot as I trundle past in my Ford. "I'm writing a column for Robbin Coons. Got any ideas?"

"You're right about that, Harvey," I retort, "anybody who knows A star is an influential person in Hollywood, no fooling."

"Yeh," he goes on, "a man offered to buy me the most expensive car in Hollywood if I'd let him in to see the boss—had a thousand dollars in bills in his pocket to prove it, too. But I like my old flivver and my job too well, I guess."

They say "contact" is the most over-worked word in Hollywood, and there's no doubt about it, I think to myself. The "contacts" even have a business of their own.

Look at the thriving business conducted by the guides to Movie Stars' Homes. They advertise their tours at stations along Sunset Boulevard. Last night, my phone rings and a man's voice at the end of the line wants to speak to Bill Powell. When I say he has the wrong number, he is so mad he nearly breaks the phone. "And I paid $15 for that number, too," he roars.

Just another one of the minor industries — selling movie stars' phone numbers—at a price.

I know a masseuse who tells me she could retire if she'd accept the bribes she's offered for introductions to some of her star customers.

While I'm parking my car in the studio garage the mechanic tells me he's about to hire a bodyguard.

"But why?" I say, looking at his 200 pounds.

"There have been three guys hounding me for a week trying to get me to recommend their garage service to Pat O'Brien and Anita Louise. I'm about to go nuts. Their chauffeurs are having the same trouble. People are always trying to bribe them for introductions."

By the time I've had my cup of coffee and am in the hair dressing room, it's 7:15. I'm plunked down under the dryer with my hair on curlers and decide to look at some magazines on the nearest stand. They're dated 1903-1912 and marked "Research—Bette Davis." I realize that they're the check for authentic hair styles for Bette's next picture, "The Sisters," which is laid in the 1903 period.

The hairdresser sees me looking at the picture and remarks, "That Bette is certainly popular. A little girl I know offered me ten bucks if I'd just let her come in and watch Bette have her hair dressed."

"Penny, Penny," booms a voice over the studio Public Address system. "Are you daydreaming? You're due on the set."

"Zowie," I think to myself, "that's a contact I'd better not forget."
